DISCUSS COMMONWEALTH AVE.

Aldermen Considering the Advisability of Asking State to Assume Care and Maintenance

What was supposed to be the last meeting of the aldermen before the usual summer vacation was held on Monday evening, but on account of the proposal to build a Junior High School, it was found necessary to adjourn for another meeting two weeks later.

Vice-President Whidden was in the chair in the absence of President Hariman and Aldermen Blake, Hickey and Melcher were also unable to be present.

Hearings were held on Edison poles on Old Orchard road, and Waltham street, on Edison underground conduits in Hammond street, on petition to increase amount of gasoline at 791 Washington street to 1000 gallons, and to sell gasoline at 202 Washington street, at which no one appeared and all of which were subsequently granted.

At a hearing on petition of Abraham Ginsberg to use a 6-unit garage at rear of 22 Mechanic street, Upper Falls, Mr. Ginsburg spoke in favor, Mr. Smith and others appeared in opposition and the petition was later granted.

No one appeared at hearings on the laying out of Byfield and Gammons road, Waban, and on petition to sell gasoline at 229 River street.

Dr. Chirug strongly opposed the laying out of Ashton and Kenwood avenues and action was favored by Mr. C. H. Carr and later in the evening by Dr. John M. Barker.

Mayor Childs recommended $3275 additional for school expenses, and authority to remit taxes of land of the state to be used as part of the Newton Centre Playgrounds, both of which were approved. He also favored appropriations for clerk hire for the City Treasurer and Comptroller, $100 for a curtain and equipment for a picture machine at the Adams school, $4035.41 for additional interest, $500 for testimonials to the members of the Newton Constabulary, $25,000 for land and $5000 for architect fees for a proposed Junior High school in Newtonville, $7,000 for portable school rooms at Davis school, and $600 for printing report on school survey.

Mayor Childs also sent the following letter addressed to the President of the board:—

"I have your letter which you sent me under instructions by resolution of the board of aldermen reflecting their views upon certain financial matters affecting the city of Newton.

I thank you for it and I am trying to appraise the worth of those views. (Continued on Page 2)

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Crandon of Newton Centre Observe that Interesting Event

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Crandon of Hancock avenue, Newton Centre, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Tuesday evening. Their marriage took place 50 years ago in Chelsea.

Mr. Crandon was born in Plymouth. His grandfather was appointed by General Washington as the first United States Collector of the port of Plymouth and Duxbury. He has travelled extensively in Europe and the Orient, and, on two occasions, was delegate to the International Peace Conference, held at Munich and Geneva respectively. He is President of the Boston Ethical Society, and was a speaker at the recent celebration of the 45th anniversary of the foundation of the movement held in New York.

Mrs. Crandon was born in Lowell. She is also of Pilgrim ancestry, and is the sister of the late Rear Admiral Pillsbury, Head of the Bureau of Navigation under President Roosevelt, and President of the National Geographical Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Crandon have lived eight years in Newton. They have three children living: J. R. L. R. G. Crandon of Boston, Miss Laura B. Crandon, a teacher of languages at Columbia College, and Miss Elizabeth Crandon who lives at home with her parents.

FOURTH OF JULY

Programs of Its Observance in Various Parts of the City

Most of the formal celebration of the Fourth of July seems to be on the south side of the city. Newton Centre, Newton Highlands and the Upper Falls taking the lead in this respect, the first two under the auspices of the local improvement societies and the last under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

At Newton Centre the program will be given on the Playground, with semi finals and finals in the tennis tournament for boys and girls at 9 A. M., a base ball game at 3 P. M. between the Algonquin club of Newton Centre and the Scott A. C. of Cambridge.

From 7 to 9 P. M. there will be track events for both boys and girls under 16 years for which attractive prizes have been offered, now on exhibition in Hahn's drug store. There will be a potato and three legged races, for both boys and girls, obstacle race, quarter mile walk, 100-yard dash and a tug of war for the boys and a 50-yard dash for girls.

Lodge of Chelsea, of which Mr. Crandon is a member, was present at the celebration on Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Crandon were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, and the house was a bower of flowers.

Over 200 friends and neighbors were present to offer congratulations, and telegrams were received from London, Spain, and other countries.

ZONING EXPLAINED

At Public Meeting Held Under Auspices of Newton Chamber of Commerce

The proposed zoning ordinance for the city was explained and discussed on Tuesday evening at a public meeting held at the Newton Clubhouse under the auspices of the Newton Chamber of Commerce.

About a hundred ladies and gentlemen were present and the principal speakers were Mr. Arthur A. Shurtleff, who is acting as advisor to the Newton Planning Board and Mr. John P. Fox of New York, the leading expert of the country on this subject.

Mr. Shurtleff was introduced by Mr. Alfred E. Alvord of the Planning Board, who defined zoning as a system which seeks to put the proper building in its proper place.

Mr. Shurtleff said that the Planning Board had studied this question for ten years and the ordinance it now proposes was not the work of any one person but had been framed after consultation and advice of many others. He then showed about fifty views of Newton and other cities, showing the great need of proper planning, emphasizing the disadvantages of the checkerboard lay out of many cities and stating his belief that other cities were not so much of an evil as had once been thought.

Mr. Fox explained the plan which had been made by the Planning Board and which was shown on the screen, the different districts being shown in colors. He then took up the proposed ordinance. The single residence district comprised almost the whole city he said but the restrictions for it were designed not to prohibit, but to regulate, and the aldermen had full power to modify in individual instances. The district lines had been run 100 feet from the various street lines but could be modified by the aldermen by unanimous vote if any one remonstrated. By a two-thirds vote the aldermen could amend any part of the ordinance. The general residence district would allow almost any kind of a residence, schools, hospitals and institutions. Apartment houses in this district were limited to 40 per cent of the area of the lot, while in the business district an apartment house could cover 50 per cent of the lot. The business districts allowed all forms of light business, stores, garages, and gasoline filling stations. The commercial districts included coal yards, lumber yards and all kinds of unobjectionable manufacturing, excluding noisy industries, refineries, etc., also these industries may be allowed by vote of the aldermen.

Mr. Fox stated that existing businesses were not distributed by the ordinance, even if now in prohibited districts. Any extension of such business, however, would only be allowed under careful regulation of the aldermen. He favored restricting residences to three stories and to four stories where the first floor was used (Continued on Page 2)

DISCUSS COMMONWEALTH AVENUE

You probably know that on May 15, 1913 during Mayor Hatfield's administration the then city solicitor gave an opinion to the board of aldermen stating that "the board of aldermen cannot request the Mayor to establish salaries and wages."

- (1) Because in the case of subordinates and employees of officers and boards it is forbidden by the charter.
- (2) Because in the case of heads of departments and elected officials this is the province of the board of aldermen.

Regardless of the law in the matter I am glad to have your suggestion because I need all the help that I can get in solving present day problems. You state that "in justice to taxpayers there should be a reasonable liquidation of city wages, such liquidation being necessary in all lines of work—and that justice to all would indicate a reasonable but not radical cut in municipal labor employed by the city of Newton."

As a matter of fact Newton has paid less for labor than most cities and towns ever since the war started and so far as I know there has as yet been no reduction in other places.

It is a fact also that Newton pays more to heads of departments, police, firemen and school teachers than is paid by most of our cities and towns. Surely these are included in "all lines of work."

Does your Honorable board in urging a reduction in city wages intend a "reasonable but not radical" cut in the pay of these other city departments? The answer to the question will materially assist me in appraising the worth of your recommendation.

The city engineer submitted a long and comprehensive report on the water supply of the city.

The Newtonville Improvement Society sent in an endorsement of some form of zoning ordinance.

These petitions were granted.—B. W. Riley for an auctioneer license, Edison attachments on St. James street, Edison relocations on Cabot street, private garages for J. H. Grace, Jackson road, R. T. Leahy, Warwick road, Wm. J. Cozens, Brewster road, John N. Landers, Hammond street, Clara G. Adams, Jefferson street, Bernard Mullen, Ashmont avenue, and John Hendricks, Newtonville avenue.

Petitions were received for sewers in Hammond street and Crafts street, for correction of sewer assessment on Mayflower road, for fire alarm box at the Fessenden school, of Tito Passarini for victualler license 1007 Chestnut street, Upper Falls, of Harold F. Rome for Soldiers relief, and of Alex Patterson, Lowell avenue, J. P. Bergin, Dedham street and A. W. Gray, Laurel avenue for private garages.

There was a little debate on the majority and adverse reports of the license committee on petition of Philip Gilsenan for permit for an automobile service station on Irving street, Newton Centre and the matter was finally sent back to the committee for further hearing.

Leave to withdraw was granted on petitions of Paul N. Doroit for public garage on Gambier street, Wm. J. Orr, California street, C. C. Brown, Aberdeen street and John F. Suckling, 676 Centre street for private garages and of Zaida M. Chamberlin, Waltham street, Giuseppe Carvallo, Oak avenue, Margaret A. Mahoney, Prospect street, Sarkis C. Aharonian, Tremont street and Antonio Maccoccio, Hawthorne street for victualler licenses.

The Middlesex & Boston Co. was granted a relocation of its tracks in Washington street, Anerman Ross voting alone in opposition. B. J. McDonald on Pelham street and Peter W. Ryan on Harvard street were granted private garages. Wm. H. Mague was granted permit for public garage on Chestnut street, West Newton and A. M. Palmer a victualler license at 90 Winchester street.

The Gas Co. was authorized to open Fisher avenue, Woodward street and Carlton road to lay gas mains and the Edison Co. was granted pole rights on Claremont and Court streets.

The license committee reported no action necessary on the matter of gasoline permit held by John Atkinson on Washington street at Commonwealth avenue but on its recommendation the board ordered subsequent renewals and transfers of ownership in gasoline permits to be referred to the aldermen for action.

The license committee also reported no action necessary on renewal of gasoline permit by the Middlesex Stations Trust at 1100 Beacon street.

Leave to withdraw was granted on proposed covering of drain between Watertown street and Crafts street and on various requests for abatement of betterment assessments on Algonquin road.

Sewer assessments levied on Myrtle street were somewhat abated, and betterment assessments on the Emerson estate on Charlesbank road and on William F. Brennan on Algonquin road were somewhat modified.

Hearings were assigned on taking land for sewer in Frederick street and Phillips lane.

Joseph W. Crowell was allowed to enter the sewer in Royce road at less than the usual grade.

The application of Guy M. Winslow and others for incorporation as Lasell Seminary was approved after Alderman Nichols had explained that the sole function of the state he asked to certify that the petitioners had not been convicted for selling of liquor or for illegal boxing.

The relocation of Ash street at Melrose street at an expense of $1900 was authorized, and sewers ordered in Commonwealth avenue and in Hammond street. John F. Calden was granted a firemen's pension for $453.70 and $150 additional was granted the Board of Appeal.

There was considerable discussion over the report of the Public Works committee that the state be asked to take over Commonwealth avenue as a state highway. It was said that there was very heavy traffic on the avenue especially on Sundays and holidays and that it was advisable to open up the north roadway for auto traffic to relieve congestion. Alderman Jewell stated that it was already a state highway by usage. City Solicitor Bartlett said that the petition would be acted upon by the Dept. of Public Works and if taken over the state would pay for one half the construction and one half the cost of maintenance for the travelled part of the street only. The city would continue to pay for the other maintenance and for the removal of snow and ice in winter. The matter was then sent back to the committee.

There was some debate on the zoning ordinance which was recalled from the committees to which it had been referred and sent to a committee consisting of Aldermen Phipps, McAuslan, Nichols, Madden, Heathcote, Rogers and Saltonstall. Before this was done a motion to make this a committee of 5 was voted down and Alderman Heathcote had made a very pointed remark about the appointment of special committee in general. A public hearing was ordered on this matter for Sept. 19th.

During the evening light refreshments were served.

Alderman Nichols stated that the special committee on school accommodations would file its report during the week and that they favored the erection of one Junior High School in Newtonville. At his suggestion the board adjourned at 11.30 until July 11th to take action thereon.

PETTS-BRECK

On Wednesday, June 29th, in the Union Church in Waban, Miss Agnes Breck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Breck, of 47 Englewood avenue, Brookline, was married to Mr. Sanford Ferdinand Petts, Jr., of Winchester. The ceremony was performed by the minister of the church, Rev. Dr. Charles Herrick Cutler.

Mrs. Harvey Kline, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, the bride's other attendant was Miss Helen Alice Whittaker as maid of honor. The best man was Mr. Guy M. Kinsley of Cambridge, and the ushers include Messrs. Joseph Breck, Harvard 1907, brother of the bride, and Assistant Director of the Metropolitan Museum, New York, Everett B. Horn of Waban, Harvard '01, John W. Webber of Newton, Harvard '08, Maurice S. Ricker of Brookline, Brown '11, Harvey L. Kline of Brookline, Roland D. Stearns of Chestnut Hill, and George H. Mellen of Newton Highlands. The bride was given away by her father. She was gowned in ivory white canton crepe and georgette, and wore the conventional veil of tulle, held in place with a bandeau of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of sweet peas and bride roses. Mrs. Kline's gown was of mushroom brown lace, and she carried a bouquet of blue larkspur, pink roses and lavender sweet peas.

Miss Whittaker's gown was of shell pink organza, her bouquet was of pink roses and lavender sweet peas. The church was decorated for the wedding with garlands of smilax and laurel white sweet peas and pink roses. Miss Sylvia Meadows, the church organist, played the processional and recessional marches. A small reception was held at the home after the ceremony. After the wedding trip, Mr. Petts and his bride will be at home to their friends after September first at Myopia road, Winchester, Mass.

Miss Breck attended The Misses Allen School at West Newton, for four years, and afterwards graduated from Miss Sacker's School of Design.

BOY SCOUTS

Camping season is with us and many of the Scouts have left the city to enjoy the privileges of camp life which are offered in New England. Many of the boys will attend Camp Manomet during July and August, and these will enjoy a thorough Boy Scout programme from the time they enter until they leave. The scout programme is one worthy of study by all camp directors and many such make the Scout work a part of their scheme for summer occupation. A camp without a programme is of no value. Swimming and baseball is not a programme, it takes more than pure pleasure to satisfy the real boy who goes to camp these days. Manomet Camp has all the advantages of Scouting to offer, and the scout who wishes to make the most of his time will sign up for a couple of more weeks.

The Reserve Scout system is rapidly taking shape. All former scouts have the privilege of signing up. If you have been a scout it will pay you to investigate this plan. Send word to Headquarters, 277 Washington street, Newton Corner.

All former members of Troop 11, Boy Scouts of America are requested to send their names and addresses to the Scoutmaster, Mr. J. M. Carley, 19 Brimmer street, Watertown.

ZONING EXPLAINED

for business. This should, however, be also subject to change by the aldermen. In the single residence district he favored a limit of 25 percent of the lot for building purposes so as to allow ample space for light and air.

Speaking generally, he said that the success of zoning depended wholly on popular support and New York City finds it is a vital question to most of its citizens, any proposed changes attracting large numbers of people to the public hearings.

The Newton ordinance had been carefully framed with the idea of being fair to everybody. He believed it was only a starting point, as each municipality had its own problems and its own ideas of what was needed and desirable.

Preceding the addresses a short meeting was held by the Newton Chamber of Commerce of which Mr. John T. Burns is president. The new by-laws were adopted and plans outlined for a paid secretary and some aggressive work along civic lines.

CITY HALL NOTES

Street Commissioner Stuart received and entertained Mr. Toshina Ikeda, Chief Engineer of the Board of Public Works and Governor General of Formosa, Japan. Mr. Ikeda was very much impressed with Newton, its streets, public buildings, private residences, sanitary sewers and water works.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of The Graphic:

Fortunate is the man who can learn from the experience of others. This is a story that may be of use to any such among your readers if there are any for such men are scarce.

For long I have known the dangers of the great and pernicious American habit of signing petitions without much thought as to what the petition may ask for. Yet knowing the danger I signed one and have learned a lesson that merely confirms what I already knew.

Sometime ago two pleasant gentlemen called upon me and stated they had come to talk about the need of a sidewalk along that side of a street on which members of my family owned a house. They did not wish to force the putting down of the sidewalk but they had concluded to canvass the owners along the way with the idea of seeing if all those along it would unite in a neighborly effort to have the work done. They had an estimate of the cost made and assured me that the amount in the case in which I was interested would not be more than $50 or $60. They put up a very good argument, they were very agreeable and I stated that I would take the matter up with those who owned the property and would let them know the decision.

In time I told them the conditions being as they stated, those for whom I acted were willing to have the work done and to pay their part and in accordance I signed the petition asking to have the work done understanding that the case was to be stated to the others interested as it had been stated to me and that the matter was to be conducted as a "purely neighborly matter without any coercion." The quoted words may not be the exact ones which they used but they are a fair paraphrase of them and express the idea along which my callers gave me to understand they had been working and along which they intended to continue to work. I heard no more of the matter until some months later I received from City Hall a notice stating that the work of putting in a sidewalk on Brookside avenue in Newtonville had been decided upon and that the share of those I represented would be about $112 but that no work would be begun until the checks to pay for it were received. I paid no attention to the note beyond throwing it into the waste basket and a bit later I received another which I disposed of similarly. From neighbors I learned that another one who had signed the "neighborly petition" had also received similar notices after having signed with the idea and promise that the cost would not be more than $50 or $60. A little investigation disclosed that those who were managing the matter had given their estimates on tar concrete but had finally decided upon granite without consultation with those whom they had induced to sign the petition.

So the matter stood until one Sunday morning I was called to the telephone over which came a masculine voice informing me of what I already knew that I had not sent in a check for the Brookside avenue sidewalk. I answered that I had not and that I did not intend to. The voice then took on a new note, that of one who carried, if not the whole city government, at least one alderman in its possession. The voice informed me that if I did not come across pleasantly I would be forced to come across under the betterment act the same as they had forced a neighbor to do. This information as to what they had done to a neighbor was news to me and I informed the owner of the voice that I did not know much about the aldermen but that I was at least curious to find out whether they would compel action under a petition to which signatures had been secured by fraud.

In due time I received notice that the aldermen would give a hearing in the matter and to this I went with the neighbor who had been forced to give way under the betterment act. From him I learned that he had been summoned to a hearing at which it was represented that he was the only one standing out and that all the others along the way were desirous of having the sidewalk laid. Of this hearing I had never had any notice and the use made of the petition, so far as my signature was concerned, was unfair and fraudulent, as I had signed with the distinct understanding that all were to sign before any definite steps were taken. At the hearing to which I was summoned the proponents put in their case first. One of the speakers stated what a little inquiry would have shown him to be false that those who had not sent in their checks would make no active objection. I stated my case as best I could and my neighbor spoke too. The aldermen evidently concluded that it was not their business to go back of a petition nor to consider how signatures were secured for they later on decided, unanimously I understand, to order the laying of the sidewalk under the betterment act.

Thus far the matter concerns only those directly interested but there is a lesson in the incident for all taxpayers. From the general funds of the city there will be taken an amount equal to that assessed upon the adjacent owners, all of the taxpayers will have to pay towards laying on the northerly side of one of the least travelled streets in the city a granite sidewalk. The amusing part of it is that on the southerly side there is a tar concrete walk so that Brookside avenue, like the house with the Queen Anne front and the Mary Ann behind, will have its Queen Anne side and its Mary Ann side and all because those on the Queen Anne side have a stronger "pull" than those on the other side had when their walk was laid.

The amount all the tax payers will have to pay is not alarmingly large perhaps not more than one or two hundred more than if tar concrete had been used. But it is the unnecessary squandering of one or two hundred here and one or two hundred more there that helps to make necessary high taxes. It is spending public money in a happy go lucky heedless fashion without any definite plan but spending it as kissing is said to be dispensed, by favor. No business man who is a member of the board would spend money in his own business in the same way. Why then should he so spend the city's money?

Only a little while ago the able chairman, or president, of the board left his chair to read from the floor a letter from the board to the mayor on the way money was being spent for labor. Either in the letter or the remarks that followed the reference was made to the way in which "for sale" signs are springing up all over Newton, and the inference was plain that Newton has about reached the limit her citizens are able to stand in the way of taxes. If that is so why dribble away tax raised money in small amounts in unnecessary expenditures? Why add to the financial burdens of individual taxpayers at a time like this by assessing betterments for unnecessarily extravagant work and making necessary other expenditures as a result of the work? One member of the board has stated that Newton wants the best and is going to have the best which is a very easy thing for one to say who is spending other people's money but there are a good many of us who believe that the city, like its citizens, should cut its garments according to its cloth. The trouble with the aldermen is the disease that afflicts all similar bodies, the log-rolling or "you-tickle-me-and-I'll-tickle-you" disease and the public almost never gets tickled because it isn't their to tickle back.

Two lessons I have learned from my experience: first, "Never sign any petition, not even if it is just a friendly neighborly method of finding out how people stand; second, As for the city government admire the men who make it up for the public spirit they show in being parts of it and—grin and bear it."

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"

No cigarette has the same delicious flavor as Lucky Strike. Because Lucky Strike is the toasted cigarette.

A clean kitchen lightens each day's work

WHAT a joy it is to work in a kitchen that is easy to keep spick-and-span all of the time! The average housekeeper spends a goodly part of every day in the kitchen. Cleanliness and contentment go hand in hand.

Because of its simple construction, the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove never becomes a collecting corner for dirt. There is no coal or wood to clutter things up, no ashes to take care of. Every part of it can be reached easily with a duster. It stands well up from the floor, you can sweep under it and behind it.

The long, blue chimney conducts all the clean heat from the white-tipped flame directly to the utensils or oven. By using all of its heat to cook with, instead of radiating it about the whole room, the New Perfection makes possible a cool, comfortable kitchen.

You use the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove only when you need it. It is so easy to light and regulate that when you're through cooking, you simply put it out, thus saving much fuel besides keeping the kitchen cool. Over three million are in use today.

The New Perfection Water Heater is another convenience for the housekeeper. Supplies hot water abundantly at a very slight cost. The oil cook stoves are made in two, three and four-burner sizes, with or without warming cabinet; also one-burner stove with no cabinet. Leading dealers everywhere.

EDITORIAL

Mayor Childs evades the meat of the warning recently given him by the aldermen to the effect that the labor items in the budget of last April were fixed with the intent of the board that there was to be a cut of 10 per cent in the wages of city laborers and in return seeks to becloud the real issue by asking the intentions of the board as to the wages of police, firemen and school teachers.

The mayor also calls attention to a decision of a former city solicitor that the matter of wages is none of the business of the aldermen, a fact which was frankly stated in the communication sent to the mayor by the aldermen.

While the reply of the mayor may be clever and adroit in apparently passing the buck to the aldermen, it will not meet the situation which the aldermen clearly foresee, when the present appropriations for labor are exhausted and the city is left without the means to carry forward necessary work and the laborers themselves will be left in idleness. For in this year, unlike other years, the city does not have a reserve fund from which to pay for routine expenses and the law specifically prohibits additional appropriations after the tax rate has been fixed. This is the real situation of which the aldermen have warned the mayor and for which he must take the full responsibility.

The proposition to turn over Commonwealth avenue to the Commonwealth as a state highway ought to be given the most careful consideration. The subject has been considered at various times in the past and has been invariably turned down as it has been felt that in its upkeep of state roads the Commonwealth has not maintained as high a standard as the city has always required.

Newton is proud of Commonwealth avenue, and its splendid road bed has undoubtedly been a wonderful advertisement for the city, attracting here many desirable residents. To allow this surface to deteriorate, as is always possible when the responsibility is vested in some outside body, is liable to act exactly opposite and the experiment ought not to be tried.

Commonwealth avenue cost some five hundred thousand dollars and for many years the increased taxation from the district it serves has shown that it was an excellent investment. Newton can well afford to pay for the upkeep of the avenue, and even put a surface on the north roadbed so as to allow its use for automobiles, and the saving to be made by turning over the control to the state is so small as to have but little weight.

TOTTEN-CUNNINGHAM

Miss Dorothy Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander Cunningham of Jewett street, Newton, was married on Tuesday evening to Mr. John William Totten of Taunton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Laurens MacLure of Grace Church, Newton, at the church.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, with a lace overdress and a court train. She wore a coronet of orange blossoms over her tulle veil. The sister of the bride, Miss Evelyn Cunningham, was maid of honor. Her gown was of jade green crepe with trimmings of ostrich feathers of the same color, and a white hat with green ostrich feathers.

The best man was Mr. Ralph E. Bosworth of Taunton, and the ushers were Messrs. Robert Alexander Cunningham of Newton, John Endicott of Longwood, Carl Shattuck of Boston, Frank C. Fogg of Boston, Richard W. Galbraith of West Newton and Joseph Alger of Brockton.

Reception at the home of the church, the bride and groom being assisted by their parents and the bridesmaids.

After the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Totten will make their home in Allston.

MOTHERS' REST

There is much need of baby carriages at the Mothers' Rest. The old carriages have served for years and new ones are very expensive. Will anyone who has a baby carriage which can be used at the Rest this summer kindly send it by Driscoll's Express, to 8 High street, Needham Heights, charge to be paid by the Matron at the Rest.

ANNIE B. KENDALL, Secretary.

POLICE NOTES

David McLeod of Newton Centre was arraigned in Court Saturday on charges of drunkenness and operating a car while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty to the first and not guilty to the latter charge, but was found guilty on both. A fine of $100 was given him for driving his car while intoxicated and an investigation was ordered by the Highway Commission that his license be taken away from him. The charge of drunkenness was filed.

FOURTH OF JULY

From 8.15 to 10 a band concert will be given by Teel's band and at 9.15 there will be a display of fireworks.

In case of rain the concert will be given in Bray hall and the sports and fireworks postponed until the next pleasant evening.

At Newton Highlands, the day will begin with an old fashioned parade at 6.30 of antiques and horrors, which will pass thru the principal streets of the village. From 9 to 12 o'clock there will be track events on the playground for boys and girls from 9 to 18 years of age, including 50-yard dashes, relay races and potato races. There will also be sack races, three legged races and fat man race for the men and ball game between the Men's Club and Men's League. At 3 P. M. there will be a ball game between Newton Highlands and Eliot teams. In the evening the Newton Constabulary band will give a concert on the green adjoining the Hyde school from 8 to 9, and dancing will follow until 11 o'clock.

In case of rain the concert and dance will be given in Lincoln hall. At the Upper Falls, the Needham Council, K. of C., has charge of an interesting program which will include an antique and horrible parade at 6.30 A. M., track and field events for the children with suitable prizes for the winners from 10 to 12 o'clock and a ball game at 10.30 between the Ramblers and the Natick Town Team, all on the playground. At 2 P. M. prominent speakers will discuss "The Spirit of Americanism" on the playground with a ball game at 3 P. M. between Needham Council, K. of C., and St. Mark's A. C. of Dorchester. From 7 to 11 there will be dancing on the playground, for which Shannon's Orchestra will play.

Newton Lodge G. U. O. of O. F. will hold a field day at the Auburndale playground from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. There will be racing, jumping, shot put and a tug of war, and base ball game at 3 o'clock between West Newton A. C. and the Auburndale Town Team.

T. G. Lawson is chairman, T. E. Huston, sec'y, R. C. Joyner, treasurer and R. L. Hutton, manager of the athletic events.

The celebration at Lower Falls will begin at 12 o'clock on the playground on Grove street and will include all kinds of races and other field events for men, women and children, including the ever popular greased pig and tug of war. This will be interrupted at 3 o'clock by a ball game between Wellesley and West Newton and continued after the game is over. There will be dancing from 2 until 10 o'clock on a platform in the playground and refreshments will be on sale all day.

Y. M. C. A. FRESH AIR FUND

It has been our custom during previous summers to invite the City Missionary Society of Boston to send us 40 boys each week during July and August. These boys, taken from the thickly settled part of Boston, are given a full day's entertainment which includes a car ride, base ball game, and other outdoor sports on our athletic field, a long swim, lunch, music, motion pictures, games in the gymnasium, and the use of all the games in the Boys' Department.

A day of clean sport, such as we are in a position to give, may change a boy's whole life, and lifting him from the degrading influences of the city streets, give him a vision of what he can make of himself. Many boys have been helped in this way, and we send them away every week feeling much the same as they do just after Christmas, glad it came, sorry it is over, and counting the days until it shall come again.

You are one of the friends of these boys who have so generously contributed to further this work, or it may be your first opportunity to help. We hope that you will want to share in this worthy cause where a small amount gives such direct results. Please make all checks payable to W. E. Harding, Treasurer, and mail to the Newton Y. M. C. A.

CHEAPER GAS POSSIBLE

The price of gas to consumers of the East Boston, Newton and Waterbury and Citizens of Quincy Gas Light Companies may be reduced. This was indicated at a hearing this week at the State House, when Anna D. Barnum, vice-president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Light Company requested the department of public utilities to approve the making of a new contract between the Consolidated and the companies first mentioned whereby operating costs of the smaller companies would be reduced.

Gas used by the East Boston, Newton and Waterbury and Citizens' Companies is bought of the Boston Consolidated. A reduction of 10 cents per 1000 cubic feet in the case of the East Boston company is asked for, and 5 cents in that of the two others. The East Boston now pays the Consolidated 90 cents, the Newton & Waterbury 90 cents and the Citizens 92½ cents.

Mr. Barnum gave lower operating costs as the reason for the proposed change.

BAILEY-MYERS

The wedding of Mr. Kenneth Nott Bailey, a former resident of Newton and Miss Martha Fellows Myers of Omaha, Neb., took place on Tuesday afternoon, June 21st. Mr. Bailey had been with the Bemis Bag Co. of Omaha some years and when the war broke out he went to Plattsburg where he obtained a commission as lieutenant. He served in France and Germany in the 301st aero squadron for over a year. On his return he entered the employ of the Bemis Bag Co. at Denver, Col., where he is now located. His bride is a southern girl, who graduated from the Worcester Domestic Science School in 1918. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Emerson R. Bailey of Memphis, Tenn.

OUT OF REACH OF THE MOVING VANS

As long as you rent, every moving van in the street will remind you of the unlucky day when you too must move again.

A home of your own would be a business asset—a help in securing credit, a desirable security for a loan, and a safe investment.

Start "a home account" here, and add to it regularly until you have saved enough to buy one of your own. Then you can laugh at the moving vans.

ONE THOUSAND PARTNERS BEFORE OCTOBER FIRST BY THE SAFEST BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

This business is more than thirty years old and has paid a dividend twice each year promptly when due.

The partners have no liability and cannot be called upon to pay an assessment of any sort. Every dollar of earnings, after paying expenses, and expenses are low, is divided among the partners or set aside for their protection. The word partner as used here is just another name for the depositor in a Mutual Savings Bank, because every depositor is a partner. There are no stockholders. Every penny belongs to the depositor-partners.

PARTNERS ARE WANTED

There are more than six thousand now.

COME AND BE A PARTNER

You may have an interest in the business to any extent, from one dollar to two thousand dollars.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meacham, of Hale street celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary, with a large number of friends and relatives at their home last Tuesday evening. As the occasion was a wooden wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Meacham were the recipients of numerous gifts in both the wooden and knicker work.

—The Knights of Columbus of Needham have planned a big Field Day to be held at Upper Falls Playground on July the Fourth. The festivities will start with a Horrible Parade at six-thirty. At ten o'clock there will be a baseball game between the Ramblers and the Natick Town Team, followed by track and field events. Prominent speakers will discuss, "The Spirit of Americanism" in the afternoon. At three o'clock another baseball game is scheduled between the Needham Casays and St. Marks A. C. of Dorchester. Dancing will follow.

—Rev. Dr. Palladino is this week at the Epworth League Institute at Montpelier, Vt., lecturing on Foreign Missions and on Americanization. The Institute is being held in Montpelier Seminary which has recently graduated a class of fifty-six, only one less than its record number in 1920. The Institute authorities are fortunate in having the accommodation which this Seminary has to offer. Dr. Palladino's classes are well attended and counted as one of the most valuable features of the Institute.

—A very pretty wedding was held at the Sacred Heart Church of Boston last Sunday when Miss Fannie DeMichele and Mr. Donald Schiavone were united in marriage. The bride was attired in a lovely gown of white Canton crepe trimmed with orange blossoms and carried a huge bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Marie DeMichele, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, was charmingly attired in pink orandy, with large garden hat, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. After the ceremony a reception was held in Foresters Hall to their many friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. D. Schiavone's future home will be on Champa avenue.

DUGAN-HOULIHAN

Miss Alice Teresa Houlihan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Houlihan of 8 Murray terrace, West Newton became the bride of Eugene F. Dugan of Boston on Sunday night, the ceremony being performed by Rev. John F. Kellher, pastor of St. Bernard's Church at the church rectory at 7.30. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Catherine Crooks, as matron of honor and Thomas Houlihan, Jr., was best man.

FIELD DAY

A very successful Field Day was held last Saturday at the Church of Our Lady. Father Slattery was in charge of the program of the day. Other members of the committee were Mrs. James Flanagan, Mrs. James T. Burns, and Mrs. John Mulligan. A Punch and Judy Show delighted the children in the afternoon. A novelty table on which were many beautiful dolls dressed by the young ladies of the parish was an attractive feature. Dancing was enjoyed in the evening.

LAST RECITAL

The Pianoforte and Theory Students Association, Miss Helen Douglas, Principal, held its last recital of the season, Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Berry, 124 Crafts street.

The excellent program given by a few of the students was thoroughly enjoyed by an attentive audience who showed its appreciation in enthusiastic applause.

An attractive number was the Trio played by three little tots of the First Grade—Helen Berry, Mary Lucy Teter and Kendall Stiles.

The playing of Thelma Combs was remarkable for one so young. Miss Eleanor Tracy, Miss Esther Stiles, Joseph Gillman, Katherine Barry, Dorothy Handy, and Campbell Delesderner played exceptionally well.

At the close of the program Miss Helen Douglas presented the first prize to Thelma Combs for having the highest average for the year, the second prize to Miss Esther Stiles, and the third to Charles Schroeder. Those receiving honorable mention for their year's work were Miss Jennette Martin, Miss Eleanor Tracy, Miss Eleanor Martin, Barbara Tracy, Myrtle Seeley, Campbell Delesderner, Myrtle Atwood, and Henrietta Kraber. The following took part in the program: Marguerite Holmberg, Helen Berry, Mary Lucy Teter, Kendall Stiles, Katherine Barry, Jackie Richmond, Myrtle Seeley, James Brown, Myrtle Atwood, Richard Zollar, Janice Upham, Phyllis Harrington, Campbell Delesderner, Miss Edna King, Joseph Gillman, Charles Schroeder, Dorothy Handy, Thelma Combs, Miss Esther Stiles, Barbara Tracy and Miss Eleanor Tracy.

Miss Douglas will reopen her school the twelfth of September.

ALEXANDER-SOMERS

One of the most attractive of the many local weddings this month, was that of Miss Grace Somers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Somers of Lowell avenue, Newtonville, last Saturday afternoon to Mr. Fred Combs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Combs, also of Newtonville. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by the Rev. McIllyar Hamilton Litcher of Central Congregational Church.

The wedding was a quiet one, there being no bridesmaids or ushers, only relatives and very close friends being present. A reception followed the ceremony, the house being tastefully decorated for the occasion.

After a trip to Megansett, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will make their home at 100 Fair Oaks avenue, Newtonville.

Mr. Alexander is a graduate of Harvard College, class of 1910.

BELL-CURRIER

Much interest has been shown in the marriage of Miss Lillian Fay Currier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Currier of Foster street, Newtonville, last Saturday, to Mr. Charles Allen Bell of Brookside avenue, Newtonville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles R. Ross of the Methodist Church, Newtonville.

The maid of honor was Miss Ethel H. Bell, sister of the groom, the best man, Mr. Edward H. Bell, Jr., brother of the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Harold H. Henchey, Willis M. Bell of Newtonville, and Arnold R. Currier and Harry H. Hersey of Dorchester.

Miss Ethel Henchey of Newtonville and Miss Virginia Elliott of Newton were flower girls.

The bride wore a gown of white ivory satin with Duchess lace, and a veil caught with orange blossoms. The maid of honor wore orchid and silver changeable satin trimmed with beads.

A reception at the home of the bride on Foster street, Newtonville, followed the ceremony, which took place under an arch of ivy and roses with a white wedding bell full of rose petals. Miss Kennedy's orchestra of Milton furnished the music.

After an extended automobile trip until September 1, Mr. and Mrs. Bell will be at home in Dorchester.

The bride is a graduate of the Newton High School, Wheaton College, and Miss Wheelock's School in Boston. She has also taught in the Rice School, Newton Centre.

The groom is a veteran of the world war, where he served as Lieutenant in the 6th Marine Corps, 2d Division, through the entire war, going over the top six times.

A. Y. W. C. A. FOR NEWTON

A second meeting to consider the possibility and advisability of starting a Y. W. C. A. in Newton was held Monday evening, June 20th, in the parlor of the Baptist Church, Mrs. Arthur E. Holt presiding. As the secretary, Miss Miriam Drury, could not be present and was going away for the summer, Miss Emma E. Walker was chosen temporary secretary.

There were present representatives from the different churches of Wards 1 and 7 and of the Social Science Club, the Newton Community Club, the Newton Improvement Association, the Newton Welfare Bureau, the Newton Circle, the Pomroy Home, the Stearns School Centre, the Daughters of the Revolution, the Daughters of the American Revolution and from the Boston Y. W. C. A. and Newton Y. M. C. A.

Several young women spoke of the needs of the young women of Newton. Rev. Newton A. Merritt, Jr., pastor of the Baptist Church, reported having visited with a committee several families in the district to ascertain the number and needs of the women and girls employed.

A discussion followed as to whether a recreational centre should be started to include all the Newtons or for just the community in Wards 1 and 7. It was decided that Newton proper and adjacent territory was ample field for one recreational centre, and if it proves successful here, residents in other parts of the city will doubtless start similar recreational centres. A vote was then taken to have this recreational centre take the form of a Y. W. C. A. organization, with the young women from the other Newtons participating if they so desire.

Committees on constitution and organization were appointed. It was decided to hold a mass meeting in the near future, when these committees will report.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

The baseball team has a representative on both the All scholastic teams of the Boston Herald and Boston Globe. The Herald selects Frederick N. Blodgett for right field and the Globe takes Coady for first base.

Blodgett won Newton High's game with Everett High last Friday by a fine hit to left field in the last of the ninth inning which tied the score, driving in the winning run. After the game Emerson Murphy was elected captain for next year. The score was 6 to 5.

Jerry McMahon, head janitor of the Newton Classical High School and guardian of the gate at the Newton High baseball games, is the school celebrity to be honored this year by the Newtonian, the publication of the graduating class. The book is dedicated to "Jerry" in the favorite of students in the High School for two decades.

The book this year was made up under the general direction of George L. Graham, who is editor-in-chief; John Norton is business manager, and he is assisted by Donald Fleming, Edward Desmond and Edward Booth. The literary editors are Catherine Jones, Priscilla Aurelio and Roger Cummings. Jeanette Curtis has charge of the senior quotations. Homer Tilton and Marion Tilton are in charge of the athletic department. Frederick McGill, Hugh Wagner and Janet Eaton are in charge of the art department, and the photographs are in charge of Constance Parker, Sylvia Chapman and Frederick Blodgett. The features are under the direction of Marguerite Graves, John Christie, Emily Kent and Edward DeLuzio. Homer K. Underwood is faculty adviser to the editors.

SUCCESS

It's doing your job the best you can. And being just to your fellowman; It's making money, but holding friends; And staying true to your aims and ends; It's figuring how and learning why; And looking forward and thinking high; And dreaming a little and doing much; It's always keeping in step with the world; With what is finest in word and deed; It's being thorough, yet making speed; It's struggling on with a will to win; But taking loss with a cheerful grin; It's sharing sorrow and work and mirth; And making better this good old earth; It's serving, striving through strain and stress; It's doing your noblest—this is Success.

CAMP FRANK A. DAY OPENS

The sixth season of Camp Frank A. Day began on June 24th when a good company of boys took the special car on the 9.30 train for East Brookfield.

F. E. Doubleday and Richard B. Cole were in charge of the party. Others made the trip by automobile. Eighty-five boys are registered but there is room for a few more either for the entire season or for periods from two to four weeks. Sixty-eight boys and twelve leaders can be accommodated at one time.

The Camp is conducted under the auspices of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association by the following gentlemen who make up the Camp Committee: C. D. Kepner, Chairman, G. H. Gleason, H. T. Dougherty, F. S. Hoyt, F. D. Fuller, T. R. Lockwood, G. C. Colburn, and H. W. Bascom.

The following boys are now at camp: Robt. Condit, Wm. Carley, Wm. Lodge, Harold Lodge, Luther Moore, Richard Breed, Robt. Ashton, Oliver Durrell, Wm. Richards, L. Canfield, O. Sundlie, Alwyn Snell, Franklin Hoyt, Phillips Hoyt, Louis Geisler, L. Prievy, W. Robinson, Merrill Leonard, Sidney Usher, Arthur Coffin, Anson Albree, K. Kepner, R. Salinger, Monroe Soch, George Colburn, R. Burbank, H. Root, H. Walker, E. Foster, F. Eaton, B. Klein, W. Bell, Thomas Graves, Albert Bush, Anthony Gleason, Neil Robinson, J. Briggs, E. Gordon, W. Morse, J. Colton, Daniel Macdonald, J. Meissner, J. G. Meissner, Geo. Taggard, Charles Macdonald, Warren Kinney.

R. M. Edgar, Donald Solis, John Harvey, Orrin Duff, C. Tower, and R. Taggard will arrive July 1st.

Major J. O. Daly of the First Corps Area Headquarters, Boston, will tell about the Citizens Military Training Camp which is to be held at Camp Devens, August 1st to the 30th at a meeting at the Newton Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, July 5th, at 8 o'clock. Anyone interested is invited to be present to hear Mr. Daly speak. These camps are for young men 16 to 35 years of age, and while the camps are military in character special emphasis is put upon physical development and sports.

The base ball team will play a team from Cambridge on Saturday on the home grounds.

GARDEN NEWS STORY

The dry, warm weather we are experiencing is ideal for the propagation of garden insect pests of practically every nature. The plants are making comparatively little growth, insects are hatching and multiplying in vast numbers. Insect injury is always detrimental. It is even worse during a period like we are experiencing at the present time.

Insects like the cucumber beetle and squash bug, can be readily kept away from the plants by using plenty of air slaked lime. This should be dusted over the plants, preferably early in the morning. Although it will not kill the various insects that attack vines, it does act as a repellent.

The rose chafer is very serious this year in certain localities. Where one has only a few grape vines to protect, or a few rose bushes, it probably is best to use the picking method of destroying them. A pail with a little kerosene in the bottom and a shingle to jam them off into the pail works splendidly for protecting a limited number of plants. Spraying the plants with self-boiled lime sulphur is probably one of the best ways of combating this trouble on large areas.

The asparagus beetle is very common on most asparagus beds this season. After the cutting is finished, this insect can be very easily controlled by using the arsenical spray upon the shoots.

The common potato bug can be very easily controlled by either Paris Green or arsenate of lead spray. Arsenate of lead is a little bit safer and there is comparatively little danger in using it. Approximately 1 pound of the powder in ten gallons of water is the right strength. A somewhat weaker solution than this can be made if the bugs are attacked when they are very small.

SUMMER OUTING

Members of the Massachusetts Press Association held a summer outing over the week end at Sagamore Beach. The affair was arranged by President L. C. Hall of Wareham and the special features included a motor boat trip thru the Cape Cod canal and Buzzards Bay, a motor ride along the Cape to Chatham and a visit at Bournehurst on the Canal.

The party were splendidly entertained by Mine Host H. S. Dowden at the Bradford Arms hotel at Sagamore Beach, which may be recalled by members of the Christian Endeavor society as their summer headquarters a few years ago. Mr. Dowden did everything possible for the comfort and pleasure of his guests and justified the statement of a former guest that it "was more like a summer home than a hotel."

The New York boat was saluted by the party as it steamed slowly thru the canal each night and it was interesting to go thru the canal a little later on a motor boat and note its construction and operation.

The editors returned Tuesday after an enjoyable outing.

THE SCHICK TEST

To the Editor of the Graphic:

It seems proper to report upon the result of the tests done by the Board of Health upon the children in the grammar schools and comment briefly thereon.

In all 861 children of all ages were tested and 199 or 23.1 per cent were found to be immune. This means that about 77 per cent of the children tested are susceptible to diphtheria and can take it if they are exposed to it.

It is fair to say that those who were not tested would show about the same ratio, but in order to keep within the limits of probability, it may be assumed that 65 per cent of the children in our schools are susceptible to diphtheria. As there are about 7000 children in the grades and kindergarten, it is evident that nearly 4600 of our school children are susceptible to a disease which, in 1920, in Massachusetts, destroyed 595 persons, or approximately 8 out of every 100 attacked.

In Newton during the past 10 years there have been 697 cases of diphtheria, with 52 deaths, which means that 5 persons have died unnecessarily each year, to say nothing of the anxiety, worry and expense to the parents of those who recovered. All this sickness and death could have been avoided had the children been immunized by a very simple and harmless treatment similar to the immunization against typhoid fever.

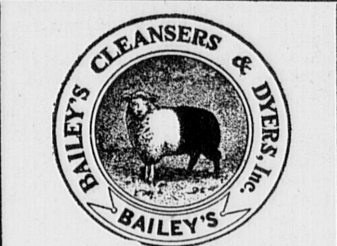

Children under 5 years of age should be immunized without waiting for the test and those over that age should be tested and the susceptibles immunized. By doing this it would be perfectly possible to eliminate diphtheria from Newton and, the Board of Health urges all parents to have immunization done at the earliest opportunity.

The material for immunization can be obtained at the office of the Board of Health by physicians, for use on their patients.

In cases where there is no regular physician, persons wishing immunization done are urged to consult the Board of Health.

Chairman.

JOHNSON—MOORE

Miss Mary E. E. Moore, formerly a student at Newton High School, and for some years Assistant to the Director of the Chandler Secretarial School in Boston, was married on the evening of Monday, June 27th, to Mr. Roscoe Johnson, of Barre, Mass., at the Mystic Side Congregational Church, Malden. A reception followed in the parlors. The church was elaborately decorated with flowers, and a pleasing feature of the ceremony was furnished by Hope Gregory of Walnut street, who as flower girl, dressed in white illusion embroidered with silver over pink chiffon tulle, and carrying a small shower-bouquet of Sweetheart roses, strewed rose petals before the bride in both processional and recessional.

The new Lighting Fixtures in Italian, Rusty Iron and Polychrome and Colonial styles as shown by Messrs. McKenney & Waterbury Co., Inc., 181 Franklin street corner Congress, Boston, Mass., are really works of Art. All interested in Lighting Fixtures for their homes are invited to this exhibition.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Middlesex, ss.

To all persons who are or may become interested in the estate hereinafter mentioned, held in trust under the will of Mary T. Goddard late of Newton in said County deceased, and to all persons whose issue not now in being may become so interested.

Greeting: WHEREAS, Benjamin T. Hall and Thomas G. Frothingham trustees under the will of said deceased for the benefit of Franklin A. Hall and others named in item numbered thirty-seven of said will, have presented to said Court their petition representing that their authority to make sale of certain real estate described in said petition to Elizabeth Viner Spring has been drawn in question, and praying that the Court will hear and determine the matter and confirm said sale, and authorize and empower said trustees to ratify and confirm the same, and to execute and deliver such deeds or other instruments for a nominal consideration, as may be found necessary to release all present, vested or contingent interests of all parties who are or may become interested under the terms of the will of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the eighteenth day of July A. D. 1921, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have against the same. And said petitioners are ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to you fourteen days at least, before said Court, or by publishing the same once a week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic a newspaper published in Newton the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed, given by John J. Delaney to Charles H. Cooke, dated August 12th 1916 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds Book 4075 Page 413, will be sold at public auction on the premises on Tuesday the twenty sixth day of July 1921 at four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular that portion of the mortgaged premises, conveyed by said mortgage deed, as now remains subject to the mortgage by reason of partial releases thereof heretofore given, namely—the land in that part of a "Plan of Land in Auburndale owned by Benjamin S. Grant et al. A. S. N. Estes, surveyor" which plan is dated May 1 1897, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds Plan Book 229 Plan 13.

Said lot 2 is bounded Southwesterly on Auburndale Ave. 52 feet; Southerly by the curve line at the junction of said Avenue and Grant St. about 20 feet; Southeastly by Grant St. 70 feet; Northeastly by lot 12 on said plan and Northwestly by lot 1 on said plan 50 feet, containing 4933 square feet.

Said lots 3 and 5 are bounded Northwesterly on Grant St. 117.50 feet; Northeastly on lot 6 on said plan 117.75 feet; Southeastly on land now or formerly of Geo. Johnson 13.51 feet; Southwestly on lot 4 on said plan 74.75 feet; Southeastly again on Auburndale Ave. 52 feet and Southerly by the curve at the junction of said Avenue and Grant Street about 20 feet, containing 10509 square feet.

Said lot 4, containing 4931 square feet is bounded Northwesterly on Grant St. 69.99 feet; Northerly by the curve line at the junction of Grant St. and Newell Road about 20 feet; Northeastly on Newell Road 52 feet; Southeastly on lot 7 on said plan 79.77 feet and Southwestly on lot 6 on said plan 52 feet.

Lots 9 and 11 are bounded to gether as follows: Northeastly on Newell Road 52 feet; Easterly by the curve line at the junction of Newell Road and Grant St. about 20 feet; Southeastly by Grant St. 125.63 feet; Southwestly on lot 12 on said plan 114.93 feet; Northwestly by land now or formerly of F. E. Ham

FLORIDA AS IS

Florida, to many men and women of middle age, who have never had an opportunity to learn the truth, is what our old-time geographies taught us—a land of dismal swamps, tropical and luxuriant vegetation with snakes and alligators, ad libitum. Some of us realized that the East Coast with its noted beaches, must be at least half civilized, but we were sure that the interior was much like the interior of Africa.

With these half-formed impressions in mind, I was glad to have the opportunity to visit that state under the auspices of the National Editorial Association. I have travelled through Texas, Arkansas, and the great Pacific Northwest with this organization and believe nothing can equal it for seeing all there is to see and under the very best conditions.

Over a score of newspaper men and women of New England were in the party, most of whom made the trip from Boston together and getting thoroughly acquainted in the process. Taking the Federal Express one Sunday night in Boston, we awoke the next morning—a city well worth a visit, no matter how many times one has been there.

Our morning was spent in visiting various Congressmen, inspecting the White House, and in walking about the city. I made a valiant attempt to find the Lincoln Memorial, on foot, and after walking two or three score miles around the interminable Navy buildings, managed to get a glimpse of it a quarter of a mile away.

In the afternoon we were honored with receptions by President Harding and Vice President Coolidge, the latter receiving us in his rooms at the New Willard Hotel. While photographs had made us somewhat familiar with the appearance of the President, I was hardly prepared for the impression of bigness he gives one close to. Over six feet in height, he has very broad shoulders, a large head, and a big hand, and evidently possesses a great deal of personal magnetism.

As we went into the Executive building, we saw General Leonard Wood being photographed by a dozen or more newspapermen. We were further honored that day with tickets to Keith's Theatre for the annual Hobby Party of the National Press Club. The theatre was crowded for the Club had Justice Day of the Supreme Court, the British Ambassador, Secretary Hoover and General Lejeune of the French Army as speakers and Madame Gallucci to sing. President and Mrs. Harding and party, including Secretary Weeks, occupied one of the boxes.

The President made a brief speech from the box, which I missed, as I went out early to visit a friend before train time. In doing so, however, I had an opportunity to see how the movements of the President are planned. As I came down the stairs into the main lobby of the theatre, I was astonished to find it deserted and the sidewalk immediately in front roped off, the crowd pressing close up to the ropes on each side, while at the

FAVORS JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Report of Dr. Van Sickle on Newton Schools Is Highly Complimentary

Early last winter the city government appropriated $2,000 for the purpose of having a survey made of the Newton schools, and Dr. James H. Van Sickle, superintendent of schools of Springfield was engaged for that purpose and began his work early in January. His report was made to the special committee which recommended the appropriation in the first instance early in March, but it has not been made available for publication until the past two weeks.

Dr. Van Sickle was asked a number of specific questions and his report is made in the form of replies to those questions, and from which we have made the following extracts:

Are the public schools of Newton being operated now as efficiently and economically as possible and are there any features of its education system which could be dropped without serious detriment or any which could with advantage be added or strengthened?

Considering the large area of Newton 18 square miles, its exceptionally large high-school membership and its widely separated population centers the schools are managed at as small expense (with minor exceptions noted elsewhere) as is consistent with the high standard demanded by a population of rather exceptional intelligence. It costs more to maintain streets and sewers in a city of scattered villages than in one of equal population but of one-fourth the area. Likewise it costs more to maintain good schools throughout such an area.

The activities carried on in the Newton schools with a single exception, the Vocational School, are those found in all other progressive cities with which Newton is willing to be compared. None of these activities could be eliminated without a distinct loss. Some of these activities, notably physical training, should be better supported.

Is the amount now expended by Newton upon its schools disproportionate to its financial resources?

From statistical comparisons found elsewhere in this report it appears that Newton's financial resources are adequate to support its schools upon the present plane of expenditures. In comparison with other cities of its class Newton is not spending more than it should upon education. In expenditure per pupil Newton stands 5th in a list of 11 cities, in property valuations per pupil 6th in a list of 11 cities. In other words Newton occupies a middle place among the selected cities in expenditure for schools compared with resources. Newton is generous in support of its schools without being extravagant.

3. Is the amount expended by Newton upon its schools disproportionate to the amount expended upon other municipal requirements?

It costs more to support good schools in Newton than in a city of equal population but of one-fourth the area, yet Newton holds a middle place among the cities of our list in amount spent for schools as compared with expenditure for other city departments. Newton stands 4th in a list of 9 cities in this comparison. The amount spent by Newton upon its schools is not therefore disproportionate to the amount expended upon other municipal requirements. Two cities in our list of 11 are not comparable in this item.

4. Would it be wise for Newton, in view of its division into numerous

THE FOURTH OF JULY

Antiques and Horribles, Sports, Band Concerts and Fireworks in Various Parts of the City

The Fourth of July was observed in the usual fashion last Monday, although the day was both hot and humid until the latter part of the afternoon when a welcome east wind made its appearance.

There was plenty of noise and but little deviltry, the excess energy of the amateur hoodlum manifesting itself in ringing false alarms for fire, eight being rung during the day, all of them before 6 o'clock in the morning.

There were two old-fashioned antique and horrible parades, one in Newton Highlands and the other at Upper Falls, both of which attracted much comment, favorable and otherwise.

Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, Upper Falls and Lower Falls also put on a program of sports and games at the playground in each of those villages. There were band concerts at Newton Centre and Newton Highlands.

Newton Centre also had a good display of fireworks. There were two unpleasant incidents during the day, Chief of Police Mitchell being overcome by the heat while on the Newton Centre Playground and was removed to the Newton Hospital, and Whitmore the pitcher for the Thompsonville ball team was also stricken by the sun during the game with the Algonquin Club, on the same Playground.

The program at Newton Centre included a tennis tournament and ball games during the day, field sports in the early evening, followed by a band concert and fireworks. It is estimated that over three thousand people were present during the evening.

The various events, the winners and prizes follow:

Boys' tennis singles, Richard Vaughn, pedometer; girls' tennis singles, Muriel McClelland, flash light; boys' tennis doubles, Vaughn and Rice, 3 tennis balls each; girls' tennis doubles, Muriel McClelland and Elizabeth Boyle, 3 tennis balls each.

Potato races, boys, Philip Darling, cuff links, first; Harold Wright, second; girls, Catherine Lyons, first, bar pin; Miriam Temperley, second.

Three-legged races, boys, Giles and Broady, jackknives, first; Fowler B. and R. B. Cole, second; girls, Julia and Madeline McAndrew, bar pins, first; Esther Temperley and Catherine Daly, second.

100-yard dash, Richard Vaughn, first, jackknife; Philip Darling, second.

50-yard dash, Catherine Carnell, first, bar pin, Clara Smith, second.

¼-mile walk, Hurley first, cuff links, McAndrew second.

Obstacle race, John McCarren, first, Jackknife, John Scherir, second.

The ball game in the morning between the Parkview Club of Cambridge and the Crystal A. C. of Newton Centre was won by Crystal, 13 to 10. The Crystal team comprised, Head, 1b; Broady, ss; Malocco, lf; J. Giles, p and 3b; Kneeland, 3b; Brickett, c; King, cf and p; H. Giles, rf; Lyons, 2b. The Crystal Club also played a seven-inning game in the afternoon with the Pilgrim A. A. of Malden, winning for the second time by the score of 11 to 3. The Crystal line-up in the afternoon comprised King, 1b; Doherty, ss; Lyons, lf; Giles, 3b; Kneeland, cf; Brickett, p; Carley, 2b; Broady, rf; Malocco, c. Heavy hitting by Crystal was the feature of both these games.

Another interesting feature of the day was a very closely contested baseball game between the fast Algonquin team of the Centre and the Thompsonville A. A., the game being won by the latter, 6 to 3.

The all-around playing of Whitmore, Leahy and Jack Drennan for the Algonquins and L. Driscoll, Bright and Keating for Thompsonville featured the game.

A very unfortunate incident and a great handicap to the Algonquin team took place in the seventh inning when Whitmore, after holding the opposing team to a no-hit, no-run game, became suddenly ill.

At Newton Highlands, a live committee from the Improvement Association, consisting of H. C. Berger, chairman, S. A. Thompson, C. S. Redmond, H. P. Gray, M. M. Griswold, Jr., Robert Bonner and Thomas Hinckley, provided an interesting program with a horrible parade in the morning, sports and games on the playground, both morning and afternoon and a band concert and dancing on the school-house lawn in the evening. The sports and winners were as follows:

REAL ESTATE

Edmonds & Byfield report the sale of the property, 169 Park, corner of Church street, Newton, for Helen C. Hopewell of Newton, to John Lovett Morse, of Boston. Property consists of large mansion house, stable, and lot of 24,000 sq. ft., all valued at $30,000. Mr. Morse buys for a home, and will occupy immediately.

The same brokers report the sale of the property, 126 Bellevue street, Newton, for Lucy E. and Helen M. Cobb, of Newton, to George F. Jewett, also of Newton. This estate was the home of the late Mayor Henry E. Cobb, and is one of the most beautiful estates in the city. It consists of large mansion dwelling, stable, garden, cottage, green-house, and other out buildings, and contains about four acres of land. While the sale price is not given, the whole property is valued at $80,000. It is the intention of Mr. Jewett, who is the Principal of the Mt. Ida School for girls, to use this property in connection with the school.

Edmonds & Byfield report the sale of six acres of land on Farlow Hill, Newton, for the Estate of Leander T. Chamberlain, to Frank M. Sheldon of Newton. Property is located on Farlow road and Kenrick street. It is the intention of Mr. Sheldon to erect a dwelling for his own occupancy upon this land. Property is valued by the assessors at $20,000.

FLORIDA AS IS

curb was one of the new White House automobiles in waiting.

That night we took the train for Jacksonville, riding all the next day through the Carolinas and Georgia and finding it a lonesome and most unattractive country. The trees were covered with Spanish moss, the swamps were numerous, and all in all it was a dreary ride. The negro cabins, as seen from the car window, had no cellars and no windows, the holes in the wall having shutters to keep out the air and rain. There was no apparent attempt to make the homes attractive and everything looked shiftless and poverty stricken.

Before entering the State of Florida let us get a few facts in mind before we attempt to give a detailed account of our experiences.

Florida is about seven times as large as Massachusetts in area and has a population of over 900,000, about the same as Boston and Cambridge combined, or a little less than 25 per cent as large as that of Massachusetts. It has the longest coast line of any State in the Union, 1,145 miles in length. It is low and flat, its highest elevation being about the same as the hill on which our covered water reservoir is placed—some 325 feet above the sea level.

Possibly the most striking feature outside of the lack of hills is the large number of lakes, of which there are said to be 30,000. The largest lake is 1,200 square miles in area and is but 25 feet above the sea at that point. Although the greater part of the State is sub-tropical (the tropic of Cancer running between Key West and the island of Cuba), its temperature is most uniform and not particularly hot. The mean July temperature being never less than 80 nor more than 84. This undoubtedly is due to the Gulf Stream which runs close to the Atlantic coast and to the trade winds from the Gulf. The West India hurricanes which are possible in the early fall are almost the only disagreeable feature of the Florida climate. The rainfall is from 58 to 60 inches and there is 60 per cent of sunshine.

While there may be countless alligators and snakes in the State, the only ones I saw in a trip of over a thousand miles, were in a state of captivity, and the capture of one "wild" alligator while we were at Miami was noted as quite a news story in the city papers. I also failed to see any so-called "dismal" swamps. I did see a few acres of what I would call "marsh" land, but the jungle-looking swamp was non-existent.

I found Florida rather unique in its appearance sometimes giving an impression of New Hampshire and more often of some foreign country, but wholly different from my boyhood ideas.

It is also possible that we do not realize the importance of Florida in supplying the rest of the country with food. In a recent issue of the Boston Transcript, Prof. R. J. McFall of the M. A. C. speaking of early vegetables, says:

"Florida enjoys peculiar advantages for this industry, and is, perhaps, the most general trucking community in the United States." He then goes on to say that of cabbage, Florida shipped to Boston last year 21 carloads with New York state, neighbor of Massachusetts, sending in only 188 carloads, and, of course, later than that shipped from Florida. With reference to lettuce shipped into Boston, Prof. McFall says: "There are no near competitors although Florida supplied 62 carloads in the December-May season" of last year. Of potatoes Florida shipped many carloads into the bean-eater's city last year and does so every year. Of strawberries grown in Florida, fourteen carloads arrived in Boston from February to April. With reference to tomatoes, Prof. McFall says: "Here again Florida leads off in the season shipping from January to July; she also leads in quantities, with 216 cars," while Massachusetts has to its credit only 129 carloads, New Jersey 131, Mississippi 88, and other states lesser quantities.

In order not to trespass on space and time it is only necessary to say that Prof. McFall has a good word to say with reference to marketing methods, something that Florida truck and fruit growers are learning to appreciate. He says:

"Practically all truck-producing sections are provided with co-operative exchanges for marketing, but by no means all producers even in the regions where the best exchanges operate avail themselves of the services of these agencies. It is doubtful if any other agency is so well able to bring the standard of the product up to a high quality as is the co-operative exchange, and there is an ever-increasing tendency to use this system to move all such products from the producing regions to the consuming markets."

We reached Jacksonville, known as Jax in railroad parlance, about nine o'clock that night and put up at the Hotel Seminole.

After two nights on the sleeper, we desired a good night's sleep at the hotel, but it was not so ordained, for the automobile drivers had the habit on reaching the hotel, to summon the porters by sounding the horn, and I will wager a new hat that the porters were asleep that night, or there was a heavy rush of business. The noise of those horns made sleep almost impossible.

The next morning we met the main party, which had begun its pilgrimage at Birmingham, Ala., and had passed through Montgomery, Ala., Pensacola and Tallahassee, Fla., on its way to our convention city, St. Augustine.

The day was sultry as well as showery, but it made no change in our program, which included a boat trip on the St. Johns River during the middle of the day and a banquet in the evening at the Hotel Mason, the most modern hotel in the city.

Our trip down the river showed us the excellent progress which had been made in developing docks and wharves and there is plenty of water front left for the future. Above the big draw bridge, there is some business development, but here you can see some beautiful residences with attractive flower beds right down to the water's edge.

While in the city and on the boat we were entertained by a band composed of little negro lads, the leader of which couldn't have been over 7 years of age and he led not only with his baton but with his head and body and feet.

The feature of our banquet that night at the Hotel Mason was one big fish to each person. In addition there were the largest baked white potatoes I had ever seen, most of them being 7 to 8 inches long and 4 and 5 inches in diameter. The banquet hall of the Mason is a richly decorated room at the top of the hotel, with beautiful lighting effects.

The St. Johns River is more like an arm of the sea than the conventional river. At Jax it is very wide and deep and carries a large volume of water. It is a mile or more in width as far up as Palatka, 64 miles from the ocean and through connecting lakes extends as far as Sanford, and it is said that ocean-going vessels go as far as 200 miles from its mouth. It flows nearly parallel with the Atlantic for most of its length and only about 25 miles away. It is one of the most remarkable rivers of the continent.

Jacksonville is a city of about one hundred thousand inhabitants, the gateway to the State of Florida, and as such, seems destined to be the center of big things. It has unusual facilities for water transportation through the St. Johns River and has ample railroad connections with all parts of the country. It therefore is in a position to control both the business and the pleasure features of the entire State.

While taking our special train of 14 Pullman sleepers that night at the Jacksonville station, we had the first of a series of most annoying and disagreeable experiences with the methods of that autocratic organization. Notwithstanding the fact that every car had been fully made up with its quota of 27 people and had been already paid for, the officials of that company kept the entire party in line for many minutes trying to make each person inform them as to the exact berth he or she was to use. As most of the party only knew that they were in such and such numbered car, there was considerable confusion and well-merited irritation manifested at the gate. This, as well as other unfortunate incidents, will not make several hundred editors go far out of their way in the future to give any favorable publicity to the Pullman company.

However, every trouble comes to an end sometime and we all settled down finally for an uneasy sleep en route for St. Augustine.

GARDEN NEWS STORY

In order to get early tomatoes and have them of extra fine quality it pays to train the vines to stakes. The plants should be pruned to one or two stems. A good substantial stake should be driven into the ground near the plant so that it will stand at least two feet high. Care should be exercised in tying the plant to the stake so that it will not be injured by the string. A good plan is to loop the string around the stake and tie it under a leaf stem.

In order to keep the plants properly pruned, it is wise to go over the patch once a week and remove all shoots starting from the axils of the leaves. The stems should be entirely free of leaves and shoots up to a height of ten to twelve inches from the ground. Training plants in this manner should not be attempted if the vines are well grown and the fruit has begun to set.

It is probable that larger yields can be obtained if the tomato plants are allowed to grow unchecked, but the fruit will ripen much more slowly. When plants are not pruned and tied to stakes, it pays to keep the vines and fruit up off the ground by nailing a barrel hoop to three stakes driven into the ground, just high enough to support all the stalks. Another similar method is to support the vines by driving stakes at intervals along each side of the row near the plants and nailing narrow strips of board to the tops of the stakes so as to hold up the vines and the fruit.

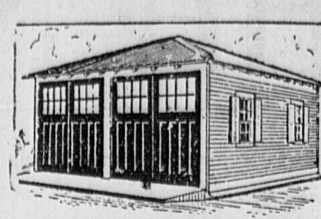

Some gardeners keep the vines off the ground by spreading a heavy mulch of lawn clippings, straw, or sawdust, under the plants so that nothing comes in contact with the ground. This method has the further advantage of doing away with the need of cultivation by destroying weeds and conserving moisture in the ground. Tests carried on by different experiment stations seem to prove that yields have been increased and diseases prevented by this method of protection.

SOME CENSUS FIGURES

A total of 19,381 persons ten years of age and over in Newton, Mass., were engaged in gainful occupation in 1920, according to preliminary occupation statistics made public today by the Census Bureau. The number so engaged constitutes 42.1 per cent of the total population of the city and 50.8 per cent of the population 10 years of age and over. In 1910, the 17,125 gainful workers were 43 per cent of the total population and 51.9 per cent of the population 10 years of age and over.

Of the gainful workers of Newton in 1920, 12,817, or 66.1 per cent, were males and 6,564, or 33.9 per cent, were females. The male gainful workers constituted 76.5 per cent of all males 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 76.5 per cent in 1910, while the female gainful workers constituted 30.7 per cent of all females 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 32.9 per cent in 1910.

Of the gainful workers of Newton in 1920, 6,063, or 31.3 per cent, were engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries; 1,349, or 7 per cent, in transportation; 2,568, or 14.8 per cent, in trade; 431, or 2.2 per cent, in public service; 2,420, or 12.5 per cent, in professional service; 3,227, or 16.7 per cent, in domestic and personal service; 2,508, or 12.9 per cent, in clerical occupations, and 515 or 2.7 per cent in all other occupations.

FAVORS JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

scattered villages, to adopt the Junior High School system?

The Junior High school organization is clearly the one Newton should adopt for the following reasons:

a. The Junior High School provides three types of education—book courses, business courses, manual or industrial courses—but it provides them at the beginning of the seventh instead of at the beginning of the ninth year.

b. The relatively large number of transfer pupils in the vocational courses shows the need of this earlier beginning. These students are those who conspicuously fail in the present elementary work. Many others doubtless struggle on the verge of failure. They should be started earlier in lines of work in which they can succeed than they are at present.

c. The Junior High School plan will keep the young people in their home school a longer time, a very important consideration.

d. The geography of Newton and its distribution of population makes the Junior High School plan feasible. The superintendent's study resulting in the establishing of five such schools is recommended. This distribution of schools will bring together a large enough number of pupils to make a genuine Junior High School program possible and it will give to each district the sort of school it needs.

e. In view of the need for additional school accommodations the Junior High School organization is better fitted to meet the educational needs of Newton than the present organization of eight elementary grades and four high school grades.

5. If so would it be possible to adapt the existing school buildings to use as Junior High Schools?

Two of the present grammar school buildings, the Bigelow and Mason, may be used as Junior High Schools although they lack certain facilities which should be supplied. To complete the plan three new Junior High Schools are needed.

The summary of conclusions regarding the Newton High Schools follows:

1. In general it is the opinion of the survey staff that the quality of teaching in all three high schools is exceptionally good. Teachers of fine personal quality of training and of experience, in general experts in their several fields, are giving whole-hearted and skillful efforts to meeting the educational needs of those who enter their classes.

2. It is the evident policy of the principals to make these genuine schools of opportunity for all who are recommended for admission not only for those who have graduated from the elementary school but also for those who have not been able to finish their elementary school course satisfactorily. With this policy the heads of departments and teachers seem to co-operate heartily.

3. There is, however, a considerable number of these non-graduates from the elementary schools for whom it has not been possible to devise school work sufficiently simple to meet their capacities nor of a kind to enlist their interest. These pupils constitute an educational problem that is growing in size and complexity everywhere as the compulsory school law is effectively enforced and as its requirements are extended. This problem has become one of the most compelling reasons for the adoption of the Junior High School in Newton and elsewhere.

4. The varieties of educational opportunity are numerous. Courses leading to higher institutions must of course meet the requirements of those institutions. The courses leading to business must meet the requirements of the business office. The courses leading to the trades must meet the demands for trade skills and intelligence, but in all these courses provision has been made for study that broadens the mental horizon and gives better understanding of life.

Moreover, a very liberal policy of opinion makes it possible for a student to follow almost any line of interest or ability in general courses. While on paper one or two courses seem scarcely warranted because of small numbers, in practice there are very few small classes, the pupils entering classes already formed in other courses. There is, however, a limit to the number of distinct courses that should be established. This limit is fixed by a reasonable standard of pupils per teacher in the entire school and pupils per class. Indefensibly small classes and a small number of pupils per teacher creates an indefensible large per capita and total high school expense.

5. The standard that has been set and that has been generally maintained for size of classes is about 25 pupils. This is the recognized desirable standard. To maintain it is expensive, but to reduce it would doubtless affect unfavorably the quality of education in the schools.

6. The equipment of the schools appears to be adequate except in the physical training department and in the business course referred to later under those headings. Laboratories, libraries, kitchens, shops for home-making and industrial activities and art rooms are all specially and apparently adequately equipped.

Recommendations

1. There appears to be no reason for any but a favorable judgment on the quality of work done in the Newton High School.

2. There appear no signs of waste in the conduct of the schools.

3. The post-graduate courses are very useful for those who take them. It is not recommended that they be discontinued, but attention is called to the fact that they are essentially outside the High School field and that the policy of conducting such courses is expensive in the room and equipment they use and in teachers' salaries.

4. It would appear that a larger equipment of modern office equipment for the business courses should be supplied.

5. The work done in physical education is excellent but the gymnasium facilities for it are practically entirely lacking. A modern gymnasium and a program requiring at least two full hour periods per week for all students is recommended.

6. The reorganization of the three high schools under one administrative head and one administrative policy is recommended as a measure that will increase the usefulness of school plants, make more generally available for all students the educational opportunities now somewhat closed to many, and tend to create in the minds of the community and the student body a common interest in one common school.

BEAUTIFUL CHARACTER

The following, taken from the Transcript, shows the beautiful character of a young West Newton man who graduated from the High School and Harvard, and was well known in all the Newtons:

An incident of illness brings to the Listener's notice a simple story which must not be allowed to perish, so expressive is it of the essential nobility of childhood. In its bare details, the story is this, as told by the mother in the case, now on a sick bed: "One Christmas morning a little boy, between eight and nine years of age, came before me and said, 'My money was all used up, mamma—none left to buy you your Christmas gift. I know you love Matthew Arnold, so I have learned a poem of his for you.' Standing, he repeated 'The Forsaken Merman' (a long poem in blank verse) perfectly. It was an overwhelming gift to his mother and she finds it the same now. She found words to ask 'Where did you study it, that I never noticed you?' 'Oh,' said the boy, 'I have been going to the woods, building me little fires.'"

A thing of beauty is a joy forever. But this is not the whole of the story. The little boy was Leon W. Redpath, who grew up to become an official of the du Ponts; was killed by accident in the manufacture of the "sneezers of war," and was honored by having the Redpath Laboratory at Parlin, N. J., named after him.

Quick, clean heat for every kind of cooking

PURITAN Oil Cook Stoves are doing the cooking for many hundred thousands of families today. And they are saving the time and labor of as many busy housekeepers the country over.

There's no wood, coal, ashes or litter to bother with and the reversible, glass oil reservoir makes the handling of kerosene both clean and easy.

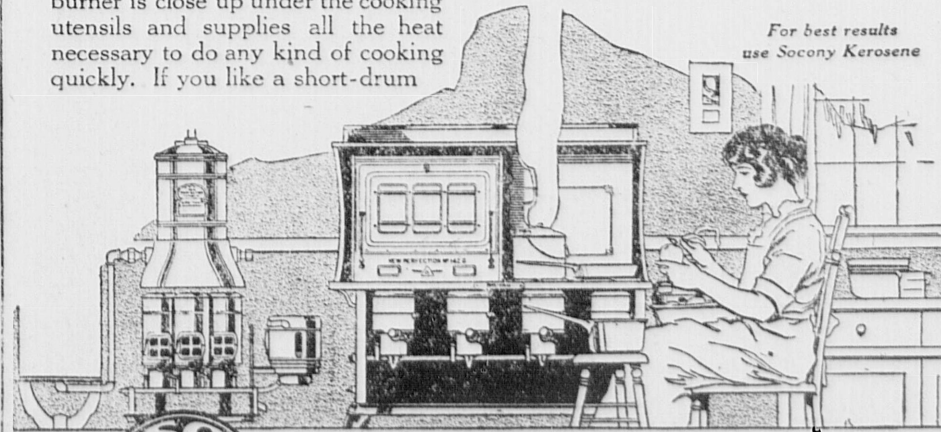

The clean, blue flame of the Puritan burner is close up under the cooking utensils and supplies all the heat necessary to do any kind of cooking quickly. If you like a short-drum stove, you will find the Puritan the best you can buy.

A special feature of the Puritan is its inner combustion tube which is guaranteed for five years. This is the most vital part of the inner burner and the first to wear out in stoves made with less care than the Puritan.

Sold in various sizes by leading dealers everywhere.

EDITORIAL

From the recommendations of Mayor Childs and the remarks of Alderman Nichols at the last meeting of the aldermen, it is evident that a few interested persons intend to foist the junior high school plan upon the city without giving the public and the parents of the children interested a full opportunity to consider all phases of the matter. Some curiosity has also been expressed over the apparent concealment of the report on school conditions made by an expert last winter and which has been in the hands of a few persons since the middle of March. Now, at a time when many families are away for the summer, it is planned to purchase the land and employ an architect for the construction of a junior high school building at Newtonville, thus committing the city to a policy which will undoubtedly lead to the expenditure of at least a million dollars for buildings and a greatly increased cost for school maintenance. Before this is done, a careful canvass should be made of the parents of children now in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades and public meetings held at different parts of the city where the tax payers could be consulted over this tremendous increase in city expenses.

As we understand the situation, the junior high school plan takes one or two of the upper classes of the grade schools and at least one of the lower classes in the high school to form a new school unit. Three such units are now proposed, one to cover Newton, Newtonville and Nonantum, one to include West Newton, Auburndale and Lower Falls and a third to serve the south side of the city. These buildings will surely cost four hundred thousand dollars each and their maintenance will be costly.

One feature of the plan which parents should consider most carefully is the distance that small children will have to travel to attend these schools, requiring in many instances the use of the trolley or automobile and the subsequent increase in the liability to accident. Instead of having a school within walking distance of children up to 14 years of age, as was the custom 15 years ago, the new plan will require children of 10 years to use trolleys and automobiles twice a day.

While it is undoubtedly true that additional room must be obtained for both our grade and high schools, because the city has grossly neglected this matter for the past ten years, we believe it would be much cheaper to build more grammar schools, and even enlarge our present high schools, than to embark on such an expensive plan as the junior high schools will undoubtedly require.

The high schools can be relieved by a return to the ninth grade system and while building the necessary grammar schools, it would be possible to either use portable buildings or divide the pupils into morning and afternoon classes.

We make this suggestion in the interests of what we believe is the best plan for the tax payers, the parents and the children themselves.

Readers of the large daily newspapers and magazines, particularly the latter, should not be deceived by propaganda now being circulated to the effect that on account of increased postal rates, the publishers are obliged to increase the subscription price. Incidentally, the publishers advise a letter to Congressmen and Senators protesting against said postal increase. As a matter of fact the bulk of the increase in postal rates comes on the advertising matter, and is graded by zones, similar to the zones for parcel post. The reading matter pays a nominal and flat rate of two cents a pound no matter where it is addressed. With this distinction in mind, it is clear that the increased postal rates should be borne by the advertisers and not by readers or subscribers. Any attempt, therefore, to increase subscription rates on this basis alone, is an imposition on the subscriber and should be vigorously resented.

It might help along the good work of Americanization, if something could be done to prevent unnaturalized foreigners from utilizing such national holidays as the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day and Washington's Birthday for business purposes. There was a striking instance of this on Monday, when with most all the stores in Newton closed out of respect for the day, one or two stands kept by foreigners were wide open for whatever business might come their way. These men have no respect for such days and never will have any respect unless they are taught that these days are sacred to Americans and must not be used for money-making purposes.

The appalling figures of 237 persons killed in automobile accidents this year should spur our police authorities and our courts to drastic action on every person caught violating the laws intended to control reckless driving. It is a misdirected conception of justice to impose a nominal fine in such cases and nothing less than a term in the county jail should be considered. In no other way can our happy go lucky, careless citizen be controlled.

The Newton Constabulary is now officially dead, having been appointed to serve during the war with Germany, and President Harding's approval of the peace resolution last Saturday marks the end of an organization which has been of great benefit to the city of Newton. Peace to its ashes.

We could have told last January, that by the employment of Dr. Van Sickle, one of the most prominent advocates of the Junior High School idea in the State, his report would undoubtedly recommend such a system for this city.

MORE CAREFUL THINKING—LESS RECKLESS TALKING

Abuse of Congress seems to be the favorite indoor sport at present of most of those who feel called upon to abuse somebody. Congress is cursed because it failed, within a three months' session to rehabilitate an economic, political and industrial structure well nigh wrecked by an administration recently retired from power. The noisiest of the denouncers of the slow progress made by the wrecking crew are the very politicians who caused the wreck. They are seconded by numerous thoughtless talkers and writers who do not stop to give consideration either to the size of the task before Congress or the difficulties of finding immediate remedies for the evils and abuses to be cured.

Congress is also being denounced by Federal functionaries who do not get all they want by way of appropriations or authorization to pad present payrolls or create new ones. The custom of denunciation of the legislative branch of government by administrative office holders was one which flourished under the Wilson administration. It was a phase of that reckless and irresponsible spirit of autocracy which has cost the American people so much in recent years, and which the voters by an impressive majority, rebuked in November last.

The greatest disservice that can be rendered the American people at this time is thoughtless denunciation of the national legislature, which has even been bitterly criticized because, as the appropriating power, it performed a sworn duty in investigating the criminal waste of the people's money by executive agents under the last national administration.

Congress has halted the legislative and administrative program which had put this country on the high road to bankruptcy and state socialism. It has thwarted the attempt to involve this country in the political system of Europe, and thereby prevented the visitation upon America of financial, political and economic disaster and probable permanent change in the very character of our institutions. In harmony with the executive branch of government it is doing its very best to reduce expenditures, decrease taxes to safeguard the future of America, and so safeguard the condition of depression and unemployment inherited from the Wilson era may be corrected at the earliest possible moment. For all this it is entitled to the commendation and assistance of all those honestly interested in the welfare of the administration and of the American people.—National Republican.

FIREBUG ABOUT

From the experience of the Fire Department on Tuesday, Chief Randlett is of the opinion that a firebug is operating in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Feakes of Park avenue, Newton, returned from a two weeks' absence about noon Tuesday and after entering the house which had been closed during that time, heard some suspicious sounds from the cellar. While investigating the matter, a man was seen to climb out the cellar window and run away. Mr. Feakes also discovered some excelsior and other inflammable material piled on the cellar stairs up against the cellar door.

About three o'clock that afternoon, box 116 was rung for a fire in the unoccupied Lawton residence on Franklin street and the department had a hard time to master it. From evidences found after the fire there is no doubt but what it was of incendiary origin, starting in the pantry. The damage was over $2,000.

An hour and a half later box 83 was rung for a fire in a new and vacant house on Kenilworth street, which started in the cellar and did about $2,000 damage before it was subdued.

Both of these houses are within a half mile radius of the Feakes residence.

Chief Randlett believes that these fires have been set by the same person who has been at similar work in Brookline and Cambridge.

It would be helpful if residents would immediately communicate with the police if they see any suspicious persons moving about the house or grounds of those who are away for the summer.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. Adelaide Louisa Gilman, the widow of the late Hon. Gorham D. Gilman, passed away last Friday after a long illness at her home in Vernon Court, Newton. Mrs. Gilman was born in Brewster, Mass., Feb. 12, 1840, and was the daughter of Eben and Eliza Crease Sears. She has been a resident of Newton for about fifty years. Mrs. Gilman is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Braham of Newton, a step-son, Mr. Abbott Gilman of Brookline, and a step-daughter, Mrs. George Angier of Newton. Funeral services were held in the Newton Cemetery chapel on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Dr. H. Grant Person, pastor of Eliot Church, officiating and the burial was in the family lot.

Leonard Clark, first; Robert Early, second; 12 to 14 years—Howard Weeks, first; Russell Clark, second.

Girls' 50-yard dash, 9 to 14 years—Harriet Berger, first; Helen Ray, second; 14 to 16 years—Eleanor Newton, first; Katherine Bonner, second.

Relay race won by Joyce, Blair, Howard, and Holmes Whitmore, with Patterson, Hazen, Davis and Dudley, second.

Girls' relay race won by Katherine Bonner, Eleanor Newton, Katherine Gannon, Leona Scully, first; Helen Bicknell, Mary Reynolds, Constance Ruby, Helen Clark, second.

Potato race, boys, Joyce, first, Patterson, second.

Potato race, girls, Dorothy Goddard, first; Anna Bacon, second.

The older persons were also included in the list of sports, the men's wheelbarrow race being won by Hurler, Weeks, second, the three-legged race by Ruggles and Hubbard with Weeks and Clark, second.

The women entered a hoop-rolling contest, Mary Reynolds winning first and Miss Picone, second. They also had a ball-throwing contest, Rosamond Jones winning first and Leona Scully, second.

There was considerable interest taken in the ball game between the Men's League and the Men's Club, the latter winning by the close score of 7 to 6, five innings being played. In the afternoon the ball game between the Elliot Boys' Club and the Newton Highlands Boys' Club was won by Elliot 2 to 0, seven innings being played.

At the Upper Falls, the celebration was in the hands of Needham Council, Knights of Columbus, and included a horrible parade in the early morning, and ball games on the playground in the morning and afternoon.

A number of decorated booths were set up on the playground for all kinds of near-gambling devices such as throwing rings for canes and kewpies, and for the sale of eatables and soft drinks. There was also dancing on a canvas spread on the tennis court. The morning ball game between the Ramblers and the Natick Town team was won by the Ramblers 5 to 1. In the afternoon, Needham Council, K. C., defeated St. Marks 6 to 3.

Andrew Mazonne won the first prize for the best float in the horrible parade and the Sons of St. George were awarded second prize. Mr. Thomas E. Lees received the prize for the best decorated auto.

A program of field events had been planned but it was abandoned on account of the heat.

Nearly 1,000 people attended the annual outing and picnic held at Forest Grove Park on the holiday under the auspices of Newton Lodge, 3204, I. O. O. F. The entire day was given over to sports and games for the children.

One of the main features of the afternoon session was the ball game between the Auburndale Wanderers, and a picked team from the lodge, the former winning by the score of 10 to 5. The game was closed for the first time in its history, with some heavy hitting, the Auburndale team forged into the lead which it maintained to the end. During the evening refreshments were served to everyone and not until darkness made it impossible to continue the picnic further did the gathering begin to leave.

The affair was one of the most successful held in many years and the work of the entertainment committee under whose supervision the picnic was staged was warmly commended at the conclusion of festivities.

OBJECT TO CUT IN WAGES

That the difference between the Middlesex and Boston street railway and its employees will have to go to a board of arbitration for settlement was made practically certain Friday evening when an offer of 51 cents an hour, a cut of 9 cents an hour, made by the company at a conference between President Drew and President W. F. Eagan of the Street Railway Men's Union, was rejected by the Union. This is a better offer than was previously made, as the 51 cents represents a cut of approximately 10 percent, while the former offer, tentatively made as a "feeler" was a cut of 20 percent.

The men, at the meeting, pronounced themselves as opposed to a cut of any nature, claiming that the cost of living has not yet reached the point that warrants a reduction in wages. Although this cut is not as large as was at first anticipated, it means a slash of almost ten per cent, or an average of about $5.00 a week to most of the employees.

Although the company has announced a tentative cut of nine cents an hour, the men are firmly opposed to taking this much, and one of the officers of the Union, in speaking of the matter said:

"We want at least 60 cents an hour and if the company tries to give us less, we will fight. They may claim that the high cost of living has come down from the war peak, but anyone living in Waltham, for instance, will testify that rents, for one thing, are still as high as they ever were and in many cases they are going higher instead of lower. Every time a tenant moves out the rent is usually raised, except in some exceptional cases, and we are from Missouri when anyone says that the cost of living is less than it was during the war."

NEWTON POST A. L.

The smoker held by Newton Post of the Legion on Friday night in Legion Hall, West Newton, brought out a large gathering of members.

Among those who performed during the evening, either as singers, dancers, athletic performers or other forms of amusement were Joseph Brennan, Fred Hapenny and his little brother, Joseph Murphy, Bert Towne, Harold Brooks, Nick Tierney, the Duval brothers and Stuart Phippin. The entertainment committee of the Post, of which William Greene is chairman was in charge of the affair.

The ball team won a fast game at Waltham, on Monday, from the Waltham K. C. by the score of 2 to 0.

TWO MILES OF AIRPLANES

Impressive Welcome That Was Given to General Nivelle on Kelly Field in Texas.

When the first sentry at Kelly field saluted Gen. Robert Georges Nivelle the word was passed to the waiting airmen and as General Nivelle's car rounded hangar No. 1 he saw a line of ships that stood wing to wing, from hangar No. 1 to No. 24. A line of SE-5s, De Havillands, Fokkers, Spads, Curtiss, JN-6 Hg., Capronis and Handley Pages, every plane in working order, with its crew and pilot lined up in front.

The general rode down the entire line. When he returned to the reviewing stand the word of command was given and the big line of pilots and mechanics simultaneously broke, and from hangar No. 1 the bark of a single S-E. was the signal for the entire line of ships to "come to life," and they did. Three minutes later there was not a single dead motor on the line and the first-pursuit formation was already out on the field ready to take off. They were followed by three other S-E. formations; then the De Havillands rounded off. The formation circled the field and passed over the reviewing stand. The highest formation was 2,000 feet, the lowest 500.

There was a typical Texas northern in action, with a thirty-five-mile wind on the ground, and naturally it was a little bumpy. You who have down in Texas know what that means, but the formations were all close and some excellent stunting was carried on despite conditions.

The A. S. M. S. contributed pilots to a pursuit and bombing formation. Both formations were low and close and the mechanics' school men showed that, though they were supposed to be more familiar with the monkey wrench than the joy stick, when occasion demanded they could handle both in a more than passing manner. — American Service Bulletin.

MIGHT HAVE "WON" THE ROLL

Colored Man Did His Best, and the Matter Ended Without Harsh Feelings.

Somewhere in Chicago today a good-natured negro is suffering passive disappointment, for he very nearly "won" some money yesterday.

A reporter was passing along Sheridan road near Irving Park boulevard when he noticed a small roll of money. As he reached for it a slim and smiling negro jumped out of a doorway and said:

"Just a minute, boss. I just missed it in time. It's mine, mister."

The finder turned to one side, saw how much there was in the small roll, and asked:

"How much did you lose?"

"Let me see," said the negro, still smiling and looking thoughtfully up in the air. "bout, let's see, now, Oh-h-h-h, say 'bout 'leven dollars."

"Wrong," said the reporter. "This amount is nothing like that."

"Well," said the negro, shrugging his shoulders, "the best I could do, boss, was try. You win!"—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Desired Money's Worth.

Five-year-old Noel had been taken to the dentist to have three teeth extracted. He was duly exhorted by the dentist on "sitting up like a little man and not having to be held, etc."

And Noel proceeded to do so. Not a whimper escaped. Still smiling, he slipped into his coats as father paid the dentist. When he saw the exchange of money Noel asked, "Dad, what did he charge?"

"Three dollars—a dollar a tooth," father replied.

"Oh, shoot!" Noel was plainly disgusted. "If I'd a known he was going to charge like that I'd have to be held and yelled like everything."

New Sterilization Process.

The new process of sterilizing milk developed by Prof. J. Martin Beattie of the University of Liverpool is claimed to kill all bacteria without the alteration of taste produced by pasteurization. An electric current is passed quickly by a special apparatus, raising the temperature of the milk not higher than 148 degrees Fahrenheit, and producing no cooking or alteration of the essential properties of the material.

Fish-Skin Leather.

Fish-skin leather has been so successful in imitating that made from animal hides that it is now almost impossible to distinguish between the two kinds. The bureau of fisheries and the bureau of standards at Washington are now trying to discover a simple and easy way of detecting the difference.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Mrs. Sarah D. Early, a well-known resident of Newton Lower Falls, was the victim of a sad automobile accident last Tuesday, receiving injuries from which she died almost instantly. While Mrs. Early was crossing Beacon street in the Back Bay of Boston, she was struck by an automobile operated by Forrest R. Mitchell, the machine dragging her a considerable distance before it was stopped. The police ambulance was called and she was taken to the City Hospital, but died before reaching there.

Mrs. Early was 56 years of age and the widow of the late James A. Early, a former postmaster of the Lower Falls. She is survived by six children, two sons, Capt. John Early, Phil-Early, and four daughters, the Misses Eleanor, Elizabeth, Edna, and Kathryn Early, all residing at the Falls.

The funeral was held this morning with services at her late home on Washington street, Wellesley Lower Falls, followed by a high mass of requiem at St. John's Church. The interment was in Waltham.

THE UNION BAZAAR

Have you heard of the great union bazaar which is to be held November 8 and 9 in the Y. M. C. A. building? Six of the churches of Newton, Channing, Grace, Elliot, the Immanuel Baptist, the Methodist, and the North Congregational are, joining with the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. to make this the crowning event of the fall. The bazaar is to be conducted as a large department store. We hope that every woman in Newton will find in some department a place where she will enjoy working. As you read this article will you decide just what department that is and send your name to its chairman?

We are anticipating great results—not only financially, but also in the promotion of real neighborliness. Our village is so large that we often know little of the people of other churches or of those who live in different sections. As we work shoulder to shoulder for a common purpose, we shall find congenial spirits, and life will become all the richer for the joy of the comradeship. In order to promote this spirit of good-fellowship there will be all-day sewing-meetings at the various churches every two weeks, beginning Wednesday, June 29, at Grace Church. The second meeting will be at the Immanuel Baptist Church, Wednesday, July 13. May we not hope that you who are reading this will come? Bring a basket lunch. Coffee will be served at five cents a cup. If you cannot come for all day, drop in for an hour or two and bring whatever you are working upon for the bazaar. If you have nothing started, there will be plenty of aprons and lingerie to be made. Just come. The following is the list of chairmen to whom you may apply for work:

General chairman: Mrs. Harold P. Fuller, 136 Washington street.
Co-chairmen: Mrs. Samuel W. Bridges, 36 Fairmont avenue; Mrs. John T. Lodge, 186 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Department chairmen: Apron, Mrs. W. H. Wallace, 36 Vernon street.
Cafeteria: Mrs. E. P. Brown, 14 Washington street.
Candy: Mrs. Stafford Johnson, 56 Bennington street.

Finance: Mr. E. H. Bell, 56 Waverley avenue.
Food: Mrs. William Spurrier, 6 Church street.

Linen Closet: Mrs. Charles H. Peterson, 155 Oakleigh road.
Lingerie: Mrs. George Defren, 289 Park street.

Parcel Post: Mrs. Otto Bacman, 146 Crafts street, Newtonville.
Program Committee: Mr. Arthur W. Blakemore, Dr. Sterling Loveland, Mr. Walter B. Sharp.

Publicity: Miss Jessie Fisher, 217 Church street.
Tea room: Mrs. Robert L. Rae, 40 Bridge street.

THE PLYMOUTH PAGEANT

Mayor Childs has received an invitation over the signature of Governor Cox and the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission in Boston requesting him to represent Newton officially at the opening performance of the pageant, "The Pilgrim Spirit," in Plymouth on the evening of July 13.

The mammoth spectacle, written and produced by Prof. George P. Baker of Harvard University, with 1400 residents of Plymouth and the surrounding country in the cast, is the dramatic climax of a year of public observances commemorating the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers 300 years ago.

The pageant itself will set a new standard in this country in outdoor dramatics. More than a theatrical performance, its rehearsals are rapidly turning the port of Plymouth into an American Oberammergau through the reverential spirit which has developed in the men and women who are to take part in the 20 scenes and tableaux.

Elaborately costumed, the pageant pictures America before the arrival of the Mayflower. Torward, the Norse sea rover, is shown on his first expedition. After him come the early Dutch, English, and French adventurers, color tableaux symbolic of early influences shaping the history of this country.

The second and third episodes show the life of the Pilgrim Fathers in England and the persecution which drove them to the hospitable Dutch cities. These episodes have all the color of the paintings of the early Dutch masters. The dramatic action moves on to the arrival of the Mayflower, the landing, the tragic first winter of the settlement and tableaux of historic scenes which laid the foundation stones of America of today. The finale brings the Pilgrim spirit to the climatic tableau in which the 48 States declare for the new America: "The path of the Mayflower must be kept open."

After the opening night on July 13 the pageant will be repeated on July 14, 15 and 16; July 30, August 1, 2 and 3, and August 10, 11, 12 and 13—the dates set by tide and moon that the "land-water" stage at the foot of historic Cole's Hill may fit in with the plan to have the Mayflower repeat its entry of 300 years ago.

TO ENLARGE MT. IDA SCHOOL

George Franklin Jewett of ux., who have bought the Henry E. Cobb estate on Bellevue street opposite the Mt. Ida School for Girls, the report of which purchase was recently noted, have plans ready for the improvements in the property, which will be used in connection with the school. Part of the land will have a paddock laid out, where horseback riding will be taught—a golf course and tennis court. In winter an artificial pond will be frozen for skating. The house will be used as a dormitory for seniors, and part of it will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jewett. The house contains twenty-four rooms and six bathrooms.

LEAVING NEWTON

After a residence of eleven years in Newton, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wendte are about to remove to California, leaving for their future home on Saturday. They have endeared themselves to a wide circle of friends here, who deeply regret their going. The change is really a return to their former home, for Mrs. Wendte is a native of California and Dr. Wendte has spent a large portion of his active life in that state.

Dr. Wendte's life story is a fascinating one, full of varied activity and achievement, with experiences that would read like a romance. His parents were born in Hanover, Germany, but came to America in search of a freer life than was possible in their native country. The father was one of the pioneer interior decorators in this country, some of his early work being found in the older government buildings at Washington. Dr. Wendte, the older of two sons, was born in Boston June 11, 1844. Under the influence of the preaching and personal friendship of Theodore Parker, he grew up imbued with a devotion to American political principles and a liberal religious faith. While he was employed in a commercial house in Boston, his health became impaired, which led to his removal with his widowed mother and younger brother to California. He fitted for the ministry at Harvard Divinity School, was ordained in 1869, and had pastorates in Chicago, Cincinnati, Newport, R. I., and Oakland, Calif., up to 1898, when he came to the Unitarian Church at Newton Centre. Later he was in the charge of the Parker Memorial and filled the pulpit of the Brighton Unitarian Church. His most notable work, however, has been as foreign secretary of the American Unitarian Association, a position which he filled for many years. He organized in 1900 the International Congress of Free Christians and Other Religious Liberals, which under his leadership has held sessions in five European countries. Large parties, including many members from Newton, attended sessions held in Berlin in 1910 and Paris in 1913.

In this connection he has formed a wide and intimate acquaintance with scholars and preachers of nearly every country in the world, many of which he has visited. He has just accepted the chairmanship of the committee having in charge the trip to the eighth session of the congress, to be held in Europe in 1922, and hopes to return from California with Mrs. Wendte to join in the journey. He has just published a biography of his friend, Thomas Starr King, one of the brightest lights of Unitarianism in the time of Dr. Wendte's youth, who sacrificed his life in his exertions to save California to the Union in the Civil War. The friends of Dr. and Mrs. Wendte wish them a long and happy life in the genial climate of the Pacific coast and hope for frequent visits from them to the East.

Dr. and Mrs. Wendte will visit Alaska before going to their California home.

RECREATION HEAD

Mr. Jarvis T. Beal, 2nd, connected with the Springfield, Vermont Model Community Club for the past two years, as physical director, later managing director and who while in Newton High and Harvard College started in baseball, has been appointed recreation leader at Lenox, Mass.

Mr. Beal is twenty-eight years old, was graduated from Newton high school in 1912, and from Harvard College in 1917. While in college he sang in the freshman and varsity Glee Clubs, and played third base on the freshman and varsity baseball team under the coaching of "Doc" Sexton, Percy Haughton and Fred Mitchell, now manager of the Boston Braves. Mr. Beal was a member of the Boylston Club, the Harvard Varsity Club, and of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity. Having enlisted in the 301st Field Signal and Telephone Co., Mr. Beal went overseas with the 76th Division in July, 1918, from Camp Devens. Nearly five months after the Armistice, he went to Cambridge University, England, for three months' travel and study. While at college there he captained the Cains College baseball team, and played third base.

At Lenox, Mr. Beal will continue his work of promoting community spirit and pride, embracing men, women and children in programmes of recreation, education and amusement. At present he is planning a proper commemoration of Independence Day, and has been chosen chairman of athletics for the day.

GARDEN NEWS

The returns from the crops following peas, strawberries or any early crop that has been removed, will depend to quite an extent on the care used in transplanting or sowing this second crop.

Although there are many vegetables that will develop if planted or transplanted at this time, the more common ones that will appeal to the average gardener include late cabbage and cauliflower, celery, snap beans and turnips. In transplanting any of the plants mentioned the main thing to take into consideration is to keep the roots of the plant from exposure to wind and sun. Also, see to it that the place where plants are to be put in has been well moistened. If one has to carry water in a pail, it is much better to put a small amount in each hole where the cabbage or cauliflower is to be put rather than attempt to cover the entire surface. This should be allowed to thoroughly soak in before the plant is actually put in place.

Holes should be dug and watered, ready to receive the plants before they are taken from the original row. There is no need of putting more water on the surface of the ground. It will do more good around the roots. If turnip seed is to be sown, a light trench should be made and this thoroughly wet down the same as for receiving the transplants. Seeds should be sown directly into this moist earth and then covered with dry earth. If beans are planted two inches below the surface of the ground, moist soils contain sufficient moisture to grow them.

HONORED BY YALE

Archibald Marshall, the popular English novelist, who is visiting America, has been honored by Yale University with the degree of Doctor of Letters. This enviable distinction undoubtedly pleases Mr. Marshall's many admirers.

Mr. Marshall's novels are all good stories, each with a plot and living characters. Thomas Hardy has said that the basis of every novel should be a story. Looking back over the history of the novel, every well-known piece of fiction has been a great story. Robinson Crusoe, Carissa, Tom Jones, Humphrey Clinker, the Bride of Lammermoor, Pride and Prejudice, Vanity Fair, David Copperfield, Mill on the Floss, Richard Feverel, Return of the native, Treasure Island, Last of the Mohicans, Scarlet Letter, Huckleberry Finn, have been primarily stories. Professor Phelps says that every one of these, "if given in colloquial paraphrase to a group about a campfire, would be rewarded with attention." Mr. Marshall's novels are in the same category. Only two of his have been failures and in each of these the main purpose has been something other than truth to life.

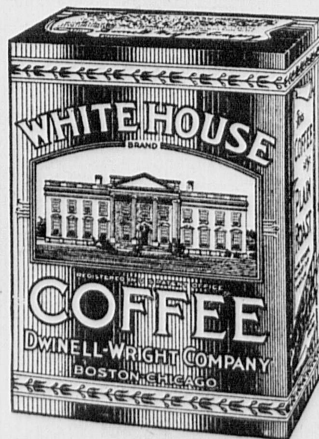

The Newton Free Library has the following of his titles, all of which have been published during the past 16 years:

Abington abbey.
Clinton, and others.
Eldest son.
Exton manor.
Graftons.
Greatest of these.
Hall and the grange.
Honour of the Clintons.
House of Merillees.
Many Junes.
Old order changeth.
Richard Baldock.
Sir Harry.
Spring walk in Provence.
Squire's daughter.
Upsidonia.
Watermeads.
Mr. Marshall has a new story in preparation for publication next Spring. Its title will be Anthony Dare.

REV. MR. SULLIVAN HONORED

In conferring the honorary degree of doctor of divinity upon Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, Rev. Henry B. Washburn, D.D., dean of the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, spoke as follows:—

"Edward T. Sullivan, for 29 years the minister of one people, his only parish; daily going from strength to strength with buoyant spirit with indefatigable industry, with boundless confidence in the possibilities of his profession; faithful servant of diocese and church; public-spirited citizen."

Dr. Sullivan began his work at the Newton church while he was a theological student at Cambridge, in the school of which Bishop Lawrence was then dean. About a dozen families, meeting in a hall, constituted the parish of Trinity Church when the young theological student from Cambridge took charge.

Dr. Sullivan is one of three clergymen in the diocese who have been 30 years or more in the same parish. He is also one of the few who hold the distinction of having remained in the same place throughout their careers as clergymen.

Another distinction, cherished by the Newton rector, is the honor of being one of the two clergymen at present in the diocese who were ordained by Phillips Brooks. The man with whom Dr. Sullivan shares this honor is Rev. William H. Dewart of the Old North Church.

The degree was given at the recent 54th annual commencement exercises of the School.

Holy Ghost Hospital, Cambridge, Mass.

Dear Mr. Hudson: Please send me 4 bottles of depilatory and oblige

PLAYGROUNDS NOW OPEN

Summer Program Now in Full Swing

The usual intensive season of playground supervision on all the Newton Playgrounds started this week. The following playgrounds will be supervised mornings, afternoons and evenings: Burr Playground, Boyd Playground, Stearns Playground, Allison Playground, Cabot Playground, Horace Mann Playground, Eden Avenue, West Newton Playground, Auburn-dale Playground, Lower Falls Playground, Upper Falls Playground, Highlands Playground, Newton Centre Playground and Thompsonville Playground.

There are either men or women directors, or both, on these grounds all the time. The boys and girls who come to the playgrounds will be properly taken care of and if possible drawn into some form of athletic or other form of activities.

A special feature of the work this year will be instruction in occupational play. Mr. Holman, who has charge of this work, will introduce the making of kites, the making of bird cages, flying machines and a number of useful articles, either for the house or for boys' play. There will probably be, in the near future a kite flying competition, open to all boys of Newton. This may be extended to a competition of flying machines and sailing boats.

Special emphasis will be laid this year on track and field coaching. Mr. A. T. Leary will coach the boys and young men on the playgrounds on the south side of Newton. Mr. Arthur S. Roberts, who has held the all-round championship in New England for some years, will coach the different playgrounds on the north side of Newton. There will be three groups: intermediate, junior and senior. Sometime in August there will be a big athletic meet on the Newton Centre playground where the championship for each playground will be determined, and prizes will be offered for the City of Newton all-round athletic championship. The boys are urged to find out from their local director when the special coaches may be expected on their grounds. They should at once enter regular and faithful practice in order to prepare to take part in the preliminary meet which will be started the first week in August.

In addition to these special athletic activities there will be the usual baseball schedule for midgets, juniors, intermediates and seniors. For this baseball schedule the city has been divided into three districts, namely the north side, the south side and the west side.

The schedule is being printed and will start July 14th. The winners in the three different districts will be brought together in a special schedule to determine the city championship. There will be inter-playground tournaments in fist ball, quoits, dodge ball and croquet.

The girls will participate in all these activities, which have been adapted to meet the girls' needs. The girls will have special occupation work similar to the work done last year. They will have in addition, folk dancing and an opportunity to win the city championship in folk dancing contests. The girls are urged to enter at once into the practice of these folk dances. There will be for the girls 13 to 18 a course in Mother Craft work as in former years. This course includes their instruction in health practice and those who conclude the course will be given a diploma, which is issued under the auspices of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Seaver and Miss Herrick, as representatives of the Newton Welfare Bureau will have charge of the special health work. This will include the weighing of the children and instruction in health habits, the playing of health games, etc. They will conduct bi-weekly competitions and will issue buttons to those who faithfully live up to the rules, and will finally finish up with a picnic for those who lived up to the rules and regulations of the health clubs. This work will be under the direction of the two ladies mentioned and will be done with the help of the playground director and will be under the general supervision of Mrs. Hull of the Newton Welfare Bureau. The expenses for this are being met by the Welfare Bureau.

Bathing is supervised now at the following places: Auburndale Park, Allison Playground, Upper Falls Playground. Shower baths are open for use at the Stearns School, Bowen School, the new Burr Playground, and the Newton Centre playground.

The following schedule of Band Concerts and Dancing on the Green has been arranged. These concerts are given under the auspices of the Newton Circle, Incorporated and are managed by the Playground Department and their officers. The Newton Constabulary Band furnish the music.

July 14. Stearns Playground.
July 21. West Newton Playground.
July 28. Upper Falls Playground.
August 4. Newton Highlands Playground.
August 11. Newton Centre Playground.

NORUMBEGA PARK

Now that the glorious fourth is over, and the absence of holidays will be in evidence from now until Labor Day, people have seemed to arrive at some resting place for the summer. The thousands who attend the twice daily stage shows at Norumbega Park are more than pleased with the quality of the programs presented, and the exceptional coolness of the theatre-of-steel auditorium.

This week will be offered two special feature photo plays of the Cosmopolitan productions. For the first three days will be seen Marian Davies in "Buried Treasure." The other will feature the popular actor, E. K. Lincoln, with his co-star, Senna Owen, in the greatest of all photoplay productions, "The Woman God Changed."

Vaudeville acts will be as follows: Eugene and Finney, sensational horizontal bar comedians; Ryan and Mann, songs and comedy; King and Perry, comedy songs and dancing; Wells and Fargo, expressing. Dancing is as popular as ever in the popular priced restaurant.

NEW BOOK

Journey's End—By Edna A. Brown

A novel that is really worth while. Amory Russell, just back from two years' service with a surgical unit in France, is induced by circumstances to begin his medical career in the little seaport town where he had grown up in the Quaker home of his uncle and aunt. Into his life comes Elizabeth, a girl of modern type and tendencies, who, somewhat against her will, becomes interested in this young man of such different inheritance and training. The story concerns itself with their mutual reaction upon each other's character and with the influence upon both of the Quaker saint who presided over the ancestral home of Journey's End.

Those who are tired of rapid-fire action, improbable situations, slang, sex problems, and ultra-modern society, will enjoy this story enacted by lovable characters in a charming setting—old fashioned, perhaps, in that it deals with people who are still influenced by love and duty, and who live simply in gracious ways. The narrative flows along like a quiet river—but a river that reflects the stars, although finding occasional obstacles that trouble its course.—[Lothrop, Lee and Shepard.]

MR. DICKINSON TO STAY

The sporting editor of the Boston Globe has the following to say about Coach A. W. Dickinson of the Newton High School:

"Newton High graduates and students and the citizens generally are delighted that the School Board has voted Coach Alfred W. Dickinson of the High School athletic teams a very substantial increase in salary for next year and that he has decided to remain, declining a number of excellent offers to coach at colleges and preparatory and high schools. He teaches mathematics in addition to his coaching duties at Newton High.

"Since Dickinson resigned from Somerville High to take the Newton position, he has done exceptionally good work, and in late years has developed many athletes who have gone to Harvard, Brown, Amherst, Colgate and Williams, where practically all of them have made good."

BAND CONCERT

The first in a series of band concerts to be given in different parts of the city by the Newton Circle, Inc., in cooperation with the Playground Department, took place last night on the Burr Playground at Newton. Several hundred people were attracted by the affair and enjoyed the good music rendered by the Newton Constabulary Band and the dancing on a temporary flooring laid on the playground.

The next concert will be given on Thursday night at the Stearns school playground.

These concerts are financed by a group of ladies who call themselves the Newton Circle, Inc., and who are working for the community welfare.

Their enterprise in this respect deserves not only the best wishes of the community but its financial support as well.

DEATH OF MRS. NASH

Mrs. Andelia E. Nash, the wife of Mr. Walter H. Nash, who died at her home in East Orange, N. J., on Wednesday, was a former well known resident of this city before her marriage to Mr. Nash in the fall of 1899. She was the daughter of the late Hosea Hyde. The burial was in the Newton Cemetery yesterday afternoon. Rev. Newton A. Merritt, Jr., pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, officiating.

Dominican Republic.

The Dominican Republic is located in the eastern portion of the island of Haiti, one of the largest of the West Indies, lying between a latitude of 17°36'40 and 19°25'20 north and a longitude of 68°18 and 74°51 west of Greenwich. Its boundaries are the Atlantic ocean on the north, the Mona channel on the east, the Caribbean sea on the south and the Republic of Haiti on the west.

GOOD WORK

Arthur Happenny of Beech street and Simon Delory of Allison street, Nonantum, saved Matilda Cescitelli, 13 years old, of Watertown, from drowning in the Charles River on Wednesday afternoon.

The girl was bathing in the river below the Aetna Mills at Bemis and happened to get beyond her depth. By screaming and struggling she attracted the attention of the two youths who were on the Newton side of the river. They were fully clad and without removing their clothing went into the river after her and reached her just as she was going down for the third time.

With her limp form between them they swam to the Watertown side of the river and worked over the girl for about 20 minutes, finally reviving her. The girl was later taken to her home by a woman in a passing automobile.

GEN. EMERY INJURED

Gen. William B. Emery, of Ivanhoe street, Newton, Quartermaster General of the Massachusetts National Guard, was injured early last evening in Natick when the automobile which he was driving was in collision with an automobile owned by Earl G. Barry of Shawmut avenue, Cohituate.

There were six persons in the Barry car, but none of them was injured. Gen. Emery's head crashed through the windshield of his machine. His scalp was severely cut. Several stitches were taken in the wound by Dr. William J. Cochran.

Gen. Emery had been visiting the State arsenal at Framingham, and was returning to his home.

His machine was so badly smashed that he had to leave it by the roadside.

FAVORS JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PLAN

Full Report of the Special Commission on Additional School Accommodations

The following report has just been filed by the Special Commission on Additional School Accommodations, consisting of Aldermen Philip Nichols, Chairman; William L. Allen, Stephen H. Whidden, George M. Angier and Everett E. Kent of the School Committee and Supt. of Schools U. G. Wheeler.

The special commission was appointed to study the needs of the City of Newton with respect to new school buildings and to recommend a comprehensive plan for the development of the school system that would be consistent with the financial resources of the city. It has, through its own members, made a careful study of the problem. It also engaged the services of Dr. James H. Van Sickle of Springfield, one of the foremost educators of the country, to make a survey of the schools of Newton and to report upon their existing condition, their needs and the expenditures of Newton upon its school system in their relation to those of other cities and towns. Dr. Van Sickle's report has been of great assistance to the commission, and we recommend its careful reading by all citizens interested in our public schools. We have, however, felt that the responsibility for ultimate conclusions is ours, and have given the subject long and careful consideration.

The problem with which we are faced is in part educational and in part financial. We must determine not only what the city needs, but also what the city can afford to pay for. In short, the real object of the inquiry is to determine what will be the most advantageous use of the money which the city, with due regard for its financial resources, can properly invest in the school building program. This involves a study into the nature and extent of the necessity, the best means for meeting it, and a careful examination of the available resources of the city.

The Extent of the Need for New School Buildings

The first point to be determined is the nature and extent of the requirement for new school buildings. In general, it may be said that in recent years the erection of new school buildings has not been commensurate with the growth of the school population. The last new school houses which have been erected are the Stearns, in Nonantum, in 1908; the New Hyde, in Newton Highlands, in 1909; and the Technical High, in 1909. At the present time the Albert Edgar Angier School, built to accommodate the Waban district only, is approaching completion. Since 1909, the date of the completion of the last new building, the number of school children (figures based on average membership at any one time during the year) has increased from 6,425 to 8,546 at the present time, an increase of 2,121, or 33 per cent.

This increase has, however, not been uniform throughout the city and has resulted in widely differing degrees of congestion. In Oak Hill and Lower Falls the school buildings are not used to their capacity. In Waban the new school will furnish ample accommodations for the near future at least. In Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, and Upper Falls the school buildings are filled, but there is no actual overcrowding at present. The High School buildings and the grade schools in Newton, Nonantum, Newtonville, West Newton, and Auburndale are overcrowded at the present time. The following table will in some degree show the conditions in the more crowded districts. It is obvious that on account of the distances between villages in Newton it is not practicable to relieve congestion by transferring pupils from one school house to another, as can be done in more compactly settled communities. In some of these districts, individual buildings are overcrowded although the buildings of the district are not as a whole used to their full capacity. It must also be remembered that in one district or even in one school building it is not possible to transfer a surplus of pupils from one room to another room which is not filled to capacity unless the two rooms are used for classes of the same grade.

The actual number of children in excess of capacity is about 10 per cent over this figure, as in the table the actual excess is somewhat diminished

FLORIDA AS IS

St. Augustine pleased me greatly. It is a most delightful and quaint old place.

The charm of Old Spain—the romantic and historic impress of Juan Ponce de Leon and his hardy adventurers—of Sir Francis Drake, who, with his henchmen, attacked and sacked the city in 1586—is still here. But in the march of progress, St. Augustine has become filled with the Spirit of Today, as her miles of paved streets, electric railway system, modern residence and business district evidence. The old and new unite to make a haven of delight for all who come, and they are many—for all visitors to fair Florida include quaint Old St. Augustine in their itinerary.

The average annual temperature in St. Augustine is 68 degrees, with an average of 56 degrees during the winter, and a summer average of 80 degrees.

The reason for such ideal conditions is that St. Augustine is practically surrounded by salt water. The cold blasts of the North are thus tempered to an invigorating temperature, ideal for lovers of out-of-doors, and the cooling ocean breezes each summer make it pleasant indeed.

We were met at the station by members of the Chamber of Commerce with numerous automobiles to take us to the various hotels where we were to remain for several days. The city with its shaded streets, shrubbery and flowers was something like Newton, although the palm trees gave it a strange appearance.

The two largest hotels, the Ponce de Leon and the Alcazar are under the same management and are separated by the width of one street. The grounds of each are most attractive with palms and fountains, above which one can obtain glimpses of the quaint Spanish architecture of the buildings.

Our business sessions were held at the Alcazar and I made that hotel my own stopping place.

My readers will not be much interested in the proceedings of our convention of three days. We were honored the first morning with an informal and interesting speech from Ex-Senator Chauncy M. Depew who has made his winter home in St. Augustine for many years. I shall also bear

St. Augustine in kind remembrance for my fellow editors did me the great honor to elect me as the Vice President of the National Editorial Association on the last day of the convention. The Chamber of Commerce of the city is alive to the necessity of advertising its value as a winter resort and a fine band plays each afternoon in the old Spanish Plaza. Near by, one can play at bowls on the bowling green, which seemed to be always well patronized. In the Plaza is the old Slave market, consisting of a floor, roofed over, with sides opened to wind and weather.

There are many good shops in the city, several banks, and three buildings, each of which claims to be the oldest house in town. The streets are rather narrow, and one, named Treasurer street, is but seven feet between buildings at one end.

Two features are rather unique, the remnants of the old city gates and old Fort Marion. The gates are all that is left of the old wall built in 1804 to protect the city on the north. The gates as well as the fort, which is near by, are built of coquina rock, a conglomerate of small sea shells, quarried on a nearby island and dried in the sun. Fort Marion, formerly the old Fortress of San Marco, has room for a garrison of 1,000 men. It contains numerous and dingy dungeons. The walls are 12 feet thick at the bottom and 9 feet thick at the top. It is surrounded by a moat and in front is a small fort from which if taken, the soldiers can easily rush across the drawbridge into the main structure.

Hundreds of electric lights and the glow of red fire made old Fort Marion an enchanted spot on Friday evening when the committee put on a concert, promenade and dance for our pleasure. The old fort made a wonderful picture as there was a heavy fog and the lights were reflected back with beautiful effects. To hundreds present dancing on the terreplein of old Fort Marion was a novel experience, and while they danced modern steps to some very new and popular airs they wove stories of romance and mystery, of courage and daring such as must have been enacted there times without number in the olden days. No place can have

AN UNUSUAL MEETING

Aldermen Sit Until After One O'clock and Act Favorably on Junior High School Appropriations

With considerable experience during the past 36 years with meetings of our city government, the writer has never seen such a meeting of the aldermen as took place on Monday evening. In the first place, persons not members of the board were invited to participate in the debate during the committee of the whole on the proposed erection of a junior high school at Newtonville and the innovative manner. But the chief feature of the meeting was the very apparent indecision of the board as a whole. It seemed possible at one time as if the whole matter would be postponed until the fall and an opportunity given the general public to express its views before action was taken by the board. A few minutes later sentiment apparently veered in the opposite direction and in the end only four members voted against the appropriations of $25,000 for taking the land and $5,000 for the employment of an architect.

President Harriman and Aldermen Blake, Cook and Saltonstall were absent and Vice President Whidden was in the chair.

A hearing was given on the transfer of ownership of 14 poles on Walnut street from the Telephone to the Street Railway Co. and later the petition was granted.

Mayor Childs sent in a number of requests for additional money, recommended the change of name of Crescent street, Nonantum, to Jasset street in honor of Ernest L. Jasset who was killed in the world war, and submitted the appointment of Nora C. Barry as a public weigher. He also sent in the report of the special commission on school accommodations, with supplementary reports by Messrs. Angier and Kent of the commission, all of which is printed elsewhere in this issue of the Graphic.

The Mayor also sent a veto of the order recently passed granting the Middlesex & Boston Co. a relocation of its tracks in Washington street. The veto was based on the fact that the Street Railway Co. had refused to accept the conditions set forth in the order. The veto was unanimously sustained by the board.

The offer of John F. O'Neill to purchase a lot of land owned by the city on Howard street, ward 3, was accepted.

Petitions for private garages of C. S. Nelson, Austin street, W. E. Halliday, Broadway, S. W. Jones, Woodcliff road, E. W. Malmstrom, Ward street, C. S. Panosian, Commonwealth avenue, E. M. Boyd, Shorncliffe road, Frederick Parsons, Kelvedon road and R. C. Ashenden were granted, together with attachment for telephone wires on Beaumont avenue.

A protest against the use of the north side of Commonwealth avenue for automobile traffic was filed and request received from Mr. George J. Martin for a public hearing on the matter.

The school committee sent in a communication suggesting that if it could be moved the Roger Wolcott school house at Waban might be used in a new location in Newtonville.

Giuseppe Grella of Clinton street sent in a claim for damages for injuries to his son while playing on the dump at Lewis terrace.

The Mayor also sent in a communication suggesting that action be deferred on his recommendations of $25,000 for land and $5,000 for architect for proposed Junior High School building at Newtonville. He also cut down his recommendation for some testimonial for the Newton Constabulary from $500 to $400, increased his request for alterations in the Mason school from $200 to $350 and asked for $1237 more for plumbing in the proposed portable buildings at the Davis school.

The Planning Board's request for $1150 to print 1500 copies of its report was cut to $630 for 1000 copies. $14,200 additional for interest on Temporary loan and $4,035 additional for interest on Funded debt was appropriated. The Finance committee reported inexpedient on proposed testimonial for members of the Constabulary and leave to withdraw on application of Harold F. Rome for Soldiers relief.

Leave to withdraw was also given on petition of Charles E. Lord for abatement of sewer assessment on Cabot street.

Two portable school rooms for the Davis school to cost $8237 were approved, $6718 voted for the laying out of Brook street under the betterment act, a hearing ordered on a sewer in Alban road, Waban, and the salary of Supt. Hermann of the Playground Commission increased at the rate of $450 per annum.

An order rescinding a standing regulation relative to use of automobiles on Commonwealth avenue was rejected.

A sewer was ordered laid in Phillips lane the abutters having paid their sewer assessment in advance.

Several sidewalk assessments were levied. The board then went into the committee the whole to consider the matter of a Junior High School.

by the fact that certain rooms are not and cannot be used to capacity, as when the children of a certain grade are too numerous to be accommodated in one room, but do not fill two rooms to the limit of their capacity. This excess of pupils over accommodations is met in part by the use of rooms as class rooms which were not intended or devised for such use; in part by the use of portable school buildings; in part by leasing room in private buildings and in part by dividing pupils into morning and afternoon classes and using the same school room for two sets of pupils in the same day, a system now commonly called the "two-platoon system."

The problem can be solved for the present at least in three different ways:

(1) By the more general and extensive use of portable school buildings.

(2) By the adoption of the "two-platoon system" to the extent required to meet the existing congestion.

(3) By the erection of the requisite number of permanent school buildings.

These methods may be considered in order.

(1) Portable School Buildings. The use of portable school buildings as a Note.—Children in the kindergartens are not included in this table.

As to the future, it would be idle to attempt to forecast the growth of the different villages of Newton by any study, however careful, of their relative attractions or their likelihood to draw newcomers of this or that station in life, or by any other measure than the experience of the past. The annexed table shows the growth of the school population for the past ten years, in the city as a whole and in the respective districts and furnishes as accurate a measure as can be devised to demonstrate the probable needs of the future. We are thus faced with the situation that Newton requires to-day if all the pupils in the high schools and the districts named are to be housed in permanent build-permanent policy is a possible solution of the problem not to be dismissed without consideration. Portable buildings are comparatively inexpensive.

The present price of a building containing a single class room is $3,500; for a double building, $6,500. The average life of such a building is 20 years. Even with the necessity of comparatively frequent replacement, portable buildings are infinitely less expensive than permanent buildings of the required type. Some educational experts consider the 1-story building the schoolhouse of the future; and the Chairman of the Schoolhouse Commission of the City of Boston stated to certain of the members of this commission that in his opinion in a city like Newton where the cost of land was relatively small compared with the cost of constructing permanent buildings, the ideal solution of the present difficulty was to surround each of the existing permanent school buildings with as many portable buildings as would be required to accommodate the school population of the district. The commission is informed that some teachers and some pupils prefer the portable to the permanent buildings.

Nevertheless there are serious objections to the use of portable buildings as a permanent policy. The portable school building has no cellar and the floor is often cold in winter and on extremely cold days the building is difficult to heat. Conversely, in extremely hot weather the buildings become so insufferably warm that the classes have to be dismissed. In times of heavy rain or snow or extreme cold the fact that the portable is not under the main school roof is an objection. Children wishing to use the toilet facilities are exposed to the weather conditions, and on such days all children housed in the portable have no place to go for recess play. The portable serves a useful function in providing a certain elasticity in housing when there is fluctuation of population between different sections or in meeting congestion in a school district until the time is ripe for the erection of a new school building; but we do not recommend the use of a constantly increasing number of portables as a permanent method of providing for the normal growth of the school population of Newton.

(2) The Two-Platoon System. Part-time instruction, sometimes called the two-platoon system, may be defined as the use of the same school room by two groups of children who alternate in different parts of the day. Thus if there is but one school room which can be assigned to the children of a certain grade, and the children of that grade are in number far in excess of the capacity of the room, it is possible to divide the class into two groups or platoons and to provide that one group shall attend school from 8.30 to 11.45 and the other from 12.30 to 3.30.

This system has appealed to some efficiency experts, who deplore the waste involved in the fact that the school buildings are empty such a large proportion of the 24 hours of the day, and there have been communities where thousands of children have had their schooling in this way; but we do not know of any educational authority affirmatively approving this system. There is a curtailment of about 15 per cent of the school time, which is equivalent to an entire year in the grade schools; the children in the afternoon group receive instruction at a time when the mind of a child is not alert and their progress suffers accordingly; and there is a disturbance of normal home conditions when children are not occupied in the morning which is injurious to both parents and children. We do not recommend the adoption of the two-platoon system as a permanent means of meeting the growth in the school population of Newton without adding to our existing plant, although it can be used in the lowest grade without serious detriment when necessary to avoid overcrowding until the time has arrived for the erection of a new building.

We therefore conclude that there is no escape from the third possible solution of the problem, namely the erection of a sufficient number of permanent buildings to house the school children of Newton attending school at the same time and during the customary school hours.

(3) Permanent Buildings.—The Junior High School System

Having reached the conclusion that the erection of new school buildings is the appropriate means of meeting the existing congestion, the next question is the nature and character of the buildings to be erected. Had this question arisen 12 years ago, there could have been but one answer; namely an extension of the existing system, by enlarging the High School group and by erecting additional grade school buildings in the districts where the congestion is greatest. The last 12 years have, however, seen a revolutionary change in the organization of public schools all over the country, in the rapid growth and very general adoption, of an education system which includes intermediate schools standing between the grade and the high schools, generally known as the 6-3-3 or Junior High School system. The Junior High School originated in Berkeley, Calif., in 1910 and extended over the country so rapidly that by the end of 1917 no less than 365 school systems, including most of the largest cities, were organized on the Junior High School plan. Arrested temporarily by the war, the growth of the system has continued ever more rapidly since the end of hostilities, so that already 48 cities and towns in Massachusetts are maintaining Junior High Schools. As there are no instances known of cities or towns which have adopted the Junior High School system reverting to the former organization, it is not improbable that before many years the Junior High School system will have completely supplanted the older form of school organization. Under these circumstances it behooves us to consider the advisability of introducing the Junior High School system into Newton, not only because of the intrinsic merit which such a history of growth would indicate, but because of the possibility that the universal adoption of the new system in the future may render obsolete new buildings erected on the old plan long before they are worn out by use.

The Junior High School has been defined as follows:

"A school organization intermediate between the grammar school and the high school, formed by a union of the upper grades of the grammar school usually with one, and occasionally with two, grades of the high school, making a separate group and aiming to provide for individual differences among students and also to facilitate transfer from the grammar school to the high school, especially by allowing a limited amount of election of studies and by employing departmental teachers."

If applied to Newton, the Junior High School would undoubtedly include the seventh and eighth grades of the grammar school and the first year of the high school.

The origin and rapid growth of the Junior High School system were due to the general belief of educators that the school years which the Junior High School is intended to cover presented the weakest and most unsatisfactory feature of the existing public school system. The first six grades advanced in the grade schools, and the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades made little intellectual progress, and, as a result, lost interest in their work. There was nothing in the school life or in their course of study to stimulate their interest. The uniformity of instruction in the grade schools gave the pupils no opportunity to test out their interests and capacities in the different branches, and the sudden change to the methods of the high school resulted in the dropping out at the end of the first year of large numbers of pupils who could not readily adapt themselves to high school methods of instruction, or who had unwittingly taken up courses of study for which they were ill suited.

The Junior High School, by bringing together children from the upper grades of a number of grade schools, made possible departmental teaching, differentiated curricula and the use of shops, laboratories, and auditorium, a gymnasium, a library and other special rooms which it would be economically impossible to maintain in each of the grade schools, and thus enabled the pupils to progress intellectually, kept their interest aroused, and at the end of the course started each pupil on the career for which his capacity best fitted him.

From the financial standpoint there is no objection to the adoption of the Junior High School system, since its adoption does not involve the discarding of any existing buildings and the erection of a new set of school houses to take their place, but merely means that as the growth in population requires new school buildings, junior high schools shall be erected instead of providing big made for additions to the Senior High Schools and the construction of new grade schools; and clearly as the commission has been able to ascertain, the requisite Junior High Schools can be provided at somewhat less cost than the buildings required if the existing system is to be continued. This gain, however, would be counterbalanced by an increase in the operating expense of the Junior High School system over the existing system which in other cities and towns has amounted to about 3 per cent, so that it makes little difference financially whether the Junior High School is adopted or not.

We accordingly believe that the Junior High School system should be adopted by Newton, and that such new school buildings as the city erects should be Junior High Schools, which will relieve the congestion both in the high and the grade schools, and make unnecessary for the present the erection of new buildings of any other type.

Financial Problem—Present High Cost of Newton Schools

The City of Newton has certainly not been ungenerous in the support of its public schools. In the year 1918, which is the last year covered by the published Statistics of Municipal Finances, it is reported that Newton, with a population of 43,113, expended for the maintenance of its public schools the sum of $602,387.34, a gross amount not equalled except by the cities of over 100,000 in population and far in excess per capita of population of the amount expended by any other city or by any other town of over 5,000 population, leading even such towns as Brookline, Winchester, Milton, and Wellesley by a wide margin. While the net cost is relatively somewhat less, because Newton receives some reimbursement from the State on account of the Vocational High School, and also furnishes education to more non-residents, who pay tuition fees, than most of the other cities and towns, the effect of these reimbursements is not sufficient to alter the relative position of Newton in costs per capita of population.

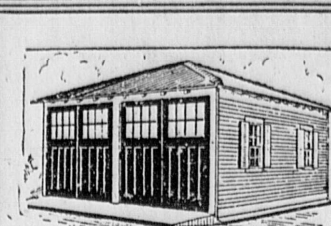

In 1919, the figures are somewhat misleading, as many cities and towns increased the salaries of the school teachers early in the year, while Newton's increases did not go into effect until the end of the year. In 1919, Newton is recorded in the Bulletin of the Department of Education as spending $688,900 for the support of its public schools (exclusive of vocational schools) which appears to be the highest amount expended per capita of population by any city, or town of over 5,000 population, except Springfield. If the vocational schools are considered, even in 1919, Newton had the highest per capita expenditure of the State, and in 1920, when the increases of salaries went into effect, and Newton expended over $830,000 for the maintenance of her schools, the city undoubtedly again went far into the lead on expenditure for school purposes in proportion to population.

It is true that in 1919 the expenditure per pupil in Newton was but $70.79, and this was exceeded by Springfield and Holyoke among the cities and by Brookline, Milton, Concord, Wellesley and Amherst among the towns, but the expenditure per pupil is of course no measure of the relative burden of the public school system upon the citizens; moreover, in 1920, after Newton's salary increases went into effect, the cost per pupil increased proportionately. Figures as to the expenditure per dollar of valuation are of little significance, as they do not take into consideration the revenues of the municipality from sources other than direct taxation.

It is undoubtedly the fact that upon the basis of cost per capita of population that citizens of Newton are and for many years have been spending, man for man, more on their public schools than the citizens of any other city or town in the Commonwealth.

Reasons for the High Cost of Education in Newton

There are three principal reasons for the high cost of education in Newton. The first is the obvious one that Newton is divided into villages spread over 18 square miles of territory, each of which must have its own schoolhouse, and not only is there greater expense in maintaining so many scattered educational units, but it is not possible to maintain them all to the extent of their capacity as can be done in cities of equal population but less area. Pupils cannot be transferred from an overcrowded schoolhouse in one village to an unfilled one in another, because the distances between villages are too great for young children to travel.

The second reason is the high percentage of school children to population, as shown in the Report of the Department of Education for the school year 1919-1920, namely, 7,994 (including the Vocational High School) in a population of 43,113, as compared for example with Brookline with 4,423 in a population of 33,490, or Holyoke with 6,225 in a population of 60,816. This is due in part to the fact that Newton is a city of homes and children are numerous; and also to the tendency in Newton to keep children in school, not merely as long as the law requires, but as long as there is any instruction to be had. Thus in the high schools of Newton, including the Vocational High School, there are now 2,019 pupils, as compared with 790 in Brookline, 728 in Holyoke, and but 863 in New Bedford with a population of 109,568. Although Newton is the sixteenth city of the State in population, it is surpassed in the number of high school students only by Boston, Worcester, Cambridge, Springfield and Somerville, and in the number of high school students per capita of population is far in the lead. The effect of this tendency in Newton to secure as much education as the city will furnish is not only to keep a large number of children in the schools all the time, but to make the average cost of education high, since the cost of educating a high school student is much greater than the cost of educating a pupil in the grade schools.

The third reason is found in the extremely strong financial position of Newton in the years when the public school system was developed. While the real estate in Newton has never been of relatively great value, because the nearness to Boston has prevented the growth of any business section in which land values are high and expensive office buildings, hotels, department stores and the like are gathered together, and there are few great mills with valuable machinery, the aggregate invested wealth of the inhabitants of the city has for many years been well above the average, and until very recently furnished ample revenue to establish its school system in accordance with a standard which few other current year will be probably $88,000,000, so that the city will be in a position to raise $88,000 for each dollar of tax per thousand of valuation.

The expenditures of the city for other purposes than schools have, we have been informed, been pared down to the lowest degree consistent with safety, and yet the total budget for purposes other than schools for the current year amounted to $1,667,365.72 and appropriations outside the budget will probably reach $100,000 more. Many of these expenditures are required by law; and it is obvious that the city cannot wisely cut its appropriations for maintenance of streets or sewers, for the health department, for the fire or police departments or for other like purposes without danger to the welfare of the community. The only departments not absolutely essential to the physical welfare of the city are the playground and library departments, and few would be willing to see the playgrounds and public libraries discontinued even for the sake of improving the public schools. If, as we have been informed is the case, all of the departments other than the school department have been most strictly limited in their expenditures, in order that the city might spend its money more freely on its public schools, little more can be expected to be gained for school purposes by further reducing the appropriations of the other departments.

The problem thus becomes one of keeping within the present expenditure for school purposes or increasing the tax rate. In the opinion of the commission, a further substantial increase in the tax rate would be most unwise. The 1920 tax rate in Newton, $27.20, was well above the average in the State, and substantially in excess of the tax rates of other cities and towns of the same character and with which Newton naturally competes. Thus the tax rate in Weston was $14 per thousand, in Brookline $17.31, in Wellesley $18.50, in Milton $21.60, and even in Boston but 24.10. If the discrepancy is further greatly increased, the tax rate of the city will be seriously jeopardized. Members of the commission have been informed by persons in a position to know the facts that already many desirable newcomers have been diverted from Newton to other towns by the high tax rate of Newton, influenced probably not so much by the general belief that a city with a high and increasing tax rate is on the down grade. If the high tax rate results in a depreciation in values the tax rate will progressively increase, and the end of Newton as a high-class residential city will follow within a few years, and will be accompanied by the total collapse of our prized school system. No true friend of the public schools will ask for an expenditure for the schools, however much temporary benefit it may confer upon them, that will result in a substantial increase in the tax rate. We believe that under present conditions the tax rate should not be allowed to exceed $28 a thousand.

The financial situation may be tabulated as follows:

| Estimated receipts from sources other than the direct tax levy (Corporation taxes, income taxes, etc.) | $683,000   |
| Direct tax on valuation of $88,000,000 at rate of $28 a thousand                                     | 2,464,000   |
| Total available revenue  | $3,147,000 |
| Required for State, county and metropolitan district taxes   | $475,000   |
| Available for municipal purposes   | $2,672,000 |
| Required for municipal purposes other than the maintenance of schools* and for overlay of $15,000     | $1,782,365 |
| Available for school purposes  | $889,635   |
| Present budget requirements for school purposes  | $794,933   |
| Available for increase in salaries voted by School Committee in October, 1920                          | $35,000    |
| Available for new building program   | $59,702    |

* In the foregoing table only appropriations for schools expended by the School Committee are included as school expenses. The maintenance of school buildings and the interest and principal of the school debt amount to about $104,000 additional.

It is apparent from the foregoing facts and figures that, using all our available resources and with the exercise of the greatest prudence and economy, it will not be possible at the present time for the city to commit itself to a new school building program that will involve an additional expenditure in excess of $50,000 a year; and that with any further increase of the maintenance cost of the schools or of the other departments of the city not proportioned to the normal increase in the aggregate valuation of the city even this small margin will be destroyed; and that accordingly the only means of providing the new buildings which will enable our public school system to continue at its present standard is the limitation of the maintenance costs in the school department as well as in the other departments of the city in accordance with the resources of the city available for the purpose rather than in accordance with the desires and needs of the department.

Conclusion
With these facts before us, and facing the injury to the city's attractiveness as a place of residence that would arise on the one hand from a substantial increase in the tax rate and on the other from a definite decision that the city could no longer hope to house its school children in adequate permanent buildings, we have come to the following conclusions:
(1) That the Junior High School system be approved as a matter of educational policy and be gradually introduced throughout the city so far as the resources of the city will permit as the increase in school population requires the erection of new school buildings.

(2) That the buildings erected be of as simple design and as inexpensive construction as is consistent with durability, good taste, healthful conditions and the safety of the children from fire and that whenever practicable buildings now used for grade schools be converted to use as Junior High Schools.

(3) That in order to relieve the existing inadequacy of the school conditions, a Junior High School building be erected immediately in the Newtonville-Nonantum district, at a cost, including land, architect's fees, and equipment not to exceed $350,000, and that two portable schoolhouses be provided for the use of the Davis School in West Newton.

(4) That a second Junior High School building be erected in the Auburndale-West Newton district as soon as the increase in school population indicates the immediate need of such a building, provided in the meantime a decrease in the current expenditures of the city or an increase in its aggregate valuation has rendered the erection of such a building possible without bringing about a further increase in the rate of taxation.

Mr. Everett E. Kent also adds this statement:

I think the fact ought to be made clear that the proposed Junior High School building at Newtonville will not sufficiently relieve the housing need which already exists and provide for the growth reasonably to be expected in the immediate future. Estimates of the city's financial strength have strongly influenced the commission; and I think this proper. But it is only the doubt whether those charged with responsibility for the finances of the city could manage it, which had led to my consent that the second Junior High School building be deferred. If it were permissible to give due weight to the decrease in educational efficiency resulting from too crowded conditions, or to the educational advantage of the Junior High School system, these considerations would swing the scales heavily in favor of the taking of steps to provide a second Junior High School building at once.

Mr. George M. Angier submits the following supplementary report:

Referring to the Report of the Special Commission on School Building Program, of which Alderman Philip Nichols is Chairman, there are one or two conclusions to which I do not agree with the Commission and I beg to submit the following with the request that Your Honor submit it to the Board of Aldermen with the Commission's Report.

I appreciate thoroughly the financial situation, but I am also deeply conscious of the requirements of the School Department to properly carry on the school activities.

That part of the Report to which I take exception is as follows:

"If the discrepancy (referring to the tax rate of several nearby towns) is further greatly increased, the growth of the city will be seriously jeopardized. Members of the commission have been informed by persons in a position to know the facts that already many desirable newcomers have been diverted from Newton to other towns by the high tax rate of Newton, influenced probably not so much by the additional annual charges as by the general belief that a city with a high and increasing tax rate is on the down grade. If the high tax rate results in a depreciation in values the tax rate will progressively increase, and the end of Newton as a high-class residential city will follow within a few years, and will be accompanied by the total collapse of our prized school system."

The School Committee after very careful investigation and taking into consideration the recommendations made by committees of the Board of Aldermen, special committees of the School Board and also the Van Sickle Survey have formally and definitely recommended to Your Honor and the Board of Aldermen the erection as soon as possible of two Junior High Schools, one to provide accommodations for the Nonantum and Newtonville District and one for West Newton and Auburndale.

Various committees and citizens for the past year have been giving this matter serious thought and the final conclusion of all has been that to properly care for the pupils of the Newton schools:

1. The Junior High School System should be adopted.

2. We should begin as soon as possible a consistent building program to carry these recommendations into effect.

In carrying out this building program it seems to me that we should keep in mind a definite educational policy and to make that policy real and effective provide new school buildings just as soon as the need for more school accommodations in various parts of the city would warrant new construction.

To carry out logically the recommendations of the commission and the other committees, I am strongly of the opinion that the city should immediately start upon the erection of two Junior High Schools instead of one as recommended by the Commission and that the Board should appropriate immediately sufficient money to carry this into effect.

To anyone who will investigate the conditions of the school accommodations in the West Newton-Auburndale District, with special reference to the Davis School, the seriousness of the situation will soon be apparent. The Davis School should have been condemned years ago and while the erection of two portable class rooms may relieve the present crowded condition, it is but a temporary relief and even then does not afford facilities to which not only the pupils but the teachers are entitled.

The Superintendent of Schools has told me that he would rather have two Junior High Schools, even though the cost of the two above the land, was $500,000, than to have one now at $350,000 and another at some undetermined and perhaps remote future time. We should then relieve the high school in such a manner that it would add to the efficiency of the work there to such an extent that we could get along for several years if we wished before taking the next step.

The Superintendent also tells me that to take care of the situation in West Newton for three or four years under present conditions would require three or four additional portable schools, provided we continue to use the Davis School indefinitely, but he also strongly recommends that the Davis School should be abandoned. The erection of a Junior High School in this district would permit the grade pupils in the Davis School being sent to the Pierce School.

I understand that the Commission was informed by an architect of standing that two Junior High Schools of the size and character needed could be erected and equipped for $600,000 above the cost of the land.

Another prominent architect whom I have consulted states that there would be considerable saving in building both of these schools at the same time and that with the possible exception of foundations and basements due to the difference in the contour of the property, the buildings could be exact duplicates. By erecting two duplicate buildings at the same time there would undoubtedly be a saving in architect fees of a considerable amount.

I urgently urge Your Honor and every member of the Board of Aldermen to personally carefully investigate the serious situation in the West Newton-Auburndale District, especially the Davis School,—before deciding not to erect the second Junior High School during the coming year.

As to the unfavorable effect the high tax rate may have on the future of Newton, I realize that to a certain extent this is so, but I believe that poor school accommodations, poor streets, poor sewers, and poor sidewalks will do more to keep the class of citizens we want in Newton away, than a few dollars increase in the tax rate.

I have no fear as to the rapid increase in building of residences in Newton during the next five or ten years. Boston is rapidly growing toward Newton and there is no district around Boston that should have a more healthy future growth than Newton and good school accommodation will do more to bring families to Newton than any other one thing. I believe that the increased income to the city from taxation on new and improved property during the next few years, together with the saving in erecting two buildings at the same time, will more than offset any saving there will be by postponing another building two or three years and that the only way to get the right kind of people to build and live in Newton is to make Newton attractive.

During the past two years, even with the knowledge of the large increase in the tax rate there have been more new buildings erected in Newton than in any surrounding town.

Therefore, as a purely business proposition I believe the city should grant the School Department proper facilities for carrying on the school activities.

Our school children of to-day are the citizens of Newton in the future. Real estate men, who are familiar with Newton property tell me that the new school building in Waban has been a great factor in the rapid growth of that village during the past year or so and many more new residences are contemplated.

The demand for moderate priced residences in Newton is considerably greater than the supply, not only to buy but to rent, and if anyone doubts this let him try to either buy or rent a suitable residence. There are practically none for rent and the few for sale are either old houses upon which the owners hope to realize excessive profits, or new buildings which were erected when prices were at their peak and the owners are unable to sell on a declining market except at a sacrifice.

I also take exception to the statement that the life of a portable school building such as we use in Newton is 20 years, and while I agree that the 1-story building is worthy of consideration, I seriously object to the portable type. The portable building is all right for temporary or emergency purposes, but there is a decided limit to its use.

In view of the recommendations of the Van Sickle Survey, the findings and recommendations of the Special Commission, the very definite recommendations of the School Committee and other committees who have considered the matter, I do not see how the City Government can consistently do otherwise than carry out the recommendations of these various reports except by having ready for occupancy at the earliest possible date two Junior High School buildings, thus enabling Newton to maintain the high standard of its schools and do justice to the city's greatest asset,—its children.

EDITORIAL

Every parent of young children and every taxpayer of this city ought to read and carefully consider the report of the Special Commission on Additional School Accommodations which we print in full in this issue.

Alderman Nichols deserves the hearty thanks of every citizen for the clear and comprehensive manner in which he covers every phase of this most important matter. Particular attention is invited to his discussion of the present and future resources of the city and to the manner in which the future income of the city has been affected by unfavorable legislation.

With these facts in mind we believe the suggestion we made in this column last week, namely, that the present emergency be met with the use of portable schoolhouses, and further time be given to the inauguration of a policy which is admittedly a more expensive plan than the present system of education.

While the greatly increased automobile traffic on the south side of Commonwealth avenue seems to justify the movement to open the north side of the avenue and make both sides, one way streets, with traffic going in opposite direction, it should be borne in mind that a considerable portion of the north roadbed is not suited for heavy traffic and will rapidly go to pieces. This will necessitate a heavy expense probably next year for a suitable roadbed, and in view of the rapid increase in city expenses, it might well be left for a few years longer.

It is rather unusual for a Mayor to veto a franchise for a public service corporation because the corporation will not accept the franchise on the conditions upon which it is granted. No harm would be done to allow the matter to stand and possibly the corporation may change its mind.

The small increase in the salary of Supt. of Playgrounds Hermann is well deserved. There are few men who put such enthusiasm and pep into their work for the public.

COAL TEAMSTERS SATISFIED

After several weeks of discussion, in the course of which the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation was called in to help adjust differences, the coal teamsters and coal dealers of Newton and Waltham have signed an agreement for the ensuing year. The arbitration board upheld the dealers in practically all their contentions, although some concessions were made to the demands of the men in regard to working conditions.

There was no dispute over the straight wage scale. The teamsters recognized that conditions were less favorable than when the last agreement was signed and accepted the offer of a reduction of $2 a week, on the average, for teamsters and chauffeurs. There was, however, an impasse over the Saturday hours of work and the pay for overtime. The board decided that the men should work a five-hour day Saturday, with straight pay for the first hour of over-time and time and a half for succeeding hours. The Saturday half-holiday will be as at present, through six months of the year.

While at no time during the controversy was there any imminent danger of a strike, there appeared to be a deadlock which it was feared would not be broken. The intervention of the State board, agreed to by both parties, settled the question. The men have been working under protest under the conditions laid down by the dealers as their ultimatum. These will be changed at once to conform with the agreement.

READ—MacCREADY

The wedding of Miss Muriel Elizabeth MacCready, a former well known resident of this city and Rev. Walter George Read of Brighton, took place on July 6 at the St. John's Episcopal Church at Gloucester, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Lyon of Salem.

The wedding gown was of white satin and georgette with court train and veil and orange blossoms and the bride carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor, Miss Betty Warder of Philadelphia, wore white embroidered georgette and a picture hat and carried pink roses.

The best man was Mr. George Warder of Philadelphia.

Following a wedding breakfast Rev. and Mrs. Read left for a wedding trip of three months.

MR. KENT TAKES EXCEPTIONS

Editor of The Graphic, Newton, Mass.

Sir:—Your leading editorial of July 8th regarding Junior High Schools is based so much on misinformation that I fear it has given a wrong impression. I will be terse, to save your space. I confine this letter to correcting points mentioned by you.

1. The Junior High School is not for children of tender age, nor for any "of 10 years," but is for early adolescence. The average age of the lowest class in the Junior High School (Grade VII) will be 12 years 7 months when they enter.

2. The plan is not that "three such units are now proposed" to cover the whole city. Five are proposed.

3. The walk will not be too great for normal children, thus "requiring trolley or automobile." A radius of a mile from the locations of the new buildings sweeps the city boundaries. The average walk will be considerably less. On the other hand, children of "14 years of age" will defer a year longer, till they are 15, the beginning of what is for many a really long daily journey to the Senior High School. The Survey computed that this means a yearly saving to parents of $10,000 in car-fares.

4. It would not be "cheaper to build more grammar schools and enlarge our present high schools." Alterations cost disproportionately more than new construction. Large concentrated units are cheaper than small separated schools.

5. The Junior High Schools will not "cost four hundred thousand dollars each." Our best estimate, based on recent contracts let elsewhere, is $250,000. Whenever the Bigelow and Mason schools are converted, the new construction will be only small elementary buildings to supplement them, costing much less.

6. The suggestion which you believe "is the best plan for tax-payers," a return to the 9th grade system, is not such. Adding another grammar grade (Grade IX) would not save a year of high school. It would therefore merely enlarge the number of children for whom the tax-payers must provide grammar school teachers, houses and supplies.

7. There has been no "apparent concealment" of expert report. The provisional first draft was not suitable for distribution; but the revised draft was mimeographed at the School Department and mailed to all aldermen as rapidly as possible after receipt, and at the same time (May 20th) it was released to the public. Extra copies were made, were sent to Women's Clubs, and were given or loaned to all who asked. That the Editor of The Graphic failed to get one is regretted; but it is not fair to make this lack of initiative the occasion of innuendo that someone has desired to conceal the report.

8. There has been no failure to give "the public and the parents a full opportunity to consider all phases of the matter." Village meetings for this express purpose, advertised through notices sent home by school children and through the press and hand bills, began in 1919. There was discussion in newspapers, including The Graphic. A public hearing by the Aldermen, June 6, 1920, preceded by careful advertisement in your columns and elsewhere, stating the plan in detail, disclosed no opposition except from one man who objected to the expenditure of money. The matter was then (June, 1920) taken under advisement by the Aldermen for decision. If they had taken the action in June or September, 1920, which they took on July 11, 1921, it would not have occurred to anyone to say that the public and parents had failed of having full opportunity to consider all phases. The situation has not changed. Out of superabundant caution the Aldermen took extraordinary measures to be sure. The Commission was appointed. The latter incidentally consulted the Van Sickle body of experts. On the coming in of the Commission's report the matter was surely ripe for that aldermanic action for which the public had been waiting over a year.

Respectfully,
EVERETT E. KENT,
Chairman of School Committee
Editor's Note.—We shall reply to Mr. Kent's statements in our next issue. So far as item 8 is concerned we inadvertently overlooked last week the fact that a public hearing was held over a year ago and which was attended by less than 50 persons.

NARROW ESCAPE

An engine crew on the Boston & Albany Railroad narrowly escaped a terrible death on Friday night when a telegraph pole on Auburn street near the fire station, weakened by long years of service, snapped off and fell over in the direction of the tracks. The wires prevented the pole from dropping the entire distance but held it suspended over the railroad tracks. The pole was not noticed until a fast freight passed under it. The roof of the cab grazing the pole, a jagged tear in the cab indicating the proximity of the timber. The noise created when the cab scraped the pole was heard in the fire station and the crew of Hose 5, seeing an impending tragedy, should an engine with a higher cab pass the spot, took immediate steps to avert any accidents.

The railroad officials were promptly notified and under the direction of Lieut. Frank Davis the men began to bolster the pole so as to allow engines to pass under it without danger of a collision. Long ropes were tied around it and it was made secure. The telephone company was also notified and men were sent to place the pole in an upright position.

LAWN PARTY

A lawn party in the interest of the coming field day of the church of St. John the Evangelist, will be held at the home of Mrs. Simon Babbitt and Mrs. Annie Gingsas, at the corner of Cook and Watertown streets, on Saturday evening, July 16th. The affair is under the direction of Mr. Edward Merrill, president of District 2, and the grounds are to be attractively decorated for the occasion.

THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Editor of The Newton Graphic:

Some years ago, a voter at the polls said to me, "I don't know anything about these amendments we are to vote on." "Why," I replied, "Mr. Brimblecom, in the Graphic, gave a detailed account of each Article and the meaning of it." He replied, "I never read the local papers." Nevertheless, I believe that if you think well of publishing the following, it will reach a number of Newton tax-payers.

Monday evening, after seven o'clock, a few tax-payers were notified that the Board of Aldermen that evening would pass an order authorizing an expenditure of Thirty Thousand Dollars for the purchase of land and Five Thousand Dollars for architect's fees preparatory to the building of a Junior High School at Newtonville, to cost $250,000 to $300,000.

The few tax-payers present pleaded with the Aldermen for delay until September, in order that the people, most of whom are away for the summer, might return and study the proposition before their representatives in the Aldermanic Chamber committed themselves. The representative of the School Committee declared that such postponement would cripple the school authorities, by preventing the use of the building for a year longer, and the Board passed the orders.

Since then a competent engineer has informed me that a 10-room school building could be completed in ten months, under ordinary conditions.

The representative of the School Committee stated in his remarks that a hearing held a year ago committed the city to the Junior High School plan by a vote. It developed that the vote was taken of the people present, male and female, which recorded 47 in favor and 1 tax-payer opposed. The writer's recollection of the occasion was that the discussion at that time was stopped by the statement of some one that a Commission was about to examine and report on the Newton schools, and action would be delayed until after that report had been submitted.

I venture to say that not all of the Aldermen had read and digested it by Monday night. A short time ago, a petition from the City of Newton to increase the debt limit, in order to expend $1,500,000 in schoolhouses, was not defended by the City at the hearing in the State House and leave to withdraw was the result.

This indifference on the part of those favoring the scheme calmed the feelings of those interested in the city's welfare, and no one was prepared for the "coup" which was played, after 12 o'clock on Monday evening, and when the Aldermen hear from their constituents, I believe they will realize that their hasty action was a mistake.

I wish to acknowledge the courtesy of Alderman Nichols, who spent much of the evening reading his able report to the few tax-payers present, and who stated to the Board that though he believed fully in the order was yet willing to vote to postpone action, if that was the wish of the majority of the Aldermen present.

To the Tax-payers of Newton,—in the language of Bill Tweed, of unsavory fame in New York City, I ask, "What Are You Going to Do About It?"
CHARLES F. AVERY.

DEATH OF MISSIONARY

Rev. Arthur Willis Stanford, for many years connected with the American Board in Japan, died last Friday in his sixty-third year, at the Auburn-dale Missionary Cottage. He was born in Lowell, was graduated from the high school there, and later from Amherst in the class of '82, and from the Yale Divinity School, class of '85. The month of September, 1886, was most eventful for him as he was within this period ordained and appointed to the American Board and also married to Miss Jennie Pearson of Lowell. He and his bride immediately sailed for Japan, where he was to begin his work which was to prove of such great importance to the Japanese and the American Board.

He was professor of Doshisha, in Kyoto, from 1886 to 1895, and was later stationed at Kobe, where for many years he had been editor of two papers printed in Japan, the interests of the American Board, one in Japanese, called "The Morning Light," and "The Mission News," which was in English. He was an untiring student of Buddhism, and at the time of his death was preparing important manuscript on the subject. He had collected one of the best private libraries to be found in the Far East on the Japanese and kindred subjects. Mr. Stanford was considered one of the best authorities and correspondents ever connected with the American Board on things Japanese.

Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Stanford was on his third furlough to this country and had seemed in perfect health, until June 13, when he was stricken, while on his way to the Amherst Centennial. He immediately returned to the Missionary Cottage, in Auburn-dale, where he died. He is survived only by his wife.

DEATH OF OFFICER TAFFE

Police Officer Richard T. Taffe died yesterday afternoon at the Newton Hospital after a long period of illness and an operation on the stomach about a month ago.

Mr. Taffe was born in West Newton and was 57 years of age. He was appointed on the police force of the city April 11, 1891, and has served continuously until his recent illness.

Mr. Taffe was twice married, the second marriage taking place but a month ago. He is survived by his widow and six children by his first marriage, two sons, Leo Taffe, a Waltham newspaper man; Raymond Taffe, who is on the Newton Police Force, and four daughters, Misses Margaret, Catherine, Alice and Margaret Taffe. He also leaves two brothers, William Taffe of Newton Lower Falls, and Frank Taffe of West Newton, and a sister, Mrs. Alice McCourt of West Newton.

The funeral services will be held next Monday at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton.

BAD STORM

Early Saturday morning Newton experienced one of the hardest electrical storms in its history. The storm broke about 2 o'clock with terrific lightning and thunder, followed by a downpour of rain almost like a cloud burst. The lightning struck in two known places in the city limits, the flagstaff at City Hall, West Newton and the flagstaff at Newtonville square. A house on Union street, in the adjoining Watertown district was also struck.

Patrick Fitzsimmons, the night watchman at City Hall had a peculiar experience with the lightning. He had just finished one of his periodical rounds of the building and was sitting in one corner of the room, when the lightning struck the flagstaff and then jumped to the corner of the building immediately over his head. He states that his chair was completely lifted from the floor and he was thrown several feet forward into the middle of the room.

A tall chimney on the mill of the R. T. Sullivan Company, on Washington street, Wellesley Lower Falls, was shattered by a bolt and the falling bricks caused some damage to the roof.

At Norumbega Park, Auburndale, lightning entered the restaurant kitchen over the fire alarm wire, sounding an alarm at the same time it passed into the building. The resulting fire caused damage of not more than $25 and gave the apparatus a long run in the heavy rain.

In several parts of the city trees were struck and the heavy rain caused catchbasins to back up, creating washouts and miniature floods.

The storm subsided after several hours' duration but returned again about noon with very heavy thunder and lightning and considerable rain. Water Commissioner Whitney states that the rainfall for the day was 3.8 inches while Boston had nearly 6 inches from the same storm. How heavy this is can be gathered by comparing with the total annual rainfall of the city of about 44 inches.

In West Newton several trees were struck while many houses had narrow escapes. A house on Boarder St. was close to danger when a bolt entered one window and made an exit through another without touching the house. An inmate who was in the room at the time was paralyzed for several minutes by the proximity of the ball of electricity. The Lincoln Park Baptist Church narrowly escaped when a bolt struck a tree but a few feet distant, tearing it asunder and scattering bits of wood in all directions. A fire in a house on Perkins street was started when a stroke caused a small hole in a gas pipe allowing gas to escape and catch fire. The source of the blaze was found before the fire gained any headway. A shed in the rear of Officer Maurice Kiley's house on Auburndale avenue was struck but no real damage was done. A freak bolt landed on Webster Park and after threatening several houses for a few seconds went into the ground. A large tree on the girls' playground on Eden avenue was felled by a bolt but no one was near the tree at the time. In many houses the electricity and telephone systems were thrown out of commission.

In Auburndale several trees were struck but in falling none of the trees caused any damage. One of the trees, a small maple, on Ionia street, was struck and another on Evergreen avenue fell across the roadway.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The second group of boys sent out by the City Missionary Society were entertained by the Newton Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday, July 13th. Mrs. A. C. Bang and Mrs. Anderson and her daughter prepared the lunch. The boys had a good time on the athletic field, in swimming, and in the gymnasium. Movies were shown right after dinner and Mr. Francis Pitman presided at the piano while the boys sang patriotic and popular songs. Those who have contributed to give these boys an outing each week would feel perfectly satisfied if they could see their happy faces.

There is now a family of 80 at the Frank A. Day Camp. Everybody seems to be happy and the new equipment which has been placed this year at the Camp is being much enjoyed. The boys have published a Camp paper in which they report success in winning the base ball from other Camps nearby.

These are busy days at the local "Y." Sometimes as many as 200 use the physical department privileges during the day.

A branch of Northeastern College School of Commerce and Finance has been organized at the Newton Y. M. C. A. Evening classes are to begin in September. The courses include lessons in Business Law, Business English, Business Letters and Reports, and Accountancy. Dean Dana Scott Sylvester of Northeastern College in Boston is to be the instructor in Business Law. Information will be gladly sent to any young man or woman interested in these courses.

The base ball teams representing Bachrach's Studio and the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co. played on the Y. M. C. A. field last week Friday. On Wednesday evening, July 13th, teams representing the Richard Young Leather Co. occupied the field.

The local team will play a twilight game with Needham K. of C. at Needham on Thursday evening. On Saturday afternoon they will play the Melrose High Alumni at Melrose.

NEW OWNERS

The Newton Opera House on Centre street, Newton, has been taken over by the Keon Bros. of Salem and has been equipped with the latest Powers motion picture machine and will be second to none. The ventilation has been greatly improved by the installation of a 29-inch fan and the entire building redecorated and improved. It is the intention of the new owners to give the people of Newton a first class moving picture theatre. They are men of experience in the business operating three theatres in Salem, two in Haverhill and two in Brockton and Somerville.

EIGHTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

The eighteenth anniversary of the founding of Division 10, Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., was fittingly observed Tuesday night with a banquet and entertainment at Village Hall, at which all past presidents were the invited guests of the evening. Mrs. Catherine Ryan, president, acted as toastmistress and she introduced the various past presidents in turn, and they all made brief speeches in which they expressed themselves as highly pleased at the growth and prosperity of the division since its formation.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the presentation of a handsome traveling bag, containing a gold piece, to the president.

Among the notable numbers on the program was the reading of the history of Division 10 by Mrs. John Cahill, the present county vice president. She reviewed the birth and growth of the organization in graphic manner. Mrs. Helen M. Ryan then gave a very interesting talk on the history of Ireland.

Mrs. Catherine Ryan gave a dancing specialty by request.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kelsey of Montvale Road and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Alvord of Dalton road, have returned from a two weeks' trip to the Maine Woods.

The first break by burglars made known in several months occurred at the drugstore of H. E. Woodman about 3 o'clock Monday morning. The plate glass door was smashed in by some heavy instrument and the door was forced open. Cigarette and candy cases were broken open and cleaned out and a small amount of change was also taken. The loot probably amounts to about $150.

AWARDED D. S. CROSS

Secretary of War Weeks announced today that the President had approved the award of a distinguished service cross to Corp. Albert J. Considine of Norwood avenue, Newtonville, who served in France with the headquarters company of 101st Infantry. The citation accompanying the award is as follows:
"For extraordinary heroism in action near Vaux, France, July 13, 1918. Leaving a place of safety, he voluntarily dashed through a dense enemy barrage to the rescue of comrades who were entombed in a signal station which had been demolished by shell fire. Despite the continuing enemy fire he dug away the ruins, rescued the wounded and assisted them to first aid."
Corp. Considine was in the Yankee Division and left with the local National Guard outfit for France at the first of the war.

BAND CONCERT

ONE THOUSAND PARTNERS

BEFORE OCTOBER FIRST

BY THE SAFEST BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

This business is more than thirty years old and has paid a dividend twice each year promptly when due.

The partners have no liability and cannot be called upon to pay an assessment of any sort. Every dollar of earnings, after paying expenses, and expenses are low, is divided among the partners or set aside for their protection. The word partner as used here is just another name for the depositor in a Mutual Savings Bank, because every depositor is a partner. There are no stockholders. Every penny belongs to the depositor-partners.

PARTNERS ARE WANTED

There are more than six thousand now.

COME AND BE A PARTNER

You may have an interest in the business to any extent, from one dollar to two thousand dollars.

SUES FOR $50,000

Miss Elizabeth Bubier, who gives her address as Newton, has filed a suit for $50,000 damages for alleged breach of promise to marry against Frank P. Burnham of 92 Langley road, Newton Centre. Plaintiff and defendant are about 50 years of age. Miss Bubier has attached Mr. Burnham's accounts in the Wellesley National Bank and the First National Bank of Boston.

Miss Bubier is now in Bethlehem, N. H., and, according to Burnham's two brothers, who live at 16 Maple Park, Newton Centre, Frank P. Burnham is also in New Hampshire, although they do not know what part.

According to the brothers, they, with Frank P. Burnham, boarded at Miss Bubier's lodging house in the Centre four years ago, and for the past three years, up to a few months ago, the woman was housekeeper for Frank P. Burnham and his mother. The brothers say they never heard of any marriage proposal of Frank P. Burnham to the woman.

FLORIDA AS IS

lived through three hundred years of history—and such stormy, changeable history—without having an atmosphere impregnated with romance. Visitors feel it, absorb it, and never forget it, so the music, the dancing, and the enjoyment of the old fortification by night meant a never-to-be-forgotten treat.

One afternoon we drove to Anastasia Island to visit the home of Miss Lila White, President of the Women's Business Club. Miss White had planned a delightful outdoor affair, but a heavy fog made a change of plans necessary. Her beautiful home was therefore somewhat crowded with three or four hundred of our party, but those who were fortunate enough to witness the graceful dancing and to hear the splendid singing by several young ladies in Spanish costume, were loud in their praise of our hostess. Previous to the reception we saw what is said to be the largest alligator farm in the South. We were told that when this farm was first stocked by its removal from another location, it took 90 trucks to bring in the reptiles. There were plenty ofigators at this farm of all sizes and they do a good business in selling the small ones for a dollar each. Let it be noted right here and now that the only alligators I saw while in the State were in captivity, for which I am truly thankful, as the hideous creatures give me the creeps.

Another afternoon we visited the North Beach, the bathing resort of the city, and distant about one-half hour's boat ride. You land on one side of a narrow island and either walk across to the ocean side, or wait for a curious conveyance consisting of a small tramcar holding a dozen or more persons, the motive power of which comes from a decrepit horse which trudges along side the tram. There is a good beach, something like the beaches on the south shore of Cape Cod.

Another afternoon, the management of the Ponce de Leon Hotel gave a lawn party on the grounds of that wonderful hostelry. It was a pleasing and beautiful affair. Our party were also shown through this ornate and costly building. It is said that the building and furnishings cost over $2,000,000 over 30 years ago when millions were not as plentiful or as common as today. It did not appeal to me, however, as I had the feeling in entering it as if I was going to a funeral. The decorations are beautiful but dark and rather gloomy. The paintings in the reception rooms are very fine and expensive and the whole building is a great tribute to the founder, Mr. Henry M. Flagler.

Sunday morning many of our party went to the Flagler Memorial Church, close by—the gift of Mr. Flagler in memory of his wife.

In the afternoon, we were taken in automobiles to the noted potato fields of Hastings, some 18 miles from St. Augustine. The drive is over the Dixie highway, which at this point is but 9 feet wide, and as it is the main highway for all the north and south bound traffic, our machine had one set of wheels in the sand outside most of the time. It is also a most interesting ride, being through an unsettled country for a greater part of the distance.

While other parts of the State can grow Irish potatoes undoubtedly as well as Hastings, yet the Hastings people have their product so well advertised that there is no market for potatoes raised elsewhere. There are thousands of acres under intensive cultivation in this district, all of them irrigated with water from artesian wells, which is allowed to flow in open ditches between every ten rows of potatoes. The land must be practically flat to raise a good crop and the driver of our car tried unsuccessfully to show me on several occasions where there was a "ridge" which made this or that land unavailing for cultivation.

Spraying is unnecessary and potato bugs are unknown.

It costs about $2 per foot for the artesian wells which are from 200 to 225 feet in depth.

One reason why this district is favorable for potatoes is on account of the clay subsoil, some 20 inches below the surface, which serves to keep the water near the roots of the plant.

The yield per acre varies from 45 to 90 barrels, due to quality of land and methods of cultivation.

We also heard marvelous tales of the fortunes which had been made in potatoes, most of them centering around the 1919 crop. One negro farmer was said to have made $15,000 last year. The crop this year is estimated at 3,000 carloads. Besides potatoes the farmer raises a crop of corn, followed by a crop of hay, making three crops a year on the same land.

Possibly the thing which made the greatest appeal to most of us was an evening spent at the Florida School for the Deaf, Dumb, and Blind. While our party occupied seats in the school hall, the walls were lined with boys of the school on one side and girls on the other, all in neat and natty costumes. I was on the boys' side and watched these youngsters talk and play with each other, although all of them were deaf and dumb. It brought tears to my eyes, to realize what a handicap these lads will have all through their lives. And yet, the work exhibited on the stage was simply marvelous. Prof. Walker showed us how his corps of attractive and devoted teachers found the way to reach into the minds of these children and to teach them to do many things that normal children could do. The work of the blind was both pathetic as well as inspiring. Pathetic, as one looked at these children, and inspiring as you realized how much and how far on the educational road it had been possible for them to travel. One blind lad of about 16 performed in about 10 minutes a truly intricate problem in mathematics given him by his teacher, giving all of the figures he had used in obtaining the correct answer. The same lad also played most creditably on the organ. In closing, the president of our Association gave a short talk to the children and it was interesting to watch Prof. Walker translate the speech with his fingers for the benefit of the deaf. It is safe to assume that every editor at that exhibition will be hereafter a sincere and whole-hearted booster of educational facilities in his community for those unfortunate enough to be deaf and dumb and blind.

The last night of our stay in the city was marked by an exhibition of indoor water sports in the Casino of the Alcazar, that was well worth witnessing. The program included all manner and kinds of diving, swimming under water the entire distance around the pool, over 200 feet, and some marvelous diving from a flying trapeze, which had a swing of fully 75 feet and some 25 feet above the water.

The Chamber of Commerce was most cordial and hospitable during our stay in the city. Automobiles were at our service at all hours and such little touches as a spray of orange blossoms as we entered the convention hall made a lasting and fragrant memory of our visit to that old but ever new city.

AN UNUSUAL MEETING

meeting be thrown open to any one present stated that the matter had been given the most thorough consideration for the past two years both by the school committee and by the aldermen.

Dr. Edward Mellus did not favor sending young children so far as the proposed Junior High school would indicate and he also believed that it was unwise to have part of the children in the Junior High school system and part outside. Alderman Nichols stated that it was proposed to have five Junior High schools and while it would be desirable to have them all at once, it would be necessary to introduce the plan gradually on account of the expense. Ex-alderman Charles F. Avery called attention to the effect this would have on the tax rate and protested against any such serious increase to the tax payers' burden. Mr. A. L. Moriarty suggested that the working men with large families ought to be given an opportunity to look into the matter. Mr. H. W. Orr also favored delay for obtaining public expression on the matter. Chairman E. E. Kent of the school committee did not favor delay as he said the matter had been thoroughly considered last year when public meetings had been held in all the villages on the south side of the city and at Newton, as well as the public hearing at City Hall in June, 1920. At all of these he said, favorable expressions had been given by the matter by those present. Alderman Heathcote asked several pertinent questions, which no body seemed inclined to answer. Mr. Heathcote drew out the fact that there were about 100 non-residents attending the Vocational High School, but no one could tell him how many other non-residents there were in the rest of the Newton schools. He suggested that relief from congestion might be obtained by limiting attendance to residents of the city. He also suggested that the Roger Wolcott building at Waban in connection with the new Angier school might be utilized for a Junior High school, thereby giving some relief to the High School attendance from the south side of the city.

Mr. John Temperley said the Upper Falls meeting was not enthusiastic for the Junior High school idea and he believed the additional travel would be dangerous to small children as well as quite an expense for car fare to the parents of large families. Alderman Nichols said that it had been figured out that some $10,000 would be saved in carfares if the Junior High school plan was adopted. He also called attention to the immediate need of action on account of the serious congestion of the High schools and the north side grade schools. It wouldn't cost more if it was called a Junior High or a grade school. To reject the present plan would mean enlargement of the High School and grammar schools, the two platoon system or portable buildings. Personally, he said, he was against new fads and fancies, particularly in education, but his careful study of the whole subject had caused him to favor the Junior High school plan. Alderman Rogers did not believe postponement would gain anything and said that Framingham had just erected two Junior High schools costing about $235,000 each. The portables were not suitable, they were costly and not permanent. Alderman Nichols said we could not expect to "attain the pinnacle of excellence" as the Waban school but believed it would be possible to build a Junior High school for $250,000 above the land. He stated that the increase in the maintenance of such a building over the grade school would not be over 3%.

Alderman Heathcote again asked for consideration of the number of non-residents in the school, the possible use of the $60,000 Roger Wolcott school building to tide over the next two or three years and also called attention to the fact that large business houses were postponing all costly improvements. Alderman McAuslan read a letter from Alderman Blake advocating postponement and spoke himself along that line. Mr. McAuslan suggested that if a public hearing was to be held in the fall that each alderman ask ten of his constituents to read the Special Commission report in the interim.

In answer to questions Alderman Whidden said that if action was taken that evening it might be possible to have the new building ready for use in September, 1922, but if delayed until fall it would probably be postponed until January, 1923. Mr. Kent said it would be hardly possible to interrupt the school work by entering a new building at mid year. Mr. Kent then made the rather startling statement that in his opinion the people of Newton had gone to their summer homes "complacent" with the idea that the matter of a Junior High School was moving along as it should. Alderman Phipps suggested that as this was a technical question, possibly the tax-payers were waiting for some information from the board. Alderman Lloyd compared the present situation with the matter of zoning, which had been brought to a climax by reason of the Security Mills. Alderman Carter then suggested that it might save something if the Mayor was authorized to obtain options on the land desired and action delayed until he had done so. This suggestion was approved by the committee, but when it came up for action later in the formal session was almost unanimously rejected.

Alderman Nichols then had a new thought and suggested that delay might mean the "wrecking" of the high school education of dozens of boys and girls.

The committee of the whole then voted to take action that evening and a long recess was taken for preparation of the necessary orders taking the land under eminent domain, and appropriation of $30,000 for the land and architect's fees. These orders were subsequently passed with four negative votes, from Aldermen Heathcote, Hickey, Ross, and Young. The order for portable buildings at the Davis School was also approved.

An order to have the report of the special commission printed and sent to each taxpayer with his tax bill was passed with Aldermen Heathcote and Ross voting in opposition.

The board at 1:25 A. M. adjourned to meet Sept. 12th.

"DECEPTION"

Immense quantities of building materials were employed in the construction of the massive sets that distinguish "Deception," the wonderful Paramount picture which will be shown at the Newton Olympian Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Henry Porten and Emil Jannings, famous European film artists, have the leading roles. Here are some of the big facts regarding the picture:

Seven months were spent, and four hundred stucco workers, two hundred carpenters and an army of assistant workmen employed, in its construction.

Two thousand five hundred cubic metres of lumber; twelve thousand square metres of canvas, fourteen thousand sacks of plaster, twenty thousand sacks of cement, two hundred thousand square yards of sand, eighty-four thousand roofing tiles, one hundred and twenty-five thousand walling and twelve thousand square yards of paving stones, besides three hundred and eighty pieces of sculpture were used in the construction of the massive sets.

"Deception" is one of the finest productions ever released by Paramount.

Pleasant street, New Bedford, and also of Newton, were married yesterday morning at a high mass at Mary Immaculate of Lourdes' Church, Newton Upper Falls, by Rev. Timothy J. Danahy, the rector.
 The bride was attended by her sister Miss Grace Brennan. The best man was Thomas F. O'Shaughnessy, the bride's uncle. The bride is a graduate nurse. The groom is a World War veteran. He has recently been appointed to the New Bedford Police Department. After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. La Roche will reside in Newton.

A NEWTON POET

The Four Seas Company of Boston has just published a little volume of poems by Mr. John Rollin Stuart of Ward street, Newton Centre. It is entitled "Shrines and Shadows" and contains a hundred short poems in which Mr. Stuart does not attempt to do much with his material, and as a result offers a volume of simple and pleasing poetry. The book is divided into four sections. The titles of these four sections give some clue to the varied interest of the poems: "The Mantle of Eros," "Gifts of the Magi," "Jugglers of Values," "Beyond the Harvest."

ARRIVED FROM FRANCE

The body of Private Frank McLaughlin, formerly of Company C 101st Infantry, has arrived in Hoboken from France, and it will be shipped to Newton as soon as the Graves' Registration Service can send it, according to dispatches received from Hoboken. The soldier's relatives have directed that the body be sent to Undertaker Thomas Franey of Auburndale, who will be in charge of the funeral and it is expected that the shipment will be made within a day or two at the latest.
 Tentative arrangements are now being made by the Veterans of Company C of Newton, an organization composed of former members of that company who served in the World War, and Newton Post, American Legion. The veterans will handle the funeral arrangements, working in conjunction with the boy's parents and Undertaker Franey. It is expected that the remains will be taken to the State Armory, West Newton, where they will rest in state for a few days. A guard of honor composed of former members of Company C company will stand guard day and night.
 McLaughlin enlisted in Company C, 5th Massachusetts Infantry, prior to the outbreak of the war and went overseas with the 101st Infantry. He was killed in action at Cateau Thierry in July, 1918.
 Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church, Newton Upper Falls. McLaughlin's home is at 42 Hale St. in the same town.

MRS. EARLY BURIED

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah D. Early, widow of a former postmaster at Newton Lower Falls, and who was killed by an automobile in Boston, were held last week Friday morning in St. John's Church, Wellesley Hills. They were conducted by Rev. J. E. Murphy and Rev. J. E. McLeod of the clergy of that parish. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Six nephews served as pallbearers. They were Messrs. Lawrence Early, Roy Early and H. E. Cahill, all of Newton Lower Falls, Orlan Nelson of Newport, R. I., John Nelson of Natick and H. D. Brady of Norwood. The ushers were T. F. Ryan of Newton Lower Falls, Herbert Bancroft of Wellesley, Paul E. Hackett of Watertown and Leslie Maddeh of Newton Lower Falls.

DEATH OF MR. SAGE

Mr. Charles D. Sage, a resident of this city for the past 22 years, died yesterday of his home on Tarleton road, Newton Centre after a long illness and following a recent operation.
 Mr. Sage was 55 years of age and engaged in business as a salesman.
 He is survived by his widow and one daughter.
 Funeral services will be held from his late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FLORIDA AS IS

Monday morning we left St. Augustine for our great adventure—a trip across the State, back again and down the East Coast to Miami.

One of the principal pleasures of a trip like this, is the anticipation of what the day's program will bring to us. We flit from one town to another, each one vying with the other in entertainment and hospitality, and each determined to put through its own program regardless of the time limit our leaders are compelled to set in order to move a party of nearly 400 people according to schedule.

Our first stop, after a ride of a few hours was Gainesville, a charming little city of some 8,000. Here our train rolled right through the main streets of the city with the roadway on each side, giving us a fine opportunity to see the business as well as the residential sections of the city. Automobiles were in waiting and we were given a pretty ride through some beautiful streets, where the trees arched the roadway, with branches festooned with Spanish moss. One fine street had two roadways with a reservation in the center in which there was a row of fine large trees. The business section of the town was decorated with flags and bunting in our honor. We were taken to the University of Florida, a state college for boys and where there were 880 students. Here we were given a delicious luncheon, prepared and served by the boys, entertained while at lunch with some good music, also furnished by the students, and last but by no means least, listened to some of the best speeches I have ever heard on a trip of this kind. We were told that the Chamber of Commerce provided some 2,500 palm trees and that the townspeople turned to and set them out on the side of their streets; that 300 citizens gave a day and prepared and built an automobile camp for visiting tourists. Later we saw this camp. It is one of the unique features of Florida, that it encourages the traveling autoist by preparing these camps, and providing water and toilet facilities. The camp at Gainesville was the finest one we saw in all our travels. When we were there auto tourists were arriving every hour to attend the Tin Can Tourists jubilee which was to begin the next day. There were over 1,800 automobiles within and without the camp, about every State in the Union being represented. In another city we were told that it was good business for the towns to cater to these tourists as some 25 per cent of them usually purchased land and became tax-paying citizens. On the other hand we heard some complaint of the expense involved by these itinerants in the way of schooling for their children and the expense of looking after the camping places.

Our stay in Gainesville was altogether too short, but our train must move on schedule and we were in for a long hot ride that afternoon on our way to Leesburg. Our program called for inspection of a mill which was manufacturing paper from saw grass—a matter in which all newspaper men have a deep interest on account of the high price of newsprint made from wood pulp. Our train was run in two sections and the second section was apparently all at sea when it came to finding the way to the paper mill.

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS

Expert Advice on Points to be Observed in Obtaining Best Results

Few people realize the knowledge and skill required in making a photograph of a person. Every subject requires individual treatment and careful thought must be given to the arrangement of lines and color masses and there is no one for whom a pose and lighting cannot be found to effectively bring out or emphasize the best view of the subject's personality. But after all the real charm of a portrait is its portrayal of personality rather than an exact reproduction of features. Likeness will be found to lie more in general form than in individual features.

Color combinations should be carefully studied as to their photographic qualities. Warm tones, such as red, when placed next to cold tones, as blue, show a most decided contrast when photographed.

Red and orange, or blue and white show very little contrast. If the blue is light it may or not show at all. Red, green or yellow dots or figures on white ground would be very pronounced.

Green in combination with pink, or green and light purple photograph with very little contrast. If a color is of a generally neutral tone, it need be given no serious consideration.

We are indebted to the Bachrach Studio for the following general hints in photography:

Ladies should avoid powder and rouge. A shiny face photographs best. If lips lack color, use a lip stick. If eyebrows are scant, pencil them. Evening clothes and furs add richness to the portrait and will assist greatly in securing artistic lines. Bring a fan and evening wrap to the studio.

ANNUAL OUTING

Newton Chamber of Commerce Has Enjoyable Time at Nantasket

The seventh annual outing of the Newton Chamber of Commerce which was held on Wednesday afternoon and evening was a great success and a most enjoyable occasion.

The members assembled at noon near the Trust Company building at Newton and were assigned to the various automobiles and formed a motortroop of over 20 cars. The route: Newton, Nonantum, Newtonville, West Newton, Waban, Upper Falls, Newton Highlands, Newton Centre, and Chestnut Hill and thence to Nantasket Beach where the Villa was headquarters.

The afternoon was devoted to various kinds of sports around the hotel, followed by a visit to the nearby beach and a swim. Returning to the hotel, the party, which numbered over a hundred, sat down with hearty appetites to a lobster supper which was followed by brief remarks by Toastmaster Mayor Edwin O. Childs, President John T. Burns of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Frank L. Richardson of the Newton Trust Co., Mr. Harold Moore, secretary of the Chamber, and last but by no means least, by the inimitable "Hughie" Fogwill, who presented the prizes won during the afternoon, as only "Hughie" could do.

The prize winners were as follows: Ball throwing, first prize Joseph Sykoff, Frank L. Wilcox, second.

Pipe smoking contest, which resembled a potato race, in that the bowl, stem and tobacco were at three different points and the contestants raced from one to the other, and the one who put the pipe together and got it going won the prize. First place was won by Walter Wright, second by Peter Capodanno.

TAKE LAND FOR NEW SCHOOL

Aldermen Again Vote $25,000 for Land and $5,000 for Architect for New School at Newtonville

The aldermen were called in special session on Monday night by Mayor Childs because it has been found that the orders acted upon at the previous meeting of the board had not been adopted as supposed at that time, inasmuch as an order authorizing the issue of bonds must have a two-thirds vote of the entire board and at that time it received only 13 affirmative votes.

The meeting was well attended, only President Harriman, who is in Wyoming, and Alderman Blake, who is ill, being absent. Vice President Whidden presided.

The mayor sent in a recommendation for $25,000 for land and $5,000 for architects' commissions for a school building on the land between Crafts street and Walnut street, Newtonville, being particular to state that this land was needed for some kind of a school building regardless of the matter of a Junior High School.

Alderman Nichols spoke of the reason for the special meeting and then said that as there was some question as to the exact status of the land proposed to be taken he would suggest that Ex-Alderman H. D. Cabot be invited to explain the situation in the committee of the whole. Mr. Cabot said that two years ago the Gould property went into the hands of a real estate developer who proposed to cut it up into lots of about 5,000 feet each and allow two-family houses. He had got in touch with the owner and in July of that year two Newton men took over the property, enlarged the size of the lots to about 8,000 feet and restricted the land to single-family houses, with suitable setbacks. These gentlemen were unable to carry the matter through and last fall Mr. Cabot and Mr. Gammons took the property and at the present time have completed one house and sold about one-half the lots in the tract.

Personally Mr. Cabot didn't object to the schoolhouse but the house they have built projects into the tract proposed for the school like a "wart on a thumb." He believed the city ought to include this lot in its taking and move the building off or take the lot and require the present owners to move the building off, or leave the lot and house as it is, although, in that case he believed it might affect the kind of tenant who would be willing to live in such proximity to a school. He said they had been obliged to turn down an offer of $12,250 for this property in view of the proposed action of the board in taking the whole tract. He thought it would cost $5,000 to move the building to a new location.

Alderman Jewell proposed to take all the land except two or three lots on Crafts and Walnut streets, about 103,000 feet with a lot of about 23,000 feet in the middle of the tract in the rear of the excepted lots on Walnut and Crafts streets. Mr. Cabot thought that this taking would seriously depreciate the lots left on Walnut and Crafts streets and urged the board to consider the future need for a suitable school lot. Alderman Jewell called attention to the fact that his proposal would add some 15,000 feet now set aside for the extension of Churchill street, to the land to be purchased by the city. Alderman Lloyd believed it would be wiser to take all the land and rent the house until the city needed the land for school purposes. Alderman Heathcote thought the board was getting ahead of the real question and had the matter laid on the table until Gilded gentry of the "better"! Prating of social standing! Defiling the church with their heartless hypocrisy! Building their empty pride with the blood and toil of others! And then that "other sort" of person! The heart-hungry girl who finds the narrow path too hard. The boy who tries, loses, stumbles down. The poor who riot when their "betters" steal their homes. ## FLORIDA AS IS and finally left us at Leesburg station, where we were evidently unexpected. We found later that the paper mill was not finished and all we missed was a welcome speech and some fruit punch. In the meantime the people on our section had found the way to the little plaza in the centre of the town where long tables had been laid for us and a barbecue was being prepared. We were entertained by a band concert until the rest of the party arrived and then were served with an excellent meal even if it was barbecued. This was the first town we had struck where oranges were plentiful and we were told to help ourselves to some 500 bags filled with several varieties of the fruit.

For the next few days we lived in an atmosphere of oranges, with oranges in front of us, oranges to right of us, oranges to left of us, and orange skins behind us.

In the evening we had another band concert and dancing on the paved street adjoining the plaza. Leesburg is a tiny little city, the business street being only a quarter of a mile in length, but it certainly has plenty of pep and enterprise.

The town did not possess a building large enough to serve breakfast the next morning to such a large party as ours, and so we were assigned to the townpeople for a real home breakfast. My party was fortunate to draw the home of Miss Aikens, a charming bungalow in the heart of what was formerly an orange grove. It is needless to say that such surroundings, only added to the graciousness of our hostess and gave added zest to the good things she had provided for us.

Leesburg is in Lake County, a county 70 miles long, 60 miles wide, and with 300 miles of paved roads. We, in Massachusetts can hardly realize the strength of the county form of government in other states, particularly in the south. In Florida, the county builds and maintains the roads and builds and maintains the schools. Money for both roads and schools is raised by bond issues either by vote of the county or of the school district. Taxes are levied both by the towns and by the county.

There are county chambers of commerce and that for Lake County was equalled by few and excelled by none. It issued a special newspaper for our education and delight, entitled "LAKE CONICS" full of wit and wisdom and highly complimentary to the Chamber secretary, Mr. William B. Powell. It was this county chamber that furnished our party with well over a hundred automobiles that morning and took us on a drive through the county of 70 or 80 miles, which was certainly an eye-opener to most of us. For here we saw for the first time, groves of oranges and grape fruit and drew deep breaths of air laden with the perfume of orange blossoms. Beautiful little lakes were everywhere, acres of pine forests, and mile upon mile of splendid paved roads. Gone forever were our ideas of swamps and alligators and snakes, after that delightful ride in the heart of Florida.

We took our ride by brief stops in numerous small villages, the first time at Umatilla, where the ladies of the town served us with chilled orange juice and where the school children sang for us. Eustis was our second stop and made a most favorable impression on most of us for it is located on the shores of a beautiful lake and its residences on shaded streets looked comfortable and homelike. Here too, we had more ice cream juice, 30 bushels of oranges having been used that morning to provide us with the beverage.

The local newspaper, the Eustis Lake Region, issued a special edition for us and possibly its word of greeting may give my readers some idea of the hospitable spirit in which we were received. Here it is:

"Greetings to you, members of the National Editorial Association, one and all. This morning we extend our hands. Our hearts met you when you crossed the northern boundary of our state, and every moment of the time since you entered the land of sunshine, fruit and flowers, our good wishes have accompanied you. It has been our heart's desire that in each city, town and village through which your itinerary leads you you would meet with as cordial and whole-hearted a welcome as we, the people of Lake County, feel honored to extend. We trust that each succeeding lap of your journey may add something to your enjoyment, and that in each town you visit you will be able to store in memory's casket another gem. We of the Highlands, or Lake Region of Florida, believe with all our hearts that we have the most favored, the loveliest section of the entire state, but we are not going to try to force our opinions upon you. The mocking bird's song you will hear in Orange County tomorrow may be just as captivating as the ones you hear in Lake today, and the orange blossoms farther south may smell just as sweet as ours. It matters little which particular section impresses you most—perhaps you will differ among yourselves as to the merits of each—but it is a matter of considerable moment, and it is our fervent prayer that you will get a true impression of our state at large; that when you return to your various sanctuaries, east, west, and north, and make editorial mention of your trip through Florida, you will neither magnify nor minimize; that you will have been able to see our country and its people just as they are, and to form a true conception of our citizenship, our industries, enterprises, and developments. We want you to see us at work as well as at play; to understand that we Floridians, either by birth or adoption, have learned that a judicious mixture of play and work is conducive to contentment and happiness, abundance and long life.

"The holiday spirit, of which you have not seen a little since you entered the state, can be seen and felt on more different occasions in Florida during a twelve-month than in any other state in the entire U. S. A. We hope and believe that through your visit some false impressions concerning us and our country will be corrected; some wrongs that have heretofore been done us by the press of the North will be righted. Some of you have visited us before, but we presume that most of you are now seeing Florida for the first time. May you, our guests, get as much pleasure and inspiration out of your visit as you have given to us, your hosts and hostesses, while here. It was our good fortune to have you come; we hope you will count it your good fortune to have had the opportunity to visit and mingle with us. You will come back, a great many of you, next year, or in after years—nearly everybody does who visits Florida—and you will find the same hospitality you found in 1921. It was not manufactured just for this occasion. It is the natural product of our climate and is inherent in our people.

"We regret sincerely that your sojourn with us could not be longer. The freedom of our little city is yours while in Eustis and the benediction of her people will accompany you as you go your way."

A few miles farther on we found Mt. Dora, also on a charming lake where there was more orange juice, and some of our party came near being foundered, they drank so much of this delicious beverage.

One of the pleasures of holding a high office in an association of this kind was the special attention one receives from the local committees and I was honored at Mt. Dora with an invitation to make the trip by launch to Mont Verde where luncheon was to be served. Our host had a splendid gasoline launch holding 8 or 10 persons, and the 18 miles through three lakes were altogether too short. The connection between two of these three lakes was through a narrow channel for a distance of 8 miles. The road skirted either side and we plowed through water lilies and other aquatic plants. Our boat aroused hundreds of wild fowl, including ducks and hawks and cranes—the only wild life I saw in the whole state. We also crossed Lake Apopka, said to be one of the largest fresh water lakes wholly within the borders of the United States, and flock after flock of wild ducks took to flight as we approached.

We joined the rest of the party at the Montverde School, probably the most unique school in the whole country, in that every student, both boys and girls, rich and poor alike, are required to pay one-half of their tuition each year in work about the college. The boys raise most of the vegetables used on the place, construct most of the buildings and a large part of the furniture, while the girls do all the cooking. There are no hired persons on the place. The school never solicits students, and in 1919 about 150 were turned away for lack of room, notwithstanding the fact that it is constantly increasing its accommodations each year. Two hundred pupils are now enrolled and 300 are expected the present year. The charge is $164 for eight months and a like amount in services rendered.

In addition to the regular course required of high school students it has excellent departments in agriculture, manual training, domestic science, music, expression, horticulture, and printing.

We were served with an excellent lunch by the students while the school orchestra furnished music.

That afternoon we visited the little towns of Clermont, Groveland, and Mascotte, where more orange juice was furnished in overflowing abundance. As we left Mascotte a box of oranges was placed in each Pullman.

It was only a short ride to the thriving city of Lakeland where we were duly welcomed in the little park adjoining the railroad station and assigned to different hotels and clubs for an excellent dinner. In the evening we strolled about this busy little city or listened to the band which gave a concert in the park. Late at night our train pulled out for the remaining leg of our journey to the West Coast of Florida.

GARDEN NEWS STORY

The weather of the past week has been especially conducive to the development of such fungus diseases as blight, anthracnose, downy mildew and leaf spot. All of these can be controlled only by means of Bordeaux mixture which is a combination of copper sulphate and lime. Some of them can be completely controlled if spraying begins before the disease appears, while others can only be partially checked.

It is very important that potatoes be sprayed regularly every ten days with a solution of Bordeaux mixture, in order to protect them from blight. Other vegetables which may or may not be effected need not be sprayed until the disease first appears. Gardeners should be on the lookout every day for the beginning of these diseases.

Blight is easily detected by the appearance of brown spots on the leaves. It also has a distinctive odor, different from any other disease. This should not be confused with having the leaves near the base of the plant turn yellow and fall off which frequently occurs when there has been a long period of drought. Blight effects seriously potatoes, beans, celery and cucumbers.

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS

Wear the hair dressed in an accustomed manner—not in some "fancy" style for the occasion. Do not wear a net.

The simplest gowns should be selected, avoiding decided designs, span-gles or heavy embroidery.
If inclined to be stout wear dark-colored gown with deep V-neck, heavy satin, brocade, or velvet. Seek vertical lines.

Not advisable—light colors, thin silks, sleeveless gowns or sleeves of net.

Do Not Wear—spangled or metallic fabrics.

Beads—short strings are not good—a chain or string of light-colored beads at least a yard long would be good.

A lorgnette on light-colored ribbon or chain is excellent.

If neck is short and heavy, do not bind with black velvet.

If forearms are fleshy, wear long black gloves.

If only bust portrait is desired, it is best to uncorsset.

If inclined to be thin wear any light gown. Fur neckpiece is good. Short length heads or pearls. Avoid all things giving vertical lines.

Gentlemen should wear the clothes in which they look the best, preferably plain, dark colors and patterns.

Overcoat, gloves, cane, or soft hat are excellent accessories.

Avoid decided checks, stripes, and contrasting colors in suits, shirt, and cravat.

Do not wet the hair unless you do so habitually.

Full-figure portraits are rarely good except in distinctive garb, as riding clothes or uniform.

Children should be simply dressed—the more simply the better. Light clothing or white dresses are generally preferable.

Babies always look well in bonnets.
Babies not old enough to walk usually make most attractive pictures when barefoot.

The hair should be left as it is generally worn. If it is somewhat disordered, the effect is sometimes desirable.

Every effort should be made to prevent the child becoming self-conscious, and it should never be told it is going to be photographed. Never call attention to the mouth, eyes, or expression as it may require much time and patience to overcome the strained and unnatural appearance which is sure to result.

If the child's expression is strange—and of course the parent is a better judge of this than anyone else—the attention of the artist should be called to the fact, but without allowing the child to become aware of it.

Whether the photographs are taken at the home or the studio, it is better to have no more than one person in the room during the sitting. More are bound to distract the little subjects and the photographer. In fact, it is often much better to leave the child entirely alone with the artist.

It was decided whether or not action was to be taken that evening, and he suggested postponement until September 15th.

Alderman Nichols opposed postponement, saying that this was no new subject, having been urged by the school committee in February, 1920, considered by a special joint committee that spring, a public hearing held on June 7th, at which a Junior High School was approved by 43 persons present, another hearing held before the Finance and Public Buildings Committees on June 14th and on its report the Finance Committee had asked for a special commission to study the matter further. We now have the Van Sickle report and on which Ex-Alderman William L. Allen, whom Mr.
Nichols termed "a conservative of conservatives" on school matters, had conceded the necessity for one new building. The congestion now is worse than last year and the matter ought not to be postponed longer in the interests of the school children of Newton. Mr. Nichols said it was not necessary now to say whether this school building was to be used for a Junior High School or not. The land should be taken now or its cost will be greatly increased. Personally, Mr.
Nichols believed that the people of Newton would almost unanimously approve the Junior High School plan if it was put up to them.

Mr. Cabot said that postponement would make things quite unsettled on at least two lots now under consideration by possible purchasers.

Alderman Heathcote said that the board had felt for the urgency of the Waban school two years ago and had undoubtedly expended many thousands of dollars unnecessarily in that building. He saw no good reason why this present school could not have been brought up earlier in the season and believed that a short delay would not hurt anybody. Two points, he said, had not been even considered, one, the cost of carrying the expense of this school on which he said the city treasurer had informed him it would probably require 5 1/2 per cent interest or 1 dead denuded trunks have to be taken from their places where they have so long had root and growth and have given out such comfort and beauty!

And this tragedy of our trees is not of one only, but they fall in twos and threes, and leave empty spaces and staring skies, all over our fair city!
How different will be the future Newton deprived of our trees, valued companions of so many years! But are we not already moving toward the appearance of a cleared frontier town?
It is said the hope of the world of the future is with the child of to-day.
What is the hope of life for the trees of this city in the future but in the planting of the young tree? Can we not form an association to plant one tree in the place of each of our fallen and falling trees—elms, oaks, or

OFFICER TAFFE BURIED

The funeral services of Police Officer
Richard T. Taffe were held on Monday morning and were attended by large details of men from both the Police and Fire Departments.

Rev. Fr. William Farrell celebrated the funeral mass at St. Bernard's Church which was crowded with friends. Six patrolmen, under the leadership of Sgt. Hughes, escorted the hearse and acted as pallbearers.
They were Thomas Dolan, Richard Conroy, John Roche, William Kiley, and Martin J. Nagle. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

(24.78) feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the fifteenth day of August, A. D. 1921, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.
And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis,
Esquire, Judge of said Court, this

EDITORIAL

Inasmuch as the aldermen have, in substance, definitely approved of the plan for a Junior High School, it would be futile, at this time, to make a categorical reply to the criticisms made by Mr. Everett E. Kent, chairman of the school committee, of a recent editorial on that subject, which criticism we published in our issue of last week.

It is with some reluctance that we pass up this splendid opportunity to refute some of Mr. Kent's dictatorial statements, such as it is NOT cheaper to build more grammar schools; that it is NOT the best plan for the taxpayers to return to the ninth grade system, etc., etc., matters on which a few of us, at least, differ from Mr. Kent, and which are not settled by his ipse dixit.

We differ from Mr. Kent in his opinion that the public has been fully informed of the pending question of a Junior High School and submit that a public hearing held over a year ago at which less than 50 persons were present, is not sufficient publicity for a plan of today, involving an ultimate expenditure of nearly a million dollars for construction and a considerable increase in school maintenance costs.

Incidentally it might be well to remind our readers that one of the strongest advocates last year of the Junior High School plan pays only a poll tax.

We also differ from Mr. Kent in his statement made at the aldermanic meeting on July 11th, that the people of Newton had gone to their summer homes at the shore and country "complacent" in the belief that the Junior High School matter was moving along. It is our opinion that our good citizens have gone away in "complacent ignorance" of the whole question.

However, as the matter is practically settled, "what's the use of worrying" over mere personal opinions.

In pointing out that by issuing bonds at the present time, the city will have to pay at least 1 per cent more for interest than in ordinary periods, Alderman Heathcote has given another and most substantial reason why it is unwise to attempt any large public works under present conditions. That 1 per cent would add $3,000 for the first year for interest charges alone on the $300,000 proposed to be issued for the new school.

While the mayor and aldermen were most particular, in authorizing the purchase of land and the employment of an architect for a new schoolhouse in Newtonville, to refrain from expressing any opinion for or against its use as a Junior High School, it is dollars to doughnuts that when those plans are presented for approval, that they will be suitable for use only as a Junior High School.

The final report of the Belgian Relief Commission showing that $1,300,000,000 was expended for the relief of 10,000,000 people from starvation at a cost of less than 4 cents for every $10 expended, is a wonderful tribute to the efficient management of that commission under Mr. Herbert Hoover, and a record of public service which we doubt will ever be equalled.

Regardless of the outcome of the hearing now going on in Boston before the Supreme Court, Attorney General Allen deserves the thanks of the community for showing up the methods and practices of some members of the legal profession. It should lead to an immediate house cleaning by the various Bar Associations of the State.

In the present state of the costs of building construction and of high rates for money, we believe the proper answer, from the point of view of the taxpayers of Newton, to the problem of providing additional school accommodations, is the purchase of more portable school rooms.

Several thousands of dollars might well have been saved if our city authorities had had the wisdom and foresight to have taken an option some months ago on the land just seized for schoolhouse purposes. It was not thus in the "olden days."

DEATH OF WALTER WINN

Mr. Walter Winn, for the past 11 years a resident of Newton Highlands, died early yesterday morning at his home on Lake avenue following an illness of over a year's duration. He was born in Boston 45 years ago and during his residence here was engaged in business as a sign painter. He is survived by a widow.

Mr. Winn was a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks and had many friends both in that fraternity and among his business associates.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at Newton Cemetery Chapel and will be conducted by the officers of Newton Lodge of Elks assisted by Rev. Theodore R. Ludlow, rector of St. Paul's Church.

NEW CLUB INSPECTED

There was an informal opening of the new Charles River Country Club yesterday afternoon and several hundred members and their friends took the opportunity to look over the clubhouse and the golf course which is under construction. About 300 men are at work on the grounds which it is expected will be ready for play next spring.

The board of governors of the club formed the reception committee and welcomed the members and their guests who were shown over the clubhouse and grounds by Mr. S. Harold Greene, chairman, and Mr. William M. Noble. The afternoon's program included dancing and refreshments under the direction of Mr. A. E. Alvord.

BAND CONCERT

The Newton Constabulary Band will give another afternoon concert next Sunday at the Riverside Recreation Grounds.

DEATH OF MRS. FOX

Mrs. Martha Ann Fox, wife of Charles O. Fox, died at her home on Auburn street, Auburndale, Saturday, July 16, after several weeks' illness. Mrs. Fox was born in Charlestown, March 26, 1841, the daughter of William P. and Ellen Page Bourne. She came with her parents to Auburndale in 1843, and at that time there were but three houses in the village. She was married August 22, 1867, to Charles Fox of Auburndale. Mrs. Fox was a woman who endeared herself to everyone and made many friends.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Raymond E. Perkins, of Auburndale, and one sister, Miss Eliza Bourne, of Medford.

Services were held at the Newton Cemetery Chapel on Monday afternoon and were conducted by the Rev. Edward Payson Drew assisted by the Rev. George S. Butters, and burial was in the family lot at Newton Cemetery.

WANTED ONE THOUSAND PARTNERS BEFORE OCTOBER FIRST BY THE SAFEST BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

This business is more than thirty years old and has paid a dividend twice each year promptly when due.

The partners have no liability and cannot be called upon to pay an assessment of any sort. Every dollar of earnings, after paying expenses, and expenses are low, is divided among the partners or set aside for their protection. The word partner as used here is just another name for the depositor in a Mutual Savings Bank, because every depositor is a partner. There are no stockholders. Every penny belongs to the depositor-partners.

PARTNERS ARE WANTED

There are more than six thousand now.

COME AND BE A PARTNER

You may have an interest in the business to any extent, from one dollar to two thousand dollars.

NORUMBEGA PARK

The beautiful days that usually come with a perfect New England summer are in evidence, and are now being enjoyed by thousands daily at New England's elite pleasure park, Norumbega. The attractions offered there are more than out of the ordinary, especially the various programs scheduled in the great theatre of steel, usually producing a feature picture of more than ordinary interest. Then there is the added attraction Friday evenings of beautiful pyrotechnic display, which has become very popular and is attracting much attention, likewise, the new and permanent fun maker just recently installed known as "Dodge 'Em." This furnishes abundant amusement to those who participate, and likewise to the onlookers. The stage show with this week will comprise four acts of superior vaudeville featuring The Elm City Four, who recently closed an engagement at the New York Hippodrome, where they have been a raging success for the past two seasons. Noel, Lester & Co., doing a novelty variety act; Bradbury & Weston in a comedy music skit; and Gallo-way & Conway, comedy talking act. The feature picture for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be that elaborate production of "Fickle Women" featuring David Powell. For the last three days will be seen the "Rider of King Log," with an all-star cast. For Sunday, a special vaudeville act will be presented for the entertainment in the theatre and through the week dancing will be enjoyed in the popular-priced restaurant.

HEALTH WORK ON PLAYGROUNDS

The Newton Welfare Bureau is financing a Health Campaign again on the playgrounds this summer. A health worker and a nurse have been weighing and measuring the children, dropping tactful hints when the need for certain health habits was apparent.

The children are for the most part eager to be weighed, wish to join their playground Health Club and participate in all the rewards of persistent performance of Health Chores. This careful attention to the rules of the game will, it is hoped, ground the children in habits of good health that they may be better citizens, of more value to their city, and to themselves.

PRIZE ESSAYS

Full Text of Essays which Recently Won Cash Prizes at Classical High School

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, following the custom all over the State, offered prizes for the best essays on some subject relating to the Pilgrims, and in co-operation with the English department of the Classical High School, a first prize of $5.00 in gold was assigned to the Senior and Junior classes in one group and a first prize of $3.00 for the Sophomore and Freshmen classes, as another group.

About 900 essays were submitted from which the teachers selected 75 to be presented to the judges. Prof. Harry B. Centre, of the English department of Boston University; Mr. Percy M. Proctor, of the English department of the Country Day School; and Mrs. F. E. Banfield, Jr., president of the Newton Centre Woman's Club.

In making their award the judges commented upon the excellence of the essays submitted to them and recommended honorable mention to 10 pupils in each of the two groups considered.

First prize of $5 in the senior-junior group was awarded to Hazel Arline Bell of the junior class, with honorable mention for Bessie Noble, Lorraine Crosby, Roger Cummings, Muriel Howland, Donald Leonard, Jeanette Eaton, Elizabeth Bennett, Margaret Walker, Gladys Lawrence and Hester Leitner. The first prize of $3 in the sophomore-freshman group went to Mary Clark of the sophomore class with honorable mention to Elizabeth Marcy, Grace Lee, Margery Fraser, Caroline Cummings, Muriel Shannon, Phyllis Baker, Eleanor Berry, Mary Lichtner, Rosemary Park and Wallace H. Nichols.

We give the prize essays in full.

That of Miss Bell is entitled:

"The Pilgrims—Early Immigrants"

Perhaps, as we live in Massachusetts, the Pilgrims of New England interest us most among the Early Immigrants. The twelve years that they had spent in Holland had given them an acquaintance with the spirit and forms of republican government, a conception of education, of religion, and of life, which had not been offered them in monarchical England of their time.

Up to the time when the Plymouth settlement was made, the notion had prevailed in England that her colonies could only be utilized profitably to clear the mother country of jail birds and paupers. To this plantation, however, it was left to demonstrate that only the honest and the thrifty could work out the salvation of a wilderness, and more than one historian has noticed that every attempt to colonize any part of New England had failed until these Pilgrims began a settlement based upon a profound sense of duty and a steadfast reliance upon God.

Never before had a colony like this been founded, and during the colonial days of the United States there was no colony which did not acknowledge the difference between its own settlement and this one, which in the eyes of the whole world was regarded with a certain reverence. This was because these Mayflower Pilgrims were a band of religious exiles, with none of that restless spirit of the adventurer, or that desire for wealth which had thrilled so many other colonists. With them it was simply a desire to have a home under the English flag, where they and their children might enjoy religious freedom and free institutions.

In the new country they had established that relation between church and state which exists to-day in the American Republic—a free church and a free state, each separate and independent of the other. Although the salaries of the ministers were voted annually at the town meetings, the church only looked to the state for protection, and in its turn, the state only called upon the church to quicken and enlighten the moral sense of the people. Each was a distinct body, and, although most of the colonists were members of both church and state, it was clearly understood that, of one body, the head was Christ, and of the other, King James.

In Holland these Plymouth Fathers had, without complaint, suffered such hardships as came to them, and had willingly crossed the ocean to settle on the borders of an unexplored country, inhabited only by Indians. Here they were ready, if necessary, to be martyrs to their faith, well knowing that, if death should come, it must be met without any stimulating applause and approbation. They had come to this unknown world because their religion had gripped their consciences, and their consciences would not let them feign satisfaction with things as they were, or tacitly consent to what they believed untrue. Owing to the depth of their convictions, they had separated from the Church of England and had endured for weeks all the terrors of the ocean in a leaking boat, in a cabin crowded almost to suffocation. They had arrived at Cape Cod poorly equipped and scantily provisioned, but with a dogged religious determination to make their colony a success. In their unrestrained zeal there was nothing too dangerous to undertake. For dangers already escaped they gave reverent thanks to their God,—dangers to come, they were ready to face, with an infinite trust in their Maker.

Was it chance that prevented Bartholomew Gosnold's intended settlement from being made on Cape Cod, which he discovered? Was the supply of seed-corn, which was discovered the day before the winter's freeze-up, "a special providence of God," as Bradford had expressed it? After their first skirmish with the Indians all felt that "it had pleased God to vanquish their enemies, and by his special providence so to dispose that not one of them was either hurt or killed." Later, other events in their lives showed that the hand of some unknown power was working out for them some unknown destiny. Was it chance that Samoset, the only Indian who could speak a few words of English, had come to them during those critical days; and that Squanto had been on hand to teach them how to plant corn, without which they would have died because of lack of proper food?

As has been said of these people, "in the pursuit of religious freedom they established civil liberty,—meaning only to found a church they gave birth to a nation,—and in settling a town, commenced an empire."

The men of the Mayflower, while they made many serious mistakes, were undoubtedly guided by God's providence.

"Winning by inches, holding by clinches,

Slow to contention, but slower to quit;

Now and then failing, never once quailing,

Let us thank God for our Saxon grit!"

That of Miss Clark is entitled:

"The Pilgrims' Sabbath"

The day of rest, the day free from the labors of the week, the day when God's care seemed to make the hard lives of the Pilgrims worth living—this was their Sabbath.

Suppose we visit a Pilgrim family in 1622 at Plymouth on their Sabbath. Visitors are always welcome! We arrive at sunset, Saturday, and, approaching the door of the cabin, meet the father and his two sons just returning, with their guns over their shoulders, from a town meeting. We tell them who we are and they bid us welcome to their home. We enter the one-room cabin and are greeted by the cheerful blaze of a fire in the huge fireplace and also by the kind words of the housewife, who does her best to make us comfortable in every possible way. As the family bustle about, do their last tasks, we have time to look around us. It is just a log cabin, rudely built, but somehow a holy influence pervades it and makes it beautiful. The furniture seems rough, but has probably been made by the father, but this roughness is made up for by the many articles for various uses, and their hospitable look. There are no decorations around the room, but the fire, roaring in its fireplace, sends bright messengers of its own to light up and make attractive the darkest corners;—the pure face of a maiden spinning at her wheel gives an aspect of home and peace;—and the mother, hurrying back and forth, preparing the evening meal, makes us realize that—we are hungry!

And we are grateful for our appetites as we gather with the family about their table! After the father has offered a prayer for strength we all set about the business in hand, and it is a pleasant business, indeed. The father must surely be hungry, but he waits until he has seen that everyone is well supplied; the mother, too, must have worked hard and certainly deserves a rest now, but she is continually rising to help someone or poke the fire, which is getting low. The children, however, get busy at once and it is a delightful sight to watch their enjoyment of the food. The meal is simple, being made up of corn cakes, Indian corn, and, as a great treat, the boys inform us, hare meat. The father and boys have been shooting in the morning and have returned with a large-sized hare. Their meat is a great luxury, so it is shared with all the neighbors, but there is still enough left for each member of the family to have a taste.

At the close of the meal the father gives thanks to God for the food, and the family move back their chairs so that all may help wash dishes. When this is done, we draw up our chairs around the fire in a semi-circle, for evening prayers. The fire has been replenished and is again blazing cheerfully, sending out its warmth first to the father circle around it and then beyond them to the farther parts of the room. How the wind does whistle around the house, and how the door rattles on its hinges! We are very grateful for a shelter from the cold night blast. And, as Nature grows more excited and speaks in louder accents outdoors, the father, indoors, reads to us from the Holy Book. With kindly good-nights all retire, the children climbing the ladder to the loft overhead, where the mother and father will soon follow them when they have made sure that we, their guests, are comfortable on the bench in the main room.

We wake early, as all wise people should, having gone to bed early, and hear bright voices above us, for the children are also waking. The father comes down the ladder, greets us with a hearty "good-morning," and goes out to bring in more wood from the shed. The fire must always be burning, for it is the life of the cabin and its inmates on cold, wintry days. It is the father's special care.

A soft snow has fallen during the night, and now, as we look out, the old world seems beautifully pure, as though it has donned a fresh white gown and purified its soul for Sunday.

Though the fire is again faithfully doing its duty, it will have a hard time to thaw out the cold of the night, for windows had to be left open, and the wind had to vent its pent-up, cold feelings on some innocent thing. Cold, however, is nothing unusual, and each member of the family, having his own particular task to do, is soon busily employed doing it. Our breakfast of hot corn-meal mush and corn cakes helps to make us warmer, and, by the time the dishes of the meal have been cleared away, we are entirely comfortable.

And now we go to church. The mother helps the children on with their wraps, puts hot coals in the foot warmer, and tucks it under her arm as she takes a last look about the room. The father shoulders his gun and carries under the other arm a prayer-and-hymn book, and somehow manages to hold the hand of his little daughter walking primly by his side. The boys carry guns, too, of which they are very proud, for it is not long since these were forbidden property. The young girl walks by her mother's side, talking, perhaps, or silently thinking her own thoughts, while we follow them, feeling how well suited to this pure, clear, sunshiny morning are the lives of these people, bravely struggling for right and truth through all hardships.

As we near the meeting house, which is also rudely built of logs, but is larger and stronger than the rest of the cabins, we meet other families on their way. Both old and young are obliged to attend the service, despite the cold and dampness, and no one tries to evade this unwritten law for it is a part of their religion. We enter, with the rest, through the one doorway of the meeting house, the women going to one side and the men to the other.

The minister now speaks and we are silent. Then we rise and sing the doxology and the service continues as is usual. The sermon is the main feature, and during this, if you are very, very curious to watch people, you may see white heads over in the men's section nodding, nodding,—and white caps over in the women's section nodding, nodding! You may see a hand raised stealthily to cover a large-sized yawn, and you may hear a little child's whisper "Mother, when will he stop?" But if you are intent on the minister you will hear many interesting things, though some may be tiringly repeated.

When we rise stiffly for the closing hymn, we sing with great fervor, "Oh bless us as we take our leave," and emerge joyfully into the crisp, cold air and God's own sunlight. We hurry home to eat our Sunday dinners, where we are speedily roused from any feeling of drowsiness we may have had by our sharp appetites caused by the tempting odors issuing from pots and kettles over the fireplace. The dinner turns out to be delicious, and we relax from formality enough to laugh perhaps once during the meal.

In the afternoon each member of the family has something special to do, either the learning of a passage of Scripture or the verses of a hymn. We have an interesting talk with the father, learning a little of his hardships but more of his faith and hope.

When the hour glass and the sun show us, in their different ways, that day is gently slipping away and night is slowly, majestically, silently taking her place, we all go forth again to the meeting house for the vesper service. This service is peaceful and beautiful in its simplicity and every-one takes part with heart and soul. It seems, as the day is waning, that the people gain new strength for the week of hard work before them.

And now we must leave them as they make their way homeward, and we go with more cheerful, thankful hearts, having seen and lived with these Pilgrims of true faith.

WITH THE HARVARD GLEE CLUB

Paris, France.
June 24, 1921.

Dear M—
So this is Paris! And believe me, it's some little town! We've been going steadily every minute since we got off the boat at Havre, and this is absolutely the first opportunity I've had to do any writing since then. There is an excursion to the Cluny Museum this afternoon.

Guess what I did yesterday—shook hands with Marshal Foch! But more about that later.

At Havre, they gave us a most astounding reception. The mayor of Havre, with several of the city's leading men, and Col. Azan, chief of staff of Marshal Foch, came out in a tug to meet the Touraine as she was about to enter the harbor. They made a few short speeches of welcome and then told us of the plans for the following day. Col. Azan, by the way, came all the way down from Paris to meet us. He was at Harvard part of the time during the war, helping train the S. A. T. C. We stayed on board that night and got up for a 6:30 breakfast the next morning. After breakfast, we got our baggage together for a very perfunctory customs inspection. Then we walked around the city until 10 A. M., when we came back to the pier and were met by autos which took us all over the city. We stopped at one private house up on the hill overlooking the business part of the city and the harbor, and went thru the gardens. You never saw such wonderful gardens in all your life! All sorts and descriptions of flowers, beautiful trees, green lawns, terraces, and paths. I can't begin to describe it—and all perfectly kept.

Then they took us to a cafe and gave us a regular six-course dinner—wine, beer, etc.—oh, yes—everywhere you go you can get wine, beer, champagne, and any kind of drinks you want. With all the wines and liquors around there has been practically no over-indulgence by any of the fellows. With all ways plenty at hand—there is no trouble at all. The cafes are quite different from ours. The bar is the centre of activity and there are the inevitable tables and chairs out on the sidewalk in front of the cafes where you sit down and order what you want.

Well, after we finished our meal, we went down to the Hotel de Ville for a reception. The place was all decorated with French and American flags, and there was a big crowd outside waiting to see us. We got out of the cars and walked thru the crowd to the gateway and thence thru a court to the door. And believe me, American city halls look like barns compared to these French ones. There are always two buildings at least in even the small French towns which are inevitably beautiful—one the city hall, and the other the church. And this Hotel de Ville was no exception. We walked up an elegant marble stair-case into a long corridor, and there, at the head of the stairs, we saw a huge crimson banner, with a big white H. We left our coats and hats in a room off the corridor and went into a great hall, all decorated with gold, and lace curtains, and French and American flags, and there they had a big portrait of George Washington draped with a huge American flag.

Then the mayor and grandees of the place came in and the speeches started. They spoke in French, of course—

After the speeches the Glee Club sang three numbers and ended up with the "Star Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise," the latter in French. Our singing made a tremendous hit, and truly, I didn't know what was going to happen, they were so enthusiastic. Then they passed around wine and champagne and made many toasts. They had some delicious punch and sandwiches and fruit candy. O, they did it up brown!

After it was all over but the shouting, we went to some hotel and had supper, and then took the train for Paris. The latter was 15 minutes late in starting and was "express" to Paris—that is, it didn't stop at more than 5 or 6 stations—and we arrived in Paris three-quarters of an hour ahead of time! Can you beat it?

The next day, Wednesday, we had a rehearsal in the morning, and instructions, etc. After lunch, some of us went down town and visited Notre Dame Cathedral and the church of St. Germaine which the "Big Bertha" hit. It would take a book to describe Notre Dame, so I'll leave that till I see you. In the church of St. Germaine, we could see from the new parts that had been put in just what damage was done. Then, all over the whole church were bits torn off of pillars, pictures riddled with shrapnel and chunks torn out of statues—they'll never be able to replace all the damage that was done.

Then we went to the city hall in Paris for our official reception there. I sent you newspaper clippings of what happened there, also a picture of the Club, with Col. Azan on the steps. There was a regular battery of photographers, and two movie cameras.

Yesterday we went down to the Cercle Inter-Allies for a dinner given in our honor. A great many prominent men of France were there, including Marshal Foch. It was a "whale of a dinner" you can bet. I saved the menu and later got Marshal Foch's autograph on it. We sang one number and then Foch made a short but splendid speech to us, after which we sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise" in French. I wish you could have seen Foch and those Frenchmen when we sang the latter. He grabbed Doctor Davison by the hand after it was over and patted him on the back and then went out shaking hands as he went—including yours truly. That concluded the ceremonies at the Cercle Inter-Allies, and we hiked over to the Eiffel Tower. It doesn't look so big at a distance, but when you get near it, it is simply tremendous. It took four different elevators to take us to the top. And what a view! All Paris was spread out below, and Notre Dame looked like a toy house, and the Seine like a huge snake winding around through the buildings.

O, I almost forgot about going to the Opera Wednesday night—Ariadne and Bluebeard.

We're getting all sorts of invitations. We are going to a light opera tonight and we have an invitation to visit the big aerodrome tomorrow and go up, but Doctor Davison wouldn't listen to that, he said it was too great a risk and too much responsibility.

We are going to Italy. That was definitely announced this morning. Our French trip will last until about the 20th of July, and we end the Italian trip on August 10th.

—The Union Service next Sunday will be held in the Baptist Church owing to the repairs being made at Eliot Church and Rev. Newell C. Maynard, pastor of the Centre Church of Haverhill, a ndat one time assistant in Eliot Church, will be the preacher.

MILITARY FUNERAL

The body of Private Michael J. Devine, a former member of Co. F, 101st Infantry arrived here this week and yesterday laid in state in the Waltham armory. To-day it was removed to the home of his sister, Miss Josephine Devine on Jerome avenue, West Newton, and at nine tomorrow morning the funeral services will be held in St. Bernard's Church at West Newton.

Devine enlisted in Company F, 5th Infantry, at the outbreak of hostilities and when the 5th and 9th Mass. Infantry regiments were merged in Framingham in August, 1917, to make up the 101st U. S. Infantry, Devine was transferred to Company F of that unit.

He sailed for France in September and saw active service with the 26th Division at Chemin de Dame, Chateau Thierry and was about to go in with his regiment at the St. Mihiel salient when he was taken ill with pneumonia, aggravated by his continued exposure to battle conditions. He died and was buried at Meul la Tour on September 7th, being interred in the 26th Division cemetery in that town. He was 32 years of age at the time of death.

Arrangements for the funeral will be handled by Newton Post of the American Legion, and the former members of Company F will be invited to assist in the funeral services.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

"Does it pay?" It is well that this question be asked from time to time by the tax-payers and it is well to consider this question carefully at all times and to analyze the scope and functions of playgrounds and playground activities.

"An ounce of prevention pays better than a pound of cure." This is an old maxim but one which might well be applied in judging the value of playgrounds. It is essentially the reason why the playground movement has achieved such dimensions in America and why thousands of cities and towns are now spending millions in the development, equipment, maintenance and supervision of playgrounds.

In Newton the maintenance and care and construction, as well as supervision and direction, is in charge of one commission called the City of Newton Playground Commission. This has enabled Newton to develop her playgrounds and her supervision in a highly co-ordinated manner. This has resulted in making the parks and playgrounds of real use to the people. Utility of the grounds being the first consideration, yet beauty of landscape architecture is not by any means neglected. Many expert visitors who come to Newton always remark upon the beautiful green fields, the fine trees and shrubs. It has long been a belief in many cities that grass surfaces could not be maintained on playgrounds, yet Newton has demonstrated that this can be done.

It has recently been demonstrated by the National organization that playgrounds not only pay enormous returns in the health and happiness of the people, but that they also are very cheap when compared to the maintenance of parks. Newton has over hundred acres of land devoted to playgrounds. If they were kept simply as parks they would cost more than twice what they cost now in care and maintenance and supervision. The Newton Playground Department maintains practically an all-year-round system of supervision and care and maintenance. During school time the supervision is reduced to afternoons when the schools are not in session.

Besides the active plays and games which are constantly scheduled, besides the athletic work and folk dancing, besides the occupational play, besides tennis, croquet, and the play on swings and teeters and apparatus, the Playground Department conducts health courses, swimming, shower baths, boys' and girls' Scout work, skating and other winter activities, concerts and dances on the green. The bathhouses on the Upper Falls, Auburndale and Allison playgrounds have been used far beyond their limit this summer and the beach is being used by youngsters and older people are daily finding relief from the heat. The newest of bathhouses and bathing beaches which has been created by the playground department along the Charles River at the Auburndale Playground is proving unusually attractive to the youngsters of that region. A small appropriation made this year by the Board of Aldermen is now being spent in putting the finishing touches to this bathing beach. A float is being installed and the beach is being slightly widened. The Auburndale Playground with this addition is one of the most beautiful spots in Newton for field days and picnics. A number of other districts of Newton are already aware of this and have planned to conduct their church and similar picnics on these grounds this year. The shower baths on the Burr Playground, Allison Playground, Newton Centre Playground, Bowen School and Stearns School are being used to the limit of their capacity.

The Newton Welfare Bureau which most successfully co-operates with the Playground Department has already carefully examined and weighed and measured about a thousand youngsters. They have offered prizes in the form of star badges to the children who are most careful in observing the health rules. On the afternoon of July 29th a picnic has been arranged to take place on the Burr Playground to which about six boys and girls from each playground will be invited, because they have kept the rules of health best. Mrs. Seaver who, in charge of this work, has planned an attractive program with the help of the playground directors.

Five sets of swings built of galvanized iron and steel, each accommodating six swings are now being erected on the Waban, Horace Mann, Eden Avenue, Auburndale, and Highlands playgrounds. The Auburndale playground never had swings. On the other playgrounds they are to replace the wooden structures which in the long run are not as safe and as economical.

The athletic instructors are coaching in running, jumping, and pole vaulting, weight and javelin throwing. A number of home-made javelins have recently been added to the equipment. They are proving to be attractive to the older boys. The baseball league for the midlets and juniors is progressing on the North Side, South Side, and West Side of Newton. West Newton, Stearns, and Upper Falls seem to be getting the lead.

On the Newton Centre Playground clock golf has recently been laid out near the tennis courts. Golf with other clubs than putters is not allowed on our playgrounds in Newton, but clock golf is now being tried out, since the upkeep of such a game is very inexpensive. Such clocks may be established on other playgrounds should the games prove a success at Newton Centre.

The concert and dance conducted by the Newton Circle Incorporated and the Playground Department jointly, attracted several people on the Stearns Playground last week.

At the Stearns concert, His Honor, Mayor Childs, Playground Commissioner Brewer, Mrs. Lodge with a number of friends, Mrs. Wellman and a great number of others were very interested spectators. The general talk among spectators and the people pointed out that these dances are very popular. The only regret which was voiced seemed to be that these dances come so seldom.

Plato said, "The play of children has the mightiest influence on the observance or nonobservance of laws." On the playground the boy, not only gains health and vigor, of mind and body, but learns respect for law and order. He learns by doing things. This develops the hand and the head as well and welds him into a law-abiding citizen. It is this social side of playground work which pays. Here the boy learns to make his own choice of right or wrong of fair and foul. By meeting his mates in fair combat he absorbs citizenship.

REAL ESTATE

J. J. Conley sold to Arthur T. Nelson a lot of land on the western side of Centre street, Newton Centre, consisting of about 3,000 feet for the erection of a block of stores, construction of which has already begun.

John A. Cousens and E. B. Bishop, trustees of Horace Cousens' estate, have sold to Sara K. Wheeler, a lot of land on the northerly side of Warren street, Newton Centre, containing 9,300 square feet, valued at $1,500. The purchaser will erect a 2-family house for his own occupancy.

W. C. Bray, executor of the estate of Elizabeth F. Gross, has sold to Henry B. Hill, 52 Institution avenue, corner of Broadland avenue, Newton Centre, consisting of a single frame house, stable, and 19,342 square feet of land assessed for $7,000, of which $3,500 is on the buildings and $3,500 on the land.

The estate of Florence B. Nettleton has sold to Allen J. Wilson the estate at 805 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, consisting of a large single house, a 2-car garage, and 17,120 square feet of land assessed for $10,500, of which $3,000 is on the land and $7,500 on the buildings. There was also included in this sale the adjoining lot of 16,690 feet, taxed for $2,800. The new owner bought for occupancy.

Alvord Brothers were the brokers in the above transactions.

STREET RAILWAY WAGES TO BE ARBITRATED

Charles R. Gow, a leading Boston general contractor whose home is in West Roxbury, has been definitely selected as the third member of the board of arbitration that will decide the difference on the wage question between the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway and the Carmen's Union.

The first hearing was given by the board on Thursday. As the agreement between the two parties to the dispute expired on July 1, it is somewhat important that the matter be settled at once.

The first tentative offer made by the company was a reduction of 20 per cent in the existing wages of the uniformed men, who are getting a maximum of 60 cents an hour. This was definitely refused, and another offer of this time a formal offer of a cut of nine cents an hour, was also declined.

The sentiment at the last meeting of the Union seemed to be against accepting any cut. It is probable, however, that the decision of the board will be in the nature of a compromise, although of course it is impossible to say which party it will favor.

FLORIDA AS IS

Wednesday morning we reached Bradentown, the home of Mr. George E. Hooper, to whose energy and enthusiasm the Association is indebted for the invitation to the State and the arrangements for the trip.

After a good breakfast at the Manavista Hotel where the manager had a unique system for the prevention of crowding into the dining room, we found the usual collection of automobiles waiting us. Bradentown is situated on the Manatee river, near its entrance into the Gulf of Mexico and is already beginning to attract many who desire winter homes on the West Coast. Undoubtedly in time it will become a serious rival of St. Petersburg as a winter resort. It is a well laid out and apparently progressive little city or rather three cities, the other two settlements Manatee and Palmetto, being so close at hand as to be virtually one community and indeed, legal steps are now being taken to combine the three into one municipality. Our morning drive took us to the shore of the Sarasota Bay, one of the familiar sounds that border the entire coast of Florida. Here at a little fishing village named Cortez, we had an out door fish fry for lunch which was enjoyed by everyone. In the afternoon we visited Manatee, and our driver took us on a special journey into the woods to see the remains of what is called Braden's castle, a mournful looking ruin of crumbling lime stone. Later we saw some marvellous farms at Palmetto and Terra Ceia, where it is said three crops are raised every year, celery, tomatoes and corn. Land is worth from $1000 to $1500 an acre and difficult to purchase at that price. We were shown a grape fruit orchard consisting of 94 rows of trees, each row being a mile in length. The soil unlike that of the rest of the state, is a rich black loam. It is odd to the New Englander to see but few grass lawns, but the flowers are most beautiful, the hibiscus, the state flower, being particularly prominent.

The day was perfect and we were told that the climate was the source of pride of every citizen. The trade winds from the Gulf blow from 10 A. M. to 7 A. M., leaving but three hours in the early morning when there is no breeze. It is said that there is no record of any person being sun struck in Florida.

The roads are very good, the material being sea shells dredged from the bottom of the river. We also saw a pottery shop where the clay which was used was also obtained from the river bottom. There are many brick pavements, the brick being laid directly on a base of sand without cement.

Those of our party who were religiously inclined took some interest in the tent of the Pentecostal Faith, otherwise known as the "Holy Rollers". We also noted biblical inscriptions printed on many a wall and bridge.

We also paid a short visit to the Royal Palm Nurseries in the adjoining village of Oneco. Here were plant houses covering over five acres and filled with all kinds of new and rare plants from all over the world and there are more than 1500 distinct species of plants now being grown. A beautiful bougainvillea tree in full flower was the center of attractions for most of us. The entire property covers 170 acres.

FIRE BUG CAUGHT

Perpetrator of Recent Fires Thought To Be Insane

Frederick A. Price, electrician, of Roxbury, the confessed "firebug" who has terrorized Newton and Brookline with his activities and threats, was taken to the Cambridge Jail Monday afternoon by Inspector Shaughnessy, who was in the main responsible for the arrest.

Price faint on the witness stand that morning when he was arraigned on three counts brought by the Newton police. He was held in bonds of $15,000 on the counts, one of breaking and entering and two of attempted arson.

Price appeared to be in pain while speaking in court and fainted while pleading to the charges. His wife, a small, demure woman, was present, but Price was apparently unconscious of it, never looking at her. He is obviously in poor physical condition. He is 42 years old and was born in Hyde Park. He has steadily worked at his trade of electrician.

That Price is responsible for many hitherto unexplained blazes in Jamaica Plain, Brookline and Newton is shown by his conversation with officers of the Newton Police Department, to whom he confessed incendiary activities in all those cities. He also said it was he who sent a postal card recently to Fire Chief Randlett, of Newton threatening to burn 20 houses during the month of July in Newton alone. The card was signed from "Me—Big Chief."

Price will be held for the Grand Jury and will come to trial with many other indictments against him, if the different Police Departments can satisfy themselves that he is really the man they have been seeking.

A factor that might keep him out of court is his mental condition. He has been examined and found to be quite sane, but his actions since his

TWO MEN DROWNED

Fatal Accident in Charles River Near Norumbega Tower.

James Obiton, an employee of the Wales Co. of Newton Centre, and Edward H. Hudson of 1477 Beacon street, Brookline were drowned Sunday afternoon when the canoe in which they were paddling on the Charles River tipped over about opposite Norumbega Tower at one of the deepest spots on the river. Both men are colored.

After nearly an hour's grappling, the bodies were recovered by the police and taken to the Metropolitan Park Police station. Medical Examiner George L. West pronounced death due to accidental drowning.

At the time of the accident hundreds of canoes were on the water nearby, but the men disappeared so quickly that no one had a chance to save them. Neither of the men made any outcry.

Shafer Johnson of 383 Boylston street, Boston, dived from another canoe in an attempt to rescue the men, but was unable to reach them.

arrest and his wild statements when asked why he set the fires have created an opinion that he is afflicted mentally. If definite signs of insanity appear, he may be remanded to an asylum.

LETTERS FROM FRANCE

Newton Lad With Harvard Glee Club Relates His Experiences

Paris, France, June 30, 1921.

Dear M—

As you may see by the enclosed clippings (from "Le Matin" and "Le Petit Parisien") Paris has gone wild over us. We never dreamed of any such reception as we have been accorded everywhere here. We simply haven't had a minute to ourselves at any time. We have been almost everywhere, done almost everything, and still we have to turn down invitation after invitation. Our first official concert was a huge success. A Frenchman told me yesterday, quite sincerely, "We thought at first that you were coming over here for a good time, but we see now that it is to astonish the world." Imagine "Doc" Davison being called "maestro". Tonight we have another concert in the "Salle Gaveau" the same place our first one was held, and tomorrow night still another.

Last Sunday we sang three things at Pontainebleau palace, a part of which is being turned into a Franco-American school of music. Widor and Saint Saens were both there, and there was much enthusiasm. Yesterday we went to Versailles, but as there is an account of that in one of the papers I won't go into details. Those old palaces don't look like much from the outside except from the extent of ground that they cover, but you can't imagine the richness, the splendor of the halls and chambers inside. And such paintings you never saw! I've got a whole raft of postcards of the different places we've visited, so I can show you something about them when we get home.

The other day, we paid a visit to Veronoff the famous monkey-gland specialist. He explained his theories to us very simply—and showed us the results of some of his experiments on dogs and goats and sheep, and then showed us lantern slides and moving pictures of the work he has done. It was wonderful and intensely interesting. There was also another famous specialist there whose name I can't remember, who has done so much work with the movements of the body. He showed us moving pictures of athletes pole-vauling, running, jumping, putting the shot, and throwing the discus, and also one of the artists of the French ballet dancing taken by one of those high speed cameras which makes the motion greatly retarded when the picture is thrown on the screen.

July 3. Yesterday morning I went down to an early-mass at Notre Dame. Later, I went up in one of the towers. You have to tip everybody in France, so I tipped two or three old women who were hanging around the tower and they took me all over the place, or rather told me where to go and how, and let me do it myself. The ascent was by a long steep, and in places pitch dark spiral stairway of stone—everything is of stone here—a house of wood is practically unheard of—and after two or three false landings I discovered that I was about two-thirds of the way up. I sat down a minute to rest, then went on up to the top. But when I got to the top it was certainly worth the climb. Next to the Eiffel Tower or an aeroplane, it is the best view you could possibly get of Paris. And the view of the church itself is almost the most interesting. There is a regular city of gargoyles on all parts of the cathedral and some of them are certainly the most grotesque imaginable. I got some very good post cards of them, which I know you will be interested to see.

And while I am still talking about the cathedrals we sang at St. Eustache this morning. It was quite an experience and goats and sheep, and then

That evening we partook of dinner in a large tent at Palmetto followed by some good speeches and an excellent entertainment. I recall one phrase of the principal booster for that part of the state, to the effect, that Palmetto shipped its products by the "train load" and not by the "car load."

I doubt if any member of our party even knew of the existence of such a place as Polk County, previous to our trip to Florida, and I also believe that not a single person who enjoyed the entertainment furnished on that Thursday, will ever forget it.

While every one met in our trip about the state was hospitable itself, yet, somehow the good people of Polk County seemed to have it in the superlative degree.

We breakfasted at Pierce, in the big loft of a large phosphate company and immediately afterwards climbed aboard a train of flat cars and made a trip to the phosphate mines, where the company was taking out 1500 tons per day of what is known as "pebble phosphate," used as the basis of a commercial fertilizer.

The phosphate is mined by taking off the top layer of earth, usually about ten feet in depth and when uncovered is washed out with a heavy stream of water and carried to a centre well, from which it is pumped up to the separators, then screened and sifted until only the phosphate remains.

This company also has a large stock farm in the immediate vicinity and in passing thru to take our automobiles, we saw some of its high graded stock.

Polk County knows how to entertain and even our large party of nearly 400 did not phase its Chamber of Commerce officials. It was the only place on our trip where preliminary plans were made to avoid the rush and confusion in obtaining automobiles. With a program covering 125 miles, it was necessary to have some system and it worked exceedingly well. The evening previous each member of our party was given a card indicating the number of the division and the number of car he or she was expected to take the next morning, and so all we had to do was to find the right car, and as each car was placarded in large numbers, it was an easy matter to get speedily located.

I was fortunate enough to be assigned to the car of the Chief Marshal and led the procession, which was called a motorcade. Part of the 400 miles of paved roads of the country are but nine feet wide and in passing cars coming in the opposite direction it is necessary to drive with two wheels in the sand alongside. To obviate this as much as possible, there were two motor cyclists ahead of us, who stepped approaching cars and requested them to turn out and allow our party to pass without leaving the pavement, and this request was usually granted in a most courteous manner. We only noted one flagrant instance of discourtesy and that was on the part of the rural postman, who was travelling in the same direction as ourselves and undoubtedly got all he wanted in the way of horns demanding the right to pass by over 130 automobiles.

Our way led by acres of orange and grape fruit groves, most of them fairly young trees, but fragrant with perfume, and every moment was one of delight. I fell in love with Florida on that day and shall always recall it with the greatest pleasure.

The first stop was at Bartow the county seat, where the ladies regaled us with orange juice and also with lemonade. Around Bartow are large farms of cabbages, acre upon acre being under cultivation and all of them watered by an overhead sprinkler system. We were told that 400 crates of cabbages were produced on one acre of Bartow land.

Our division had lunch at the Highland Park clubhouse, the other three divisions being entertained at Hillcrest Lodge, Mountain Lake park and Lake Wales. The first three of these are development propositions about on the same lines, that of Mountain Lake being the oldest and most expensive. Indeed it was said that only millionaires could become members of that particular club. You become a member of these clubs by purchasing an orange grove, which the promoters have to sell at this entire time.

Indeed it was said that only millionaires could become members of that particular club. In the afternoon we visited Haines city, Lake Hamilton, Frost Proof and Lake Alfred with more orange juice and oranges and grape fruit galore. Our evening meal was provided at the packing house of the Lucerne Citrus Company, where we were shown the methods used in packing oranges and grape fruit, and which I will describe in a later article.

The after dinner speeches were far better than the average and we were told many things of interest about oranges and other citrus fruits.

After dinner the party returned to Lakeland for the night.

I missed something of the evening's program as news of the death of a friend made it necessary for me to reach Lakeland as early as possible and I had a wonderful auto ride of over 20 miles that evening thru the country where the fragrance of the orange blossoms and the beauty of the moon made a combination hard to equal. Something of the exceeding hospitality of Floridians came to me personally on this ride, when the owner of the car who had volunteered to take me to Lakeland, and whom I had not met until an hour before, casually asked me how I was fixed for money, and offered to advance me some if I needed it. It is not every one who would make such an offer to a complete stranger whom he might never see again. I recall this little incident with great pleasure as the close of a perfect day.

and grapefruit groves, the blossoms of which send out a fragrance during the late winter months which pervade the whole atmosphere, and the golden fruit delights the eye and satisfies the taste during the entire fall, winter and spring; rolling hills, from the tops of which and looking over the valleys nestling below a wonderful vista is seen; thousands of acres of winter vegetables of all kinds; the luscious strawberries supplying the Christmas market; stock, dairy and poultry farms, native grasses and forage crops in their luxuriance all the year round; beautiful farm houses, reached by and connected with splendid asphalt highways; fine, clean, modern towns ranging in population from a few hundred to ten thousand, with high-class schools, churches, up-to-date stores, public utilities and all that go to make up high-class modern communities.

It ships more than three million boxes of citrus fruits each year and averages 2,000 car loads of winter vegetables.

Polk County contains 1907 square miles, has 43,000 population (about the same as the City of Newton) and has a tax rate of 32 mills on a 25% valuation.

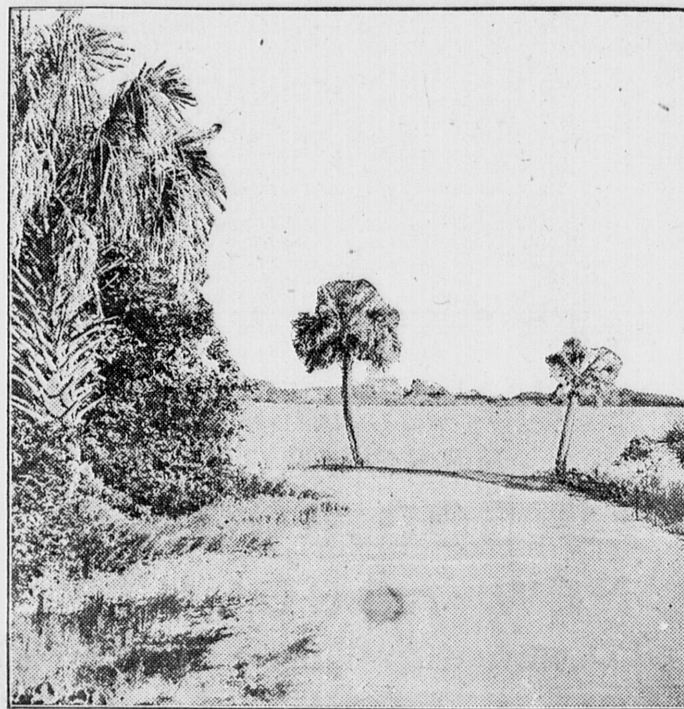

As you leave this pleasant section of the state, you see the kind words at the county line, "Good bye, Hurry back", a sentiment which had the hearty approval of every member of our party.

LETTERS FROM FRANCE

ence just to hear the echoes of our voices after we stopped singing. It is easy to see now why all the old choral music was so stiff and formal. It certainly would lose all essence of formality in those great cloisters as it echoes and re-echoes.

This afternoon we are going to the reception and dance at the Palais de l'Elysee. Tomorrow we wind up in Paris with a grand concert at the Trocadero which will be attended by over 5000 people.

Last night and all yesterday Paris was in a hubbub over the Dempsey-Carpentier fight—and the papers have been anything else. As soon as the news of the outcome reached here, a huge plane circled over the city dropping rockets and millions of paper leaflets telling of Dempsey's victory. The French took the news like good sports, but it was easy to see they were terribly disappointed.

Dijon, July 6, 1921.

Just a few lines before the concert which comes in half an hour. (The net proceeds of all these concerts are given to reconstruction or charitable work) We came down yesterday from Paris. It was quite hot, but as we began to get into the higher altitude the air became very fresh and invigorating and as the day began to wane the heat lessened so altogether it was not very uncomfortable.

This afternoon we went out to Plombier the town where Count Cavour met Napoleon III and got France's aid against Austria towards the unification of Italy. It was just like the average French town, a group of houses around the Mairie, but it had a very beautiful little canal running through it bordered by poplars, which was quite impressive. The way out and back was quite pretty—along a beautiful valley, every foot of which was under cultivation, wheat, oats, potatoes, all kinds of grain, and many other varieties, all set out in the orderly checkerboardish French way. We made the trip with a horse and buggy. Our concert at the Trocadero was immense. Nearly 5000 people were there almost entirely filling the great hall.

Tomorrow we leave for Nancy, and as that is only a short way from Toul, we ought to see where some of the American fighting men got.

Nancy, July 9.

We left Dijon for Nancy last Wednesday. When we got to the station here, we found a crowd of almost 2000 people to meet us. They had American and French flags all over the city, and the students of the University of Nancy were there en masse to greet us. We went right to our hotels and had supper for it was after six o'clock, and then we met at the Grand Hotel for further instructions. We turned in early that night in order to get plenty of sleep, and the next day they took us all over the place and out over the battlefields as far as Lunéville, in automobiles. The first place we visited was an old church built in the 12th century where Stanislas, who is the George Washington of Nancy, is buried. Then they took us out to some salt mines, and down into them, showed us how salt is mined by the old and new methods, and ended up by taking us into a big hall hewn out of the salt, and all decorated and gave us champagne and cakes. After we left the salt mine, they took us to an old farm house on the top of a hill near Leumont. This hill they told us, had been taken and retaken 25 times by the French and German armies in two weeks, back in 1914. The house which had evidently once been a splendid one, was a heap of debris, and the top of the hill was scarred with trenches, half filled in. From the top of this hill, you could see Nancy and the valley and a great many other smaller towns—it was quite a commanding position. Then we went on to Lunéville and had lunch. About half the city was in ruins (the Germans burned as much as they could of it before they evacuated it), but a great many of the houses have been rebuilt.

After lunch, we went on out to the American cemetery, where the first American soldiers lie who were killed in the war. On the way we passed several villages which had been absolutely razed. I was astonished to see how rapidly the work of reconstruction has been going on. All the barbed wire has been cleaned out of the fields (they told us that was done by the German prisoners) and piled up by the side of the road in great heaps. From a little distance, it looks exactly like dry brush piled up along the road, but when you get close you see it is all a great tangle of barbed wire, and there is mile upon mile of it—it must have been a tremendous job to clean it all up. Another thing that surprised me was to see all the fields under cultivation. All through the war zone, except those places where "dud" shells have not yet been uncovered, there are fields of wheat, oats, barley, hops, and vegetables of all kinds. This is just the season for the wheat harvest, and you see a lot of it being cut and done up into sheaves to be taken in. It is certainly marvelous to see the rapidity with which these things have all been cleaned up. Nancy itself underwent a rather severe bombardment by land and air, but you have to hunt to find the places that were hit now.

At the American cemetery in—where the first American soldiers killed in the war are buried the French have erected a beautiful monument to them. It is right in the midst of a devastated village, just opposite a little church of which nothing but the walls, part of the tower and a crucifix on one of the walls which has had one of the arms (the right) and that part of the cross which supported it blown off, that is all that is left of a once beautiful chapel. The cemetery is plain, but well kept, which is really remarkable considering the ruin all around it, and the American flag, the Star Spangled Banner, floats over it, all the time. The monument was covered with wreaths, and we added ours to the rest, with a Harvard banner tied to it. After they put the wreath in place, the Club sang the old chant "De Profundis"—"Out of the deep have I called unto Thee, O Lord," etc. It was really very impressive and very touching. The peasants and the workmen who were rebuilding the town all came down and stood around listening as we sang, and the whole atmosphere was one of homage and reverence to the dead.

This morning after a rehearsal, we went up to the world famous thermal baths for a swim. The water comes from a sulphur spring at a temperature of 85 degrees F. We had quite a time. We have a reception at the Hotel de Ville in twenty minutes, and this evening we give a concert at the Grand Theatre de Nancy and leave tomorrow at 6 A. M. for Verdun.

La Citadelle, Verdun, July 10, 1921

We left Nancy at 6:40 A. M. today and got here about 10 o'clock. On the way we came through St. Mihiel where the Americans made the big drive and took so many prisoners during the last months of the war. The town was practically leveled, but a very few buildings were rebuilt. Just after we left the town, we went through quite a section of battlefields. Barbed wire entanglements, shell holes, trenches and everything—only a bit of the land that had not been so badly shot up was under cultivation. And at that the country was not so badly devastated. Of course, all the homes were blown to bits, but most of the terrain was quite usable. While it lasted, the fighting here was terrific, but the ground was not fought over for so long a time as those of Verdun.

And as for Verdun—when the war ended, there wasn't a house or a building anywhere that hadn't been hit at least once, and most of them are no more than a pile of bricks. A few of the most important buildings have been rebuilt and the work of reconstruction is going on rapidly, but it will be a long time before things can ever be brought back to normal again. If you can imagine town after town and city after city razed to the ground the way the buildings of Salem were after the big fire there, only with evidences everywhere of the terrific bombardment of years—holes blown in walls, streets, etc., great chunks gouged out here and there by sharp shells and everywhere the debris of once beautiful buildings—a city the size of Newton, and many of them, well, you may be able to get a small idea of what it was. From one place, we could look across a valley to a hill about as far away as from the Asquith House to the Peak of Fayal (about a mile and a quarter) it was just to the other side of that hill that the Germans came before the French were able to check them. Imagine the feelings of the people who were living under ground, in the Citadel, whose houses had been shot to pieces, whose brothers and kinsfolk were over yonder in that hell on earth, and who were every minute in expectation that the Huns would break through and be upon them! This is not such a very long way from Paris, yet how different it is! The gay whirl of Paris society, etc., is some contrast to the dogged determination with which these people are repairing the damages as best they can.

We are staying in the Citadel, 100 feet underground. There are no hotels in Verdun able to accommodate us, in fact, I don't believe there are any hotels here. We are living where the people lived during the war, and they are doing everything possible to make us comfortable. This afternoon and tomorrow we are going to visit the battlefields. Tonight we give a concert here, and Tuesday we leave for Strasbourg.

July 11. En route to Strasbourg. Yesterday afternoon and this morning, we took a tour of the battlefields. It simply can't be described, it's too horrible. These battlefields around Verdun are where the fiercest fighting of the war took place. There were once a million men killed here, and the battlefields are veritable graveyards. Yesterday we went to the famous "Dead Men's Hill," and this morning we visited the forts of Douaumont and Vaux—the town of Fleury (which if the major who led us around had not told us had been there, we never would have known it. Even the bricks and mortar were blown to bits) The Trench of Bayonets, where the French soldiers were buried alive by the terri-sic shellfire, leaving the ends of their guns and their bayonets sticking above the surface. At Douaumont, as far as we could see there was no tree alive over 3 feet high.

It is very difficult to write as the team moves, so I will stop. We are going to be in Metz for supper and will stay there for two hours. Then we go on to Strasbourg and will get there late tonight.

I can't begin to tell you about the battlefields in a letter, there is too much to say, but when I get back, I'll show you some pictures of it, and tell you more about them.

LAND COURT.

To Edward C. Street, Harriet B. Cardell, Arthur E. Snyder and Mildred J. Snyder, of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by J. Abbott Clark, of Somerville, in said County of Middlesex, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situate in said Newton, bounded and described as follows:

Southwesterly by Waban Avenue one hundred and four (104) feet; Northwesterly by land now or formerly of Arthur E. Snyder et al. one hundred fifty and 23/100 (150.23) feet; Northeasterly by land now or formerly of Edward C. Street, one hundred (100) feet; and Southeasterly by land now or formerly of Harriet B. Cardell, one hundred forty five and 74/100 (145.74) feet.

The above described land is shown on plan No. 142B filed with the Land Court and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the twenty-second day of August, A. D. 1921, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty fifth day of July in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-one.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

CLARENCE C. SMITH, Recorder.

EDITORIAL

Coming events cast their shadows before, and the announcement of increased tax rates from various cities and towns of Massachusetts should cause Newton taxpayers to prepare for an increase in the present high rate. From the size of the city budget, a heavy increase in the county expenses, a reduction in the income usually received from the state, it doesn't take a prophet or the son of a prophet to predict what is coming to the city of Newton.

Summer homes at the shore or country have been at a premium the past few weeks with the long continued hot and sultry weather.

ANOTHER MILITARY FUNERAL

The body of Francis M. M. McLaughlin has arrived in this city and will lie in state at the West Newton Army from 6 o'clock this evening until 2 o'clock on Sunday. At that time it will be placed on a caisson and guarded by his former comrades will be taken to Newton Upper Falls, where after short services at St. Mary's Church, it will be placed in the Needham Cemetery.

All former comrades of Private McLaughlin are requested to meet at 2.30 P. M., Sunday, at the corner of Circuit avenue and Elliot street, Upper Falls.

Private McLaughlin was the son of Mr. James McLaughlin of Hale street, Upper Falls, and was one of the youngest members of Co. C, 101st Infantry, being only 18 years of age at the time of his death. He was shot at Chateau-Thierry on July 20, 1918, and died the next day in the field hospital.

JULY HEALTH WINNERS ENJOY A TREAT

The Newton Welfare Bureau co-operating with Mr. Hermann, Playgrounds Supervisor, is to provide an outing Friday afternoon of this week for a group consisting of six representatives from each of thirteen playgrounds.

The children have been chosen by the directors of the playgrounds for their careful attention to the Health rules. A truck has been furnished by the Playgrounds Department to take the children to Newton.

Mr. Callahan of the Newton Opera House has generously agreed to admit the children at a nominal rate that they may see some Health Motion Pictures. The Newton Welfare Bureau has hired these reels from the Massachusetts Tuberculosis Association and Mr. Callahan expects to show them at several performances.

Another outing of a different nature is to be held the latter part of August. The honor of attending this may be competed for by any member of the Health Clubs. Those not successful in reaching the standard for this occasion on Friday may still look forward to another opportunity when they may be winners.

NORUMBEGA PARK

The terrific hot weather that we have experienced in the past week has not lessened the attendance at New England's favorite summer resort, Norumbega Park, as the cooling breezes from the Charles River make an afternoon or evening enjoyably well spent. The amusements are of the variety which amuse from the youngest to the oldest. The coming week will have a stage show that is almost incomparable. The outstanding feature for next week will be Manuel Romaine and his two sons in a vocal specialty.

The other acts on the bill will be Gifford & Long, singing comedy and talking; Marie Rocko and partner, a hand balancing act; and other big variety specialties. The feature photoplay for the first three days will be one of Paramount's latest releases, entitled "Sentimental Tommy," featuring Gareth Hughes and Mabel Taliaferro. For the last three days will be seen one of Cosmopolitan's picture successes, entitled "Humoresque." Fire works are given every Friday night, weather permitting, after the stage show, and the other attractions are in full swing, including the popular dancing in the restaurant.

TELL YOU WHERE TO GO BOOK

Colpitts, Beekman Company, 281 Washington street, Boston, have prepared an 80-page illustrated catalogue giving detailed itineraries of summer tours to Niagara Falls, Hudson river, Lake Champlain, Nova Scotia, Great Lakes—in fact, anywhere one wishes to go. These trips are independent or personally conducted. The catalogue is not for sale, but free as the water you sail on, and it makes very interesting reading.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

Usually with the unusual hot weather, playground attendance falls off. This is due to the cautiousness of parents, who are afraid that their children will overdo. As a whole, however, the perspiring child having started a good wholesome perspiration is better able to stand the heat than a child which isn't perspiring. In Newton this past week, playground attendance went up in spite of the hot weather.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Seaver and Miss Herrick took about 75 children to the Newton Opera House to attend a specially arranged program for the children. The children who went are the prize winners on the playgrounds. The program will include special pictures, a comedy, wholesome for children, and the play "Black Beauty," "Jinks," and "Modern Health Crusade."

On Tuesday morning the men and women directors in charge of playgrounds, about thirty, met on the Newton Centre Playground for special instruction and for practice of games. The instruction covered Health work, Occupation work, playground conduct, and discipline. Among the games practiced were the following: Croquet, iron quoits, dodge ball, slug ball, and fist ball. It was a long and continuous program so that many had to finish with a good stiff shower bath.

The unusual hot weather has brought record crowds to all the different places in Newton, not only to the outdoor places as Auburndale, Upper Falls, Allison and Crystal Lake, but also at the different places where shower baths are in use. The capacity of the building was naturally quite over-taxed and many youngsters could not wait for their turns in the building and consequently used the method of the old-fashioned swimming hole, of dressing in the bushes. This may not always meet with the approval of those who happen to look on, but under the trying conditions of the weather the guards in charge of the different places try their best to keep everybody up to the rules and regulations, but numbers were against them.

DEATH OF MR. WINGATE

Mr. James I. Wingate, a resident of this city for the past 14 years, died last Wednesday evening at his home on Oak Ridge, Auburndale. Mr. Wingate was born in Gorham, Me., June 4, 1837, the son of John and Sophronia (Irish) Wingate. He was educated in that place and came to Boston when 17 years of age and worked at his trade as a painter.

In 1860 he established himself in the business now known as James I. Wingate & Son of Boylston street, Boston, and has remained the senior partner until his death.

Mr. Wingate represented a Boston district in the legislature in 1901-1902. He was a member of various Masonic organizations and the I. O. O. F., in which he filled the office of grand patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Massachusetts. He took an active interest in the Master Builders' Association of Boston and was one of its founders, and at the time of his death was the oldest living ex-president, having been the third man to serve as president. He was a member also of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' Association.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Laura M. Wingate, Mr. Wingate is survived by a son, Frank E. Wingate, his partner in business.

The funeral services will be held from his late home on Oak Ridge, Auburndale, tomorrow at 2.30 P. M.

SOLDIER BURIED

The body of Edward E. Thomas of the 101st Infantry, who died in France during the World War, was buried at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, Sunday afternoon. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Thomas of Newton, former residents of Wollaston, where the young man was born.

Owing to the not over rugged health of the mother, a military funeral and burial was dispensed with and the burial was accompanied only by the religious service by Rev. Dr. Isaiah W. Sneath, pastor of the Wollaston Congregational Church.

The Dignity of Thrift

THE man who saves his money shows respect for himself and for the work of his brain and his hands. There is dignity in thrift, there is independence and escape from the fear of want. Other things being equal, the man or woman who saves steadily is the happier for it and more valuable to the community. To such people this institution extends its facilities.
